HOUSE LIKELY TO AIR LITTLETON CHARGES

Congressman Unfit to be on Steel Committee, Anti-Trust League Secretary Will Respond.

MARTIN DENIES 'BEAR' PLOT

And He Sees David Lamar, Stock Manipulator, Just as One Gentleman Meets Another.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Developments of to-day make it altogether likely that there will be a thorough sifting of the charges on both sides in the Stanley-Littleton controversy over the continuance of the investigation by the Stanley committee into the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. Littleton said this afternoon that when the House meets next Monday he will rise on a question of personal privilege and state his case, demanding that there be an investigation by the Stanley committee itself. He declares that the charges against him, made by Henry B. Martin, Secretary of the so-called "Anti-Trust League," constitute an attack not only upon his own integrity, but upon the integrity of the whole committee as well, and he describes as absurd and puerile the contention of Mr. Stanley that the committee is without power to protect its own integrity. Consequently the matter is sure to have a thorough airing.

At the same time there may be a move by Mr. Martin tending in the same direction. Mr. Martin said this evening that he and his associates were already busy formulating charges against Mr. Littleton which would be filed with the House on Monday, asserting that Mr. Littleton is unfit to be a member of the investigating committee, and that he has disqualified himself by his actions on the committee. Martin declared that the Anti-Trust League would urge upon the House a thorough investigation of the whole matter by a special committee on the ground that it would not be fair to have the Stanley committee make the investigation because of the interest in the outcome by some of its members.

There were a good many recriminations exchanged to-day between Mr. Littleton and Mr. Martin. The Representative from Col. Roosevelt's home district denounced Mr. Martin as merely the tool and assistant of David Lamar, whom he described as a stock speculator and manipulator of bear raids in Wall Street. Mr. Littleton declared that he had ample evidence to prove that Mr. Martin and Mr. Lamar are working hand in glove, and that their chief object is to bring about situations by which one stock or another may be depressed a few points for the benefit of bear operators. He said that repeated incidents in the course of the Steel investigation tended to show the accuracy of this charge, and that he had plenty of evidence of the constant association of Mr. Martin and Mr. Lamar in New York.

Mr. Littleton charged specifically that Mr. Martin had constantly reported to Mr. Lamar the course of events in Washington, especially the confidential affairs of the Stanley Committee. He said that Mr. Martin is thoroughly in the counsels of Chairman Stanley, and is always aware, not only of what the committee does, even in its executive sessions, but frequently has shown knowledge of what Mr. Stanley intended to have the committee do. He charges that Mr. Martin habitually gave Mr. Lamar this advance information. Mr. Littleton declares that Mr. Martin had been working for years to bring about an investigation of the Steel Corporation, and had approached different Senators to induce them to introduce resolutions calling for one.

There is one point on which Mr. Littleton and Mr. Martin agree—that is, that it was Mr. Littleton's opposition to a continuance of the investigation (now that the Government has brought suit against the Steel Corporation) which inspired the attacks against him by Mr. Martin. The Anti-Trust League Secretary said to-night that he had been suspicious of the Congressman for some time, but it was Mr. Littleton's opposition that convinced him that the Congressman was unfit for membership on the Stanley Committee. Mr. Martin denies he has ever had any association whatever, for any cause whatever, with David Lamar. He admitted knowing Mr. Lamar and seeing him when in New York, but he denied that he had anything whatever to do with Mr. Lamar's stock speculations or any other speculations. When first questioned on this point he merely denied that he was associated with Mr. Lamar to bear Steel stock, but when questioned further he made his denial broad.

On another point Mr. Martin agreed with Mr. Littleton. That was that he had been working for years to get an investigation of the Steel Corporation. He said that as long ago as September, 1901, when Secretary Knox was Attorney General, he filed with the Department of Justice, on behalf of the Anti-Trust League, a sworn statement of charges against the Steel Corporation, and had then proffered evidence to substantiate the charges—evidence, he declared to-night, which would have made a complete case. He said that Mr. Knox promised to look into the matter and inform him of the result, but failed to keep the promise.

Mr. Littleton had charged that Mr. Martin's Anti-Trust League was a nebulous organization, and that Mr. Martin had refused to give the names of its members or the source of its supplies of money. Mr. Martin replied to this that it was true he had refused to name the members, because many years of experience in fighting trusts had demonstrated to him the folly of such a course. He said that to name the men who are supporting the league would be merely to subject them to all the attacks and injuries which the ingenuity of the trusts could devise. He declared that the Anti-Trust League had a long record of efficient service in fighting trusts, and specified contests with the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trust, the Joint Traffic Association, the Eastern Railway Association, the Temple Iron Company, the bituminous coal combination and others. He gave his league the chief credit for the Government prosecutions in all these cases, and declared that it was the work of his organization which was chiefly responsible for the establishment of the Bureau of Corporations, asserting that that bureau would be a better and more efficient organization if it had been created along the lines he laid down instead of on a modified plan.

Inquiry to-day among Senators and members of the House disclosed the fact that there is widespread distrust of Mr. Martin and his motives. Expressions of that character came from Republicans and Democrats, progressives as well as reactionaries. Mr. Martin himself confirms one of the charges of Mr. Littleton, that he (Mr. Martin) is in a position of influence with the Stanley committee. Mr. Martin says that when the Stanley committee was selected he had opposed the appointment of Mr. Littleton.

"I thought he was not fit to serve on that committee," said Martin, "because he had been working for the trusts so long. But he begged to be named and he promised me that he could and would

CONFER AGAIN ON SUBWAYS.

City Officials Hear More Reasons for Not Slighting the Pennsylvania.

Another conference on the subway situation was held last night at the home of Borough President McAneny, 19 East Forty-seventh Street. Once more the representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad laid before the Subway Committee of the Board of Estimate and Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission their feeling that the city, in constructing new subways, should consider the needs of the Pennsylvania Station in Seventh Avenue.

The conference was held after a dinner given by Mr. McAneny, the guests at which were Samuel Rea, Vice President of the Pennsylvania; H. P. Davison of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., Morgan J. O'Brien, counsel for the Pennsylvania; Chairman Willcox, Controller Prendergast, and President Mitchel of the Aldermen. The Interborough Rapid Transit Company was not directly represented, and ex-Mayor Seth Low, who participated in some of the earlier conferences, was not present.

The discussion was long and the gathering did not break up until after midnight. Nothing was announced as to the details of the debate, but it was declared that the Pennsylvania representatives laid before the city officials statistics to show the necessity of something being done, and there was a careful consideration of the routes that have already been adopted by the Board of Estimate and the use that might be made of them in serving the Pennsylvania station.

Chairman Willcox has suggested that the revival of the plan to construct a moving stairway along Thirty-fourth Street so as to connect with all the north and south Subway lines, might be one way out of the difficulty. The possibility of establishing in the Pennsylvania's own tunnels a station between Fourth and Lexington Avenues, which would give easy access to the present and the Lexington Avenue subways, has been considered.

It has also been rumored that the Interborough might assent to some reduction in the rate of interest to be guaranteed it by the city as a basis for a new settlement. This would provide for the completion of the H line by the extension of the present Subway from Times Square down Seventh Avenue past the Pennsylvania Station and would leave to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company the Broadway line.

Mr. McAneny said late last night that the conference had reached no conclusion, and that further meetings would probably be held.

MASKED BOYS SHOOT FARMER

Special to The New York Times.

WEST CHESTER, Penn., Nov. 29.—Three masked boys, one not more than 12 years old, entered the home of Jefferson Shaner, one of the most prominent residents of Chester County, about half-past 6 o'clock to-night, and shot Shaner, who is 83 years old, while a terrified woman, clasping her baby to her breast, begged for mercy. The bullet went through Shaner's neck and lodged in the muscles of the shoulder. He is at the West Chester Hospital, and cannot live.

Police are searching the surrounding towns for a trace of the bandits. An armed posse started at once to the Shaner farm, which lies along the Philadelphia trolley line, just across the West Chester Borough limits. The robbers are believed to be victims of dime novel reading.

Shaner was the first Burgess of West Chester and a member of the Borough Council for years. He is Vice President of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's Association and has a wide reputation as a farmer. He lived with Walter Sylvester and his wife and child, a baby of two years.

Mrs. Sylvester saw the shooting. Her husband works in West Chester, and when she heard the door of the sitting room open she thought it was he returning. She was startled to hear the command, "Hands up!" Turning, she saw three masked youths, one very small, pointing revolvers at her. She screamed and was threatened with instant death. Shaner heard her scream, and as he ran into the room, one of the boys opened fire. The old man fell with blood streaming from his wound.

Another of the robbers threatened to kill Mrs. Sylvester's child, and she fell on her knees pleading with him not to do so. He changed his air then to one of magnanimity, and left with his two companions, one of whom had snatched Shaner's pocketbook, containing $15, from his coat.

HARVARD SPLIT ON SUFFRAGE

Refusal to Let Mrs. Pankhurst Speak Causes Much Criticism.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The refusal of the Harvard corporation to allow Mrs. Pankhurst to address the students in a college building has caused an almost unprecedented stir. The undergraduate body is split into two camps, the "sufs" and the "antis," and in class room, lecture hall, college yard, and Harvard Union suffrage and the action of the corporation is the principal topic of conversation.

The refusal, which seemed so simple a matter three days ago, is developing alarming proportions. Within that time it has entailed a protest by an undergraduate which is not lacking in general support, another from a well-known alumnus, and petitions from both graduates and undergraduates praying the corporation to reverse its judgment. Boston suffragists also have made sharp comments on the corporation's action.

A petition was prepared which will be circulated among the students as soon as they return Friday from the Thanksgiving holiday. Efforts are being made to interest Boston and New York alumni in the petition, and it is sure not to be lacking in signatures. Behind this stands the Harvard Men's Equal Suffrage League, under whose auspices Mrs. Pankhurst had been invited to speak. William Taylor Fisher, a junior of Chicago, is leading this division. Fisher arranged the address with Mrs. Pankhurst, who changed her plans materially to oblige the students.

Fisher has aired his opinion of the corporation's action in The Crimson, the undergraduate daily publication. His friends now fear he may have laid himself open to censure for having gone so far as to style the action as "distinctly mediaeval."

So far, however, the college authorities have failed to give any sign that Fisher will be called to account.

FAVORS A DIVORCE FOR UPTON SINCLAIR

HAS NO EFFECTIVE WEAPON

Since Moral Suasion Is Powerless in the "Marital Ether" Arising from "Affinity Storms"—Poet Kemp Named.

The report of Referee William S. Kelley, recommending a decree of divorce for Upton Sinclair, the novelist, from Meta H. Fuller Sinclair, was filed yesterday in the Supreme Court. Referee Kelley found Mrs. Sinclair guilty of misconduct at Arden, Del., and Sea Girt and Long Branch, N. J., in August last with Harry H. Kemp, known as the "hobo poet."

After the testimony before Referee Kelley was all in, H. B. Philbrook, attorney for Mrs. Sinclair, moved for a recommendation that the complaint be dismissed on the ground that Sinclair had knowledge of his wife's tendency to derelicitous, and that it was his duty to "protect her against the repetition of her alleged offenses, not only against outsiders, but against her own weakness." Referee Kelley denied this motion, with this comment:

"While it is true that the husband is regarded as the protector of his wife, I hardly think that the most ardent advocate on the female side would insist that a husband devote his whole time to the protection of his wife, not only from outside assaults, but from her own inclinations.

"The only weapon he is permitted to use in this enlightened age is moral suasion, a weapon of but little effect in these days of barometric depression in the marital ether, occasioned by these so-called affinity storms."

The record of the testimony shows frequent legal battles between Mr. Philbrook and George H. Gilman, counsel for Sinclair.

Sinclair was a witness, while his wife did not appear. Sinclair said he was married to her in 1900. On cross-examination, Attorney Philbrook asked Sinclair questions with a view to making him admit an agreement with his wife to procure a divorce. Sinclair emphatically denied the insinuations.

On one occasion, Sinclair said, his wife had confessed to him that she had been unfaithful. Sinclair said the man in the case was not Kemp. When his suspicions were aroused about his wife and Kemp, he said, he ceased his relations with her. He had known Kemp for three years. At first, Sinclair said, he protested both to his wife and to Kemp against doing anything which would make a scandal. Both told him that their relations were innocent and Kemp gave him his word of honor that he would cease all suspicious conduct.

Before Kemp came to Arden, Sinclair said, his wife had an aversion against sleeping in the smaller of the two houses on his land there, but after Kemp came she began to take a liking to the smaller house. This did not excite his suspicion for some time because he had such confidence in Kemp.

Ellen Burrowes, who was Sinclair's stenographer at Arden, testified that Kemp and Mrs. Sinclair were continually at the little house all day, and often remained away from the large house until after midnight, night after night. Mrs. Sinclair told her, Miss Burrowes said, that Kemp made her very happy, and that he "had the most beautiful soul in the world and she did not intend to be interfered with."

Mrs. Grace Shantz, keeper of a boarding house at Long Branch, also testified before Referee Kelley. Mrs. Shantz identified a picture of Mrs. Sinclair. She said a man who "never wore a hat" came and engaged a room at her house for himself and his wife. He told her that his wife was a very nervous woman and must have a quiet room. He engaged another room, but never occupied it, she testified. All the time the couple were at her house, she said, the woman had her meals served in her room. She had remarked to her husband:

"Those two seem to be altogether too loving to be man and wife, and she has no wedding ring."

Attorney Philbrook questioned Sinclair sharply about his feeling toward Kemp. Sinclair said he had made no outburst at Arden because he had accepted Kemp's word that his relations with Mrs. Sinclair were innocent. After his wife left him, he saw Kemp for the first time at the Hotel Imperial in New York. Attorney Philbrook asked him if he were angry on that occasion, and Sinclair responded:

"I am not accustomed to get angry."

Attorney Philbrook said he had been in communication with Mrs. Sinclair and had urged her to appear and testify. She had told, he said, that she had no witnesses in her behalf. After declaring his belief that Sinclair had failed to make out a case free from "connivance and procurement," he made his unsuccessful motion for a ruling against Sinclair.

OHIO CONFERENCE DELAYED.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29.—The conference to have been held to-day between Arthur I. Vorys, National Committeeman, from Ohio, and personal representative of President Taft and John D. Fackler, head of the progressive movement in Ohio, has been postponed until Saturday, at Mr. Vorys' request. Mr. Vorys left for Washington to-day, having been summoned there for a consultation with President Taft before his meeting with Mr. Fackler.

Enthusiastic reports have been received at the progressives' headquarters from thirty counties in the State. The names of nearly 400 Republicans ready to work to prevent Taft's re-nomination have been received from Cincinnati. Senator Moses E. Clapp and Congressman Lenroot, of Wisconsin, will be the headliners at the progressive dinner in Dayton Saturday night, intended to give impetus to the movement.

SUES MILLIONAIRE FOR LOAN.

Ross Says J. C. Trees Owes Bill Contracted When He Was Poor.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Nov. 29.—Suit was filed here to-day by John Ross, a contractor, against Joseph C. Trees, millionaire oil operator and philanthropist, for the recovery of $372 which he says he loaned Trees in 1896, when the present millionaire was poor and had just been married.

In his bill of complaint Ross says that after repeated attempts to collect the debt he met Trees on the street recently and that Trees made the following statement:

"I know I owe you the money, and I would pay you, John, because you befriended me when I hadn't anything; I would pay you, but Claudie, my wife, won't let me."

$500,000 FUND TO AID ALDRICH MONEY PLAN

BUT NO PRESSURE IS USED

National Citizens' League, Which Handles the Fund, Was Started by Merchants—John Claflin Its Head Here.

That a fund of $500,000—half of the amount named by Wharton Barker, the Philadelphia banker before the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce on Tuesday as having been started to insure the adoption of the Aldrich currency plan—is being raised by the National Citizens' League was admitted yesterday by the head of an important National bank who has been active in helping to raise the fund.

"The league has estimated that this sum will be needed to carry out its programme of education," said this banker. "Of course, all of the amount is not needed at once, but to provide for literature, speakers, and other expenditures the league has asked for this sum. New York's share is either $200,000 or $300,000, and Chicago's $100,000, while the balance of the fund has been apportioned among other cities.

"John Claflin, President of the H. B. Claflin Company, who is President of the New York State branch of the National Citizens' League, saw A. Barton Hepburn, President of the New York Clearing House, to ask for the aid of bankers in raising funds. Mr. Hepburn took the matter up with other officers of the association and a committee was formed to look after the banks' contributions. You should understand clearly, however, that the Clearing House, as an organization, has not identified itself with this movement and has never asked its members to contribute.

"No assessment has been levied upon the banks, and no pressure has been used to make any of them contribute. It was decided by the committee which is looking after this matter to ask institutions which were inclined to help the campaign for cash contributions based upon the relation of their capital, to the amount needed. Appeals have not been confined to members of the Clearing House.

"The question was immediately raised as to whether or not a bank as such had the right to make a contribution for such a purpose. Eminent counsel gave us an opinion that they have a legal right to do this.

"Part of the fund which it is felt the banks ought to raise has already been collected, and more will be asked for from time to time, as the need develops."

The National Citizens' League was formed in Chicago last Summer to further plans for reforming the currency. It was organized, not by bankers, but by merchants. It was not committed to any particular plan, but it is concentrating its strength upon the success of the main features of the Aldrich scheme. John V. Farwell of the John V. Farwell Company of Chicago is President of the National organization, and John B. Payne of the South Park Commission is Vice President. J. Lawrence Laughlin of the University of Chicago is Chairman of the Executive Committee.

Among the Directors are A. C. Bartlett of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., B. E. Sunny of the Chicago Telephone Co., Julius Rosenwald of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Cyrus H. McCormick of the International Harvester Co., John G. Shedd of Marshall Field & Co., F. A. Delano of the Wabash, Marvin Hughitt of the Chicago & Northwestern and Joseph Basch of Siegel, Cooper & Co.

State branches of the league have since been formed, John Claflin heading the New York division. Other officers of the branch here are Isidor Straus, treasurer; Irving T. Bush, chairman of the executive committee; William Sloane, chairman of the finance committee and George A. Plimpton, secretary.

Paul M. Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who, Mr. Barker declared, was the real author of the Aldrich currency plan, declined to discuss any phase of the matter yesterday. It was pointed out by others in the financial district that before the Aldrich plan was devised Mr. Warburg, in common with other bankers, had advocated in public addresses some of the principles afterward adopted.

TO PASS ON CURRENCY PLAN.

Commission Expected to Adopt It, but Legislation Is Unlikely.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The National Monetary Commission will meet on Saturday to consider the plan of currency reform proposed by former Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island.

If the commission adopts Mr. Aldrich's plan a sub-committee will probably be appointed to prepare a bill to be introduced in Congress. Some of the members of the commission, however, express doubts as to the likelihood of passing any currency legislation this session. It is believed the monetary commission will indorse the Aldrich plan.

OPENED SAFE IN THE STREET.

Left There by Burglars After Removing the Dentist's Gold.

A patrolman stationed at Second Street and First Avenue had his attention called to a "large bundle" which had been found in the street at First Avenue and First Street about 11 o'clock last night. The bundle proved to be an iron safe of small dimensions, but heavy enough to require two men to lift it. It was wrapped in packing cloth, and showed evidence of having been forced open. The name on ahe safe was Dr. O. Erdich. The only thing in the safe was some insurance papers.

Detectives from the Fifth Street Station took up the case, and finding that Dr. Erdich was a dentist, with an office at 54 East Third Street, went to that address. They found that in the rear of the office was a vacant apartment, and that through this burglars had forced an entrance to the office. An electric buzzer attached to the main door had been disconnected.

People across the street told the detectives that earlier in the evening they had seen two men come from the house carrying a large package, and that they had put their burden into a pushcart and disappeared.

Dr. Erdich could not be found last night. His brother said that the dentist kept gold for fillings and bridge work in the safe, and that there might have been some money and valuable papers besides.

DETECTIVES' BOASTS CUT SHORT BY BOMB

Bang! It Went, Shaking Headquarters as They Arraigned the Last Dynamiter.

NOBODY WAS MUCH HURT

Detectives Carrao, Dundiero, Grattano, and Castano brought a young Italian into Police Headquarters about 7 o'clock last night and marched him in front of the desk with a good deal of satisfaction.

"Here's the man that came here from Boston to take the place of Giovannia Rizzo, the milkman bomb thrower," they narrated. "It's pretty certain that he turned off those tricks in Eleventh Street recently, where a grocery and a butcher's shop were blown up, but we've got him now. We got Rizzo, and it must be pretty discouraging to his gang to have his successor collared almost as soon as he hits town. Looks as though there wouldn't be any more bomb explosions around here for a—"

"Bang!"

And the elated detectives' glad predictions were interrupted by the report of an explosion, the concussion of which shook the Headquarters building. They hustled their prisoner into a cell and went out on the run for Mulberry Street, whence the noise of the explosion had come.

The broken windows and a crowd of frightened men issuing from the two-story frame building at 149 Mulberry Street located this as the scene of the explosion. Among the crowd that hastened to the street was Brian G. Hughes, famous as a practical joker, but guiltless at least this once of any hand in the explosion which shook the building to its foundations and poured plaster from the ceiling on the heads of the diners in Vergilio Caputo's restaurant on the stoop floor.

Bits of spaghetti with its tomato sauce and wet blotches of Chianti adorned Mr. Hughes's clothing, for his dinner had been upset into his lap. He kept on going after he left the restaurant until he reached a near-by barber shop, where he had the damage to his personal appearance repaired as well as might be.

Of the rest of the crowd which fled from the partly wrecked building, some fifteen had been dining in the restaurant. The others came from the Humbert Association's rooms on the top floor. They numbered about thirty. Of them all, only Vincent Selorani of Bath Beach could throw any light on how the explosion had happened.

Selorani, a member of the club, had been playing cards, and, preparatory to leaving for his home, had gone to the washroom to cleanse his hands. This room is at the head of four steps which branch off from the main stairway leading to the club from the broad main hall on the first floor, as the arms of the letter "Y" spread away from their base. A bathroom adjoins the washroom, and is separated from it by a swinging door. The hall gives into this room first, and Selorani had passed through it on his way to the washroom. He heard some one follow him, and an instant afterward the explosion came.

Selorani was blown out on the stairs, and fell to the first floor. He did not stop to investigate, but the police, who came after things had quieted down, found that the bomb had been set in the bathtub, which it had blown into a small roll of twisted tin.

The police believe that the bomb was set off by some one holding a grudge against the Humbert Association or some of its members, perhaps a defeated candidate for admission to the club. The position of the bomb made it certain that harm had not been intended to the restaurant.

When Carrao, Dundiero, Grattano, and Castano got back to Headquarters they were ready to book the prisoner they had left behind them on the simple charge of carrying a concealed weapon. They had nothing more to say about his prowess as a dynamiter nor any more predictions to make about the ending of bomb explosions in this city. The young Italian said he was Gerolimo Vitrano of 410 East Eleventh Street. The detectives arrested him in First Avenue, between Tenth and Eleventh Streets, when they felt his pockets and found a revolver in one of them.

BABY HAS FOUR EXTRA LIMBS.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 29.—A healthy thirteen months old girl, with four arms and four legs was exhibited before a clinic at the Johns Hopkins Hospital to-day.

The infant was brought to Baltimore by its mother, Mrs. Alvira McDonnell of Lebanon Church, Va., with Dr. Samuel Snarr and Isaac Funkhouser. With the exception of its extraordinary members, there is nothing abnormal about the child, and since the day of its birth it has not suffered a single childish ill.

Little Virginia, named for her native State, has four brothers, all of whom are healthy and normal children. Virginia eats heartily of a light diet, but, unlike other babies, cannot drink milk. The mother and physician brought the child to the hospital with the hope that there might be an operation to do away with the extra limbs and arms.

Dr. Richard H. Follis, chief of the surgical clinic, who is an authority on this branch of surgery, has told the parents that an operation would be dangerous in the extreme. Dr. Follis will, however, make an X-ray photograph and then decide whether to operate.

The legs and arms branch out on a line with the child's hips, between the four normal limbs. The additional feet are somewhat smaller than the others, but are perfectly formed. The fingers on the extra hands cannot be moved.

ADMITS HE KILLED HIS WIFE.

Jackson, Mich., Physician Put Poison in Medicine for Her, He Says.

JACKSON, Mich., Nov. 29.—Dr. Frank Sudman, the physician charged with the murder of his wife, signed a confession of guilt to-day in the presence of county officials. The physician's attorneys said he would plead guilty in court Saturday. The punishment is life imprisonment.

Sudman says that after he had had a quarrel with his wife she complained of being ill. He gave her some pepsin and soda in which he had mixed potassium cyanide, which caused her death. Sudman expressed the desire that his children be prohibited from visiting him in prison until they are grown up.

LEAVES LUXURY TO BE NURSE

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—To give up a life of luxury and become a nurse in one of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell's hospitals in Labrador is the plan of Miss Amelia Forbes, daughter of the late J. Malcolm Forbes, the well known yachtsman and capitalist of Boston and Milton.

Miss Forbes is training for her chosen profession in the Waltham Home for Nurses and when she completes her course she is to start for the north and begin her duties among the Eskimos, Indians and fishermen. Miss Forbes first became interested in the work of the Labrador medical mission while attending a lecture by Dr. Grenfell, and she volunteered her services.

WOMEN HOWL DOWN ASQUITH

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Suffragettes, in purusance of the policy of militant tactics, recently revived, invaded the City Temple to-night, and by noisy interruptions prevented Premier Asquith from delivering a speech on settlement work. The Premier, after repeated efforts to get a hearing, left the church in disgust.

The trouble began as soon as Mr. Asquith mounted the rostrum. Scores of women who had gained admission to the famous Non-Conformist Church, greeted him with cries of "Votes for women!" One of their number chained herself to a pillar and was removed only after a violent struggle, during which the audience was in an uproar.

James Ramsay Macdonald, the Labor leader, who spoke after Mr. Asquith had departed, described the scene as an insult to the Prime Minister and a degradation of English public life.

STARVED IN EMPTY HOUSE.

Man Crawls to Bellevue When a Crust Put Life Into Him.

A man who said he was William Johnson, 54 years old, without a home, crawled into the admitting office of Bellevue Hospital on his hands and knees last night, and collapsed as a doctor came to his aid. He was revived by Dr. Read, and after telling his name, said that for the last six days he had been without food or drink.

Johnson said that he had crawled into an empty house in Twenty-fifth Street six days ago, and had become so weak that only to-night when he found a crust of bread, had he been able to get to the hospital.

Dr. Byrne took the man to a medical ward, and was feeding him hot milk, when he again lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he could not be aroused.

The doctors say that it is doubtful if the man in his weak condition can live.

SING SING OFFICIAL OUSTED.

Warden Kennedy Dismisses Supt. Powers for Misconduct.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 29.—John T. Powers, Superintendent of Industries in Sing Sing Prison for the last fifteen years, was removed from office to-day by John S. Kennedy, Warden of the prison, as the result of the recent investigation of charges made against him.

The Warden finds the Superintendent guilty of using the time and labor of prisoners for his personal benefit; causing printing to be done by convicts for friends, and himself causing the printers' union label to be used to make it appear that the work was done outside of the prison; allowing illegal and improper charges to be made against the State; failing to require contractors to complete their contracts, and paying them in full as if they had completed them; causing articles and machinery to be purchased which were not needed; being absent from his position and neglecting his duties; making improper charges for traveling to different places in the United States and Europe.

LASSOES A GASOLINE BARREL

Cowboy Drags It from Burning Building and Prevents Explosion.

ROSWELL, N. M., Nov. 29.—While a bakery at Clovis was burning yesterday a cowboy's nerve and accuracy in throwing a lasso prevented the destruction of surrounding buildings and probably saved the lives of a number of people. He rode his broncho up to within forty feet of the blazing building, lassoed a barrel of gasoline and dragged it from the flames.

The cowboy, Charles Merritt, had just come in from the range. Seated on his pony, he was watching the blaze, when some one shouted that there was a barrel of gasoline in the building that was likely to explode at any time. The front of the building had been destroyed and the barrel containing the gasoline was in plain view.

Suddenly Merritt jabbed the spurs into the sides of his mount, released the rope from his saddle and threw it around the barrel when his pony approached within throwing distance. A shout arose from the spectators as Merritt dashed away from the building, dragging the barrel at the end of his lasso.

NEW WELL FOR ROCKEFELLER

And Since He Has Just Lost a Lake He Is Thankful.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 29.—John D. Rockefeller is thankful this year for a new well just sunk on his estate at Pocantico Hills. When his Superintendent informed him to-day that a fine stream of water had been struck he replied:

"I'm thankful for that. We can't have too many sources of supply in these days of thirsty spells."

The new well is out in the Buttermilk section, where Mr. Rockefeller has a large reservoir drilled out of solid rock more than 40 feet deep. Mr. Rockefeller's lakes have got the habit of getting lost. On the Bedford Road he had a fine lake with a fountain playing in the centre. It was there last night. To-day it is dry. Some one suggests that probably it changed into a well and is the source of the new supply. Mr. Rockefeller refused to worry, however, and played his game of golf as usual. To-morrow he will enjoy his Thanksgiving dinner at Pocantico Hills, surrounded by his children and grandchildren.

GARY'S PLEA FOR BIG BUSINESS

It Has Created Our Huge Foreign Trade, Among Other Things, He Says.

IS FOR FULL PUBLICITY

CALLS LAW CONTRADICTORY

Would Elect Presidents for Eight Years, to Avert Business Unrest—Too Much Presidential Politics.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Judge E. H. Gary, Chairman of the Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, appeared before the Senate Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce to-day and made the most elaborate statement of his views on trust control yet given by him to the public. Some months ago he appeared before the House committee investigating the Steel Trust and went at some length into questions of policy, but his recital then was largely narrative in form.

He appeared on the Senate committee's invitation with a view to throwing light on the committee's expected recommendations as to further trust legislation. Besides making certain recommendations—and his testimony is still far from ended—he gave the committee a concise statement in explanation and defense of "big business."

Judge Gary's Statement.

Judge Gary's statement is as follows:

I.

"The great consolidations which have been created during the last fifteen years for the conduct of many kinds of business are of public benefit in the following way:

"First—By reason of their large resources, their special study of foreign trade conditions, and their manufacture and sale of many kinds and classes of products, these great integrated organizations develop the foreign trade of the country to an extent impossible for the individuals, firms, and small business corporations. An example of this is seen in the enormous export business in steel products created by the United States Steel Corporation.

"Ninety-five per cent. of our steel exports is sold by the United States Steel Corporation, although it sells not more than 50 per cent. of the steel used at home.

"Second—By reason of their financial resources and power to employ the ablest men in management and scientific research, these great organizations are able to conduct experiments and develop new methods, which could not be done in the conduct of small business operations.

"Third—The extent of their operations allows them to effect economies, reducing the cost to the consumer, and to conserve the natural resources of the country. An example of these economies is the employment of certain mills wholly in the manufacture of particular classes, instead of attempting to make all classes of goods at the same mill, and also in the production of goods for certain sections of the country in mills located in those sections, thus avoiding useless expense of transportation. An example of the conservation of natural resources is the utilization of by-products, which usually requires large-scale production and an investment prohibited in small industries.

Benefits Conferred.

"Fourth—These great integrated corporations have done much more than small business organizations toward the improvement of the condition of their workingmen, such as profit-sharing plans, pension funds, accident relief, endeavors to prevent accidents, sanitation, higher wages, and many other efforts to improve the condition of workmen in which the great integrated business organizations are recognized as the leaders.

"Fifth—The creation of these great corporations, drawing their capital from the investing public, has transferred the ownership of our great basic industries from a comparatively small number of persons to great numbers of the people. The United States Steel Corporation alone probably represents upward of 150,000 persons who are the holders of its stock and bonds. Great numbers of persons of very small means are thus enabled to share in the profits of enterprises whose conduct requires enormous capital.

II.

"It is fair to assume that the power of these great business organizations might be used to the detriment of the public.

III.

"Since great benefits arise from the consolidations and yet possibilities of danger may arise from a misuse of their power, it would seem necessary to find some plan for preserving the benefits and eliminating the dangers by some sort of regulation.

IV.

"The only regulation adequate in scope and power to deal with these aggregations of capital is regulation by the Federal Government, because the subject matter of the regulation is largely inter-State commerce with which the States may not interfere, and the size and extent of the organizations involved is such as to require uniform and National regulation.

For Federal Licenses.

V.

"It is suggested that the dangers arising from these great consolidations can be eliminated and their benefits preserved by the following plan for their regulation:

First—Every corporation engaged in inter-State commerce should be required to obtain a Federal license, which would be granted only on the following conditions:

(a)—That the utmost publicity should be observed in all matters specified by the Federal authorities.

(b)—That there should be no overcapitalization.

(c)—That prices should be the same to all customers without discrimination between persons or localities.

(d)—That the business should be conducted in conformity to the laws of the United States and not in contravention thereof. If there be any other regulations capable of general application they could be made conditions of the granting and continuing of these licenses.

Second—A corporation commission should be created similar to the Inter-State Commerce Commission, with power to grant, suspend, and revoke these licenses, subject to a right of appeal to the courts. This commission should be given the following powers:

(a)—To see that the conditions upon which inter-State commerce licenses have been granted are strictly observed.

(b)—To decide questions submitted by the managers of business organizations who desire to observe the law in all respects and to avoid any question of illegality in their actions.

(c)—To regulate prices so far as necessary to prevent monopoly and restraint of trade; for example, if prices should be established by trade agreements, or if raw materials, such as cotton or tobacco, should be pooled, or if patents should be used to the public detriment, this commission should be empowered to establish maximum prices for the goods thus controlled.

(d)—Provision should be made for an appeal from decisions of this corporation commission to the Commerce Court or some other qualified tribunal, so that the refusal, suspension, or revocation of an inter-State commerce license could be reviewed by the courts before final determination of the matter.

"Conclusion: What is needed is fair, honest, and healthy competition. It is the opposite of restraint of trade. Unrestrained competition in the end results in monopoly and restraint of trade."

Presidential Elections Disturbing.

Judge Gary, in the course of questioning, said there was "too much Presidential politics in the country."

"I would like to see the President elected for eight years, without an opportunity for re-election," he said. "In other words, put in such a position and frame of mind that he has no temptation or inclination to look in any direction or toward business interests in reference to his re-election."

Mr. Gary added that he made "no reference to any individual" in his Presidential suggestion. He said the country was already feeling the unrest of the coming election. Less frequent Presidential elections, he said, giving candidates less reason for seeking public or private support for political purposes, would aid greatly in keeping business at a level.

In amplification of his statement and in the course of a running colloquy with Senator Cummins of Iowa, who is actively prosecuting the investigation, Judge Gary pointed out what he believes to be defects in the Sherman anti-trust law. Like many others, he criticised its language as vague, even in the face of the recent decisions by the Supreme Court of the United States. But far more striking was his declaration that the law is self-contradictory. One section, he told the attentive committee, plainly forbids monopoly. Another section plainly forbids restraint of trade; and this restraint of trade has been construed, beyond question, to include trade agreements. Yet agreements are necessary to the life of competition, he said, and without them a monopoly inevitably arises, even without the intent of the resulting monopolistic corporation. He developed this point at some length, greatly to the interest of the committee.

"On the face of the law," said the Judge, "one section is opposed to monopoly, and I take that to mean the control, or substantial control, of a business. The object of this section is to prevent monopoly, restraint of trade, and oppression of the consumer, or, possibly, of the competitor.

"Another section opposes restraint of trade. It is difficult for a layman, even for a lawyer—even after the recent decisions, which many regard as explicit—to say what constitutes restraint of trade in all cases. Certainly, however, agreements to fix prices, to divide territory, and to limit output is contrary to that section. Yet any corporation, by reason of its superior location, equipment, organization, or management may so run its business as to sell at a profit at a price not exceeding and perhaps falling below the cost price of its rivals. Forced by the Sherman law to remain their competitor in the old sense of that word, it would run its factories at their capacity and sell at its lower prices. This could only mean that the less fortunate competitor would go down and out. Such a contingency would leave the one corporation in possession of the field—a monopoly even if it had no intention to monopolize. And that would be in violation of the other section. It would be a public calamity.

Purpose of Gary Dinners.

"That has been my difficulty for years—to keep between the two extremes. Sometimes, because I could not help it, or because of my disposition, I have tried to foster competition without entering into the forbidden agreements. That, Senators, was the purpose of the Gary dinners. There, without entering any agreement, we could talk matters over so that a gentleman could know, if he was a gentleman, what was the decent thing to do for his competitors."

Senator Cummins tried, in a long series of questions, to get Mr. Gary to point out particular acts forbidden by the statute that should be permitted, and vice versa. The Judge refused to answer the sweeping question, but in the end he did say that in some cases—to be determined by the proposed commission—a corporation should be permitted to buy the plant of his competitor, as in the Tennessee case, and in certain other cases to make trade agreements even as to price. All this, however, was to be with the consent of the commission and subject to appeal by either side to the courts. These decisions in advance would give security to business, he argued.

"What we want is not amendments to the law, but supplements to it," he said. "The commission I suggest would enforce the law and try to accomplish the purpose of the law as reasonably understood. It should determine cases like the Tennessee Coal and Iron controversy in advance on the basis of undue restraint of trade."

"But by what standard?" asked Mr. Cummins.

"The commission would know more than we what is undue restraint of trade."

"What standard should be set forth in the law?"

"The standard of undue restraint," insisted Judge Gary. "With all the facts in particular cases before them the commission could decide. The same objections were raised against clothing the Inter-State Commerce Commission with powers to fix rates, but events have proved their irrelevancy. The proposed commission should be authorized to fix prices—not only to keep them from being so high as to hurt the consumer, but also to keep them from being put so low by the dominant factor in a trade as to injure weaker competitors. We do not always want to buy at the bottom price. We want a fixed price and agreements help to make prices steady."

Mr. Cummins objected to this fixing of commodity prices on the ground of unconstitutionality. He said there had always been a difference between the Government's control of the public utility corporations like railroads, and the control of private manufacturing concerns. Judge Gary, however, insisted that the difference arose in the law and was not fundamental or constitutional. The big corporations are coming gradually by force of circumstances, he said, to assume the position of quasi-public institutions, and they must also assume the burden of that position. He insisted that the Federal Government has the right to fix prices in inter-State trade.

Judge Gary seemed of the opinion that the machinery he suggested, hinging on a trade commission, with appeal to the courts, would obviate the uncertainty he now finds in the existing law. The trouble is not that the law forbids things that should be permitted or permits things harmful to the public, but that one cannot tell what is permitted or what prohibited. No fair-minded business man, he said, would object to the general principles of the Sherman law, but he might well wince at its varying application at the hands of various tribunals.

"The question is not simply a question of the law," he said, "but of the law's application and by different courts. Expressions of statesmen have not at all times, nor in all addresses been the same on this subject, and the same thing is true of the views of Judges. They are all influenced by changing conditions and by the difficulty of applying to present circumstances the rules laid down at first.

"No fair business man ought to object to the general principles of the statute—the prohibition of monopoly or of a restraint that seriously interferes with trade or with the right of competition. If that summary expresses what the law is I would not object to it."

HECKLE WICKERSHAM ABOUT THE TRUSTS

Y. M. C. A. Forum Members Prod the Attorney General with Rapid-Fire Questions.

HE PARRIES SOME OF THEM

Thinks Public Sentiment Will Do Much Toward Curbing Unruly Monopolies Hereafter.

Attorney General Wickersham made an address at the annual opening of the Finance Forum of the West Side Young Men's Christian Association last night and submitted gracefully to the usual friendly heckling that is a feature of its sessions. The questioning is intended to bring out and elucidate any points in the address on which the minds of any of the auditors are unsatisfied, but last night the interrogators went far afield.

Probably no speaker ever appeared at the Forum who was quite so adroit in disposing of these questions, which frequently involve the speakers in long explanations. Mr. Wickersham, always smiling and serene, answered in a few words such questions as he wanted to answer at all and parried others that he did not care to touch.

He would not be drawn into a discussion of the tariff, but did express his views in opposition to the initiative, referendum, and recall, although he had been talking principally about the trusts and the Sherman law. Most of his answers brought laughter or applause and a good many of them brought forth both.

The speech, and in fact the Forum opening itself, was in two sections because the crowd that wanted to hear the Attorney General was so great that after the capacious hall had been filled the rest were directed to the Church of the Stranger, across Fifty-seventh Street. They filled that, too, and Mr. Wickersham spoke in both places. At the church he said he wasn't able to repeat the speech he had made in the hall and he didn't, but discussed other subjects briefly.

The first question asked at the Forum hall was by a man in the gallery who wanted to know whether the trust evils could be corrected in a short time, when they had been twenty years growing up. Mr. Wickersham replied that they could not and that this was true of any evil that had been growing up for twenty years.

Then the questioners began popping up all over the hall and in the gallery and the chairman had difficulty in persuading them not to speak more than one at a time. Mr. Wickersham had spoken of the failure of the States to control corporations during the formative period of the trusts and this prompted one man to ask:

"What do you think of the average efficiency of the average State Legislature?"

"I have had a very limited experience with State Legislatures," answered Mr. Wickersham.

As to Competition.

"Do you think competition can be restored?" asked another. The Attorney General contented himself with saying that he did.

"When these evils have been remedied," asked another, "won't we have the same conditions over again after a time?"

"I hope not," said Mr. Wickersham. "It will depend on the vigilance of the citizens."

He was asked what he had meant by saying that the creature should never be superior to its creator, and replied:

"I mean that no corporation should rise above and exercise power superior to that of the State."

This was one of the answers that brought the most applause, and it was followed by an inquiry as to whether the tariff was not a great influence in the creation of trusts.

"That is a large subject," said Mr. Wickersham. "I don't want to discuss that."

"Why was it so long," asked another man, "before the Sherman law was put into operation?"

"I think it was because the people didn't awake for a long time to the full need of putting it into operation," was the answer. "Just as soon as the people in this country do awake to such a need that need is attended to."

"Didn't the devisers of the Sherman law mistake the economic trend of the time?" was asked. Mr. Wickersham referred to a recent article by ex-Senator Edmunds, telling of the circumstances under which the law was enacted, and said it confirmed his impression from a study of the debates that "what the authors of the law had in mind was the growth of great monopolies, and that they intended to check that growth."

He's Not a Prophet.

"Do you think the Sherman law will be amended or repealed?" was the next question.

"I am neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet," replied the Attorney General.

"Don't you think that if the holding company was modified or abolished, it would do much?" asked the last interrogator.

"I believe the holding company is the greatest engine for monopoly ever devised by the wit of man," replied the Attorney General, and again he was loudly applauded.

In his address in the hall the Attorney General told of the origin of the trust problem.

"Certain individuals," he said, "amassed to themselves wealth and power to a point that was inimical to the public welfare. These evils slowly dawned on the American people, and they took steps to correct them. Impatient minorities have found their correction slow, but no one can say that under our institutions a majority has ever found the machinery of government inadequate to carry out its determination.

"In these questions of corporate organization and corporate control the principles are very simple. From the partnership of two or three intricate inter-corporate relations, one principle is that whatever privilege has been given by the people to a few should be coupled with the condition that they shall not be abused and shall not be conferred without adequate recompense to the people. Perhaps the most important evil of all is the failure of the Governments of the respective States to provide at the outset for the ascertainment of the truth, of the facts, and their carelessness in conferring privileges without regulation.

The Trust Problem.

"If you look at it from the standpoint of what the people have given and what they have received in return you've got the whole touchstone for the solution of the trust problem. It's all a question of organization. No partnership has ever acquired a control over an industry that has become a menace to the State. It is always due to some privilege conferred on corporations by law. The vice of most of our Legislatures in every State of the Union is that they have waited until these combinations have grown to an enormous extent and spread over a vast area.

"The problem has become one of power—whether the Government of all shall wield the power of all or whether a group of less than all shall control all. The creature shoud not rise superior to its creator. No body of men endowed by the State with special privileges should have such power as to dominate the State, and the State should have the power to check or destroy those privileges."

To the audience in the church the Attorney General said that the solution of the trust problem must not be left to doctrinaires.

"We must take the judgment of specialists," he said, "but we must use it as we do the judgment of other experts—not follow it blindly, but use it for our guidance. Since the Supreme Court demonstrated the vitality of the Sherman law I have been much struck with the paucity of really practical suggestions coming out of the discussion."

On the initiative, referendum and recall the Attorney General said:

"I have great confidence of the American people for self-government, but I do not believe in government by direct legislation. I also believe that we can't have government by men of character and courage unless they are put in office free from interference."

give a fair and impartial service to the committee. So I consented that he should be appointed."

Mr. Martin declares himself highly pleased at the prospect of a special investigation of the matter by the House. He said he was "aching for a chance to get Mr. Littleton on the stand." Mr. Littleton had said earlier that he was eager for Mr. Martin to be examined.

The Anti-Trust League embraces men in various parts of the country who are decided in their views as to trusts. The National Executive Committee consists of M. L. Lockwood of Oklahoma, Chairman; H. J. Shulteis of Wisconsin, Vice Chairman; H. B. Martin of New York, Secretary; F. S. Monnett of Ohio, W. B. Fleming of Kentucky, F. J. Vorhis of Indiana, W. T. La Follette of South Dakota, James Barrett of Georgia, William Prentiss of Illinois, C. T. Bride of the District of Columbia, W. M. Morgan of Idaho, and P. E. Dowe of New York. While Congress is in session the committee has headquarters at the Willard Hotel. The organization was formed in 1898, and has maintained headquarters here ever since.

DAVID LAMAR.

History of the Man with a Faculty for Making Stocks Do Anything.

Congressman Martin W. Littleton's charge that he believed that David Lamar, desirous in behalf of bear interests of prolonging the Stanley Committee's investigation of the United States Steel Corporation, had acted in close touch with H. B. Martin, Secretary of the Anti-Trust League, has called attention once again to David Lamar, after a temporary departure from the limelight. Wall Street, which had just begun to congratulate itself and Lamar on his apparent achievement of oblivion, recalled yesterday the episodes of his sensational career during the last nine years.

"He is a handsome and remarkable man," his wife once said of Lamar, after he had darted from their home, hatless, after a quarrel about a chorus girl. "He can just make a stock do anything. He can make it go up or down just as he wants to. He's wonderful."

Lamar is said to have been a railroad advertising man in the firm of King, Lewis & Co. at Omaha and other Western cities some eighteen years ago.

Hart's Third Avenue Losses.

He started as a speculator here, and managed to become acquainted with Henry Hart, then the aged President of the Third Avenue Railroad Company, who had—then—about $6,000,000. Presently Lamar became a sort of confidential man to Hart. After long litigation concerning the manipulation of Third Avenue stock, the old man, it was discovered, had lost about $5,000,000. Just who got it did not appear.

Lamar presently became acquainted with James R. Keene, and is still remembered by many as "Keene's gum-shoe man." The two made much money in United States Leather common. The late E. H. Harriman once declared that Lamar, in 1901, offered to keep Keene and his bull pool from bringing adverse litigation against the management of the Southern Pacific Railroad, if Harriman would form a working alliance with Lamar. Harriman, who said he considered Lamar's offer virtually a "hold-up," declined the alliance, and instead proceeded to smash Keene's pool to smithereens.

A Former Steel Suit.

The present charge of Lamar's activity against the United States Steel Corporation for bear purposes is not without precedent in his past. In July, 1902, J. Aspinwall Hodge, Bernard Smith, a brother-in-law of Lamar, and William H. Curtiss, sued the United States Steel Corporation and others to prevent the retiring of the corporation's preferred stock and the issuing of $250,000,000 bonds instead. One James H. Lancaster, who posed as an expert on steel, made affidavit that the property of the United States Steel Corporation was not worth more than $500,000,000. Later, the same Lancaster admitted to Joseph E. Corrigan, then in the District Attorney's office, that he wasn't a steel expert at all, but merely had a little automobile shop.

He declared that Lamar had offered him $100 to swear as he did, and $200 for a second affidavit. But when Lancaster found out that his affidavits were being used in a suit and for winnings of such magnitude, he struck for more pay. Lamar, he said, offered him $250 a week and $10,000 when the suit should be ended; but finally, Lancaster said, he signed a general release for Lamar for $500.

It developed also at that time that one Peter Power, who had appeared as plaintiff in a suit to prevent the merger of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific Railroads, was an employe in Lancaster's shop, and it was generally believed that he, too, had had the honor of Lamar's friendship for value—or services—received.

There was a report in June last that Lamar had circulated a story to the effect that the Stanley Investigating Committee could be bought up; and another that he himself was boasting that he had started the whole investigation. Lamar denied the former, and remained modestly silent about the latter rumor.

A year before it was reported that a certain Senator of the Middle West was going to deliver a speeech in the Senate attacking United States Steel Corporation, on the basis of facts submitted to him by one "Judge Lamar," who, the Senator thought, represented Wall Street sentiment. When the Senator in question was informed concerning the past history of Lamar, however, he tossed his speech into the waste basket. The bear raid on steel by way of the Senate didn't come off.

Lamar got his chief notoriety from his reputed connection with "Monk" Eastman and his gang of Cherry Hill thugs in "the Gap." In 1903 Lamar, who lived in great style on an estate of 100 acres on the Rumson Road near Seabright, N. J., had a falling out with James McMahon, his coachman. Mrs. Lamar, it seemed, had taken her pet dog out for a ride. Doggy hopped out of the carriage and Mrs. Lamar ordered the coachman to hop out after him and fetch back "the little darling." McMahon replied that he was a coachman, not a dogcatcher. Mrs. Lamar complained of this to her husband when he returned home that evening. Lamar promptly repaired to the stable. Almost as promptly, however, he rushed out again and prepared to repair his features, which he said the coachman had damaged.

A warrant was obtained charging McMahon with assault. McMahon obtained another warrant charging Lamar with the same soft impeachment. Thereafter, according to McMahon, he was persecuted day and night by a band of thugs who tried by various means to entice him out of his house and finally tried to break in there one night. He appealed to the police for protection.

On the day McMahon was entering the Court House at Long Branch to testify concerning Lamar's alleged assault on him he was set upon at the door of the court by three thugs, who beat and kicked and stabbed him, and, leaving him almost insensible, escaped in a carriage. The carriage, according to Police Inspector McCluskey of this city, was said to have been driven by Lamar's brother-in-law, Bernard Smith. Subsequently Smith and Lamar, as well as two of Lamar's employes, were arrested for complicity in the assault; and a few days later the police arrested as the principals, in this city, "Monk" Eastman and one Joseph Brown, an almost equally notorious gangster.

"Monk" Eastman, according to the police, threatened that Lamar would "get Jersey justice" if he didn't "stand by," and very promptly two Tammany lawyers—Senator Thomas F. Grady and John Hoyer—were hired to defend the two gangsters. The first thing they did was to issue statements denying that their clients had ever known Lamar. Nevertheless Lamar and his brother-in-law, as well as the two thugs, were indicted by the Grand Jury of Monmouth County. After a sensational trial and an all-night session the jury decided that they were not guilty. The jurors were hooted as they emerged from the Court House.

It was not until April 14, 1904, that the police finally laid by the heels "Monk" Eastman, convicting him of an assault with intent to kill, attempted upon one of the Pinkerton detectives who arrested him in the act of robbing the drunken son of a rich man on Forty-second Street. It was maintained by the defense at the time that there wasn't any drunken son of a rich man involved; nor did that worthy appear at the trial. But nobody begrudged the "Monk" the ten-year sentence he received, whether he went to Sing Sing by railroad or otherwise. He was pardoned on June 19, 1909.

Lamar, in the meantime, continued to figure in the public prints. He owned fast horses and let them loose on the Speedway. He had, besides his home at Red Bank, a fine residence at 618 Fifth Avenue. He kept an office at 30 Broad Street, but never put his name on the door. On Dec. 2, 1906, after a long litigation, he was ousted by the Supreme Court from the estate on the Rumson Road, which he had retained for four years against Albert G. Spalding, the owner, who had foreclosed a mortgage on it.

Lamar and the Chorus Girl.

On May 4, 1909, Mrs. Lamar sent out a call for reporters to the newspapers. They found her in great excitement at her apartments in the Pasadena, 10 West Sixty-first Street. She vowed she was going to begin proceedings for a divorce against Lamar the very next day. She had discovered, she said, that he was keeping up a friendship with Marie Leonard, a chorus girl, at the Circle Theatre, just around the corner. She said she had asked him when he returned home that evening to take her to that theatre. Lamar thereupon left home hurriedly, forgetting his hat. But Mrs. Lamar denied that she had struck him. It was then that Mrs. Lamar gave utterance to the statement that Lamar was so handsome, stock-manipulative, and wonderful. The Leonard girl was reported to have admitted that she knew Lamar "platonically" very well. But Lamar haled her into court the next day on a summons, and she declared with arch glances toward her press agent that that worthy had merely asked her whether she knew Lamar, and that she didn't, really didn't. Mrs. Lamar and her wonderful, handsome, and stock-manipulative husband marched proudly, peacefully, domestically out of the court together.

They don't live at the Pasadena any more, and there is no record of Lamar's home or business address in any of the directories now. He has, however, presumably been living nevertheless—perhaps all the more—if there is any eloquence or prophecy as to living, in court records up to that time. In July, 1907, for example, he was sued by Rector's for $1,200 for foods and wines; in May, 1904, M. M. Sonntag, a restaurant keeper of Harlem, got a judgment against him for $413 for meals, wines, and cigars. In April, 1904, Louis Sherry obtained a judgment against him for $172.95 for thirty-six late suppers. In February, 1904, John L. Cartier, who kept a roadhouse at Macomb's Dam Bridge, obtained a judgment of $175 against him. In May of that year the Banker Brothers' Company got a judgment of $846 against him for auto hire, and in December, 1906, Patrick Dunphy, the coachman who succeeded McMahon, obtained a judgment of $125.75.

W. H. Russell's Estate Only $5,000.

According to the petition for probate filed yesterday with the will of William Hepburn Russell, the lawyer, and former Commissioner of Accounts, his estate consists of only $5,000 personalty. The petition states he left no realty. At the time of his death Mr. Russell was reported to be the principal owner of the Boston National League Baseball Club. Mr. Russell's will names his wife, Mary G. Russell, as sole legatee.

'INTERESTS' NEVER FOR HIM, SAYS PARKER

WON'T TALK OF A "BARGAIN"

The Colonel, for Himself, Says "Read the Message," in Further Answer to Wharton Barker.

Alton B. Parker, the Democratic candidate for President against whom Theodore Roosevelt was running when, according to Wharton Barker he made a deal on railroad legislation to gain the support of Wall Street, said yesterday that he had no doubt that big financial interests withheld contributions from the Republican campaign fund in 1904 until they had frightened Col. Roosevelt into a frame of mind agreeable to them. He took exception, however, to Mr. Barker's theory, as expressed in his testimony before the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce in Washington on Tuesday, that these interests were in favor of Parker's election until near the close of the campaign. Mr. Barker said that they had given up the support of Parker because "they had frightened Roosevelt so that he had made a bargain with them."

"The money power," said Judge Parker yesterday, "had nothing to expect from the Democratic Party, and was thus naturally friendly to the Republicans. I have no doubt that some of their leaders did send representatives to some of the Republican leaders with the suggestion that the candidate of the party must be considerate of the financial interests in order to hold their support.

"There can be no doubt whatever that the Republican Party and the interests represented by its leaders were always in opposition to the Democratic Party. But it served their purposes then, in order to get Mr. Roosevelt better in leading strings, to withhold their checks for a time and talk of their hostility. They probably spoke occasionally of the opposing candidate in friendly terms. In due course they gave their checks to the Republican National Committee and their enthusiastic support to President Roosevelt."

Judge Parker said there was never any doubt that they would ultimately support the Republican Party, owing to its nonenforcement of the law against trusts and monopolies.

"In my speech of acceptance in 1904," he said, "I called attention to the fact that we already had adequate laws for curing all the evils of the time. I said that the common law afforded a full remedy, and that Mr. Roosevelt caused certain friends of his to make it appear that the common law did not apply to the Federal situation. He insisted that we needed more laws and promised to push for their enactment.

"The power to prevent combinations of trade and monopolies under the common law, which is incorporated in the laws of all the States, gave any Attorney General or District Attorney in any State full opportunity to prevent the wrongful formation of a corporation while it was yet on paper, and before the innocent public had a chance to put its money in. Yet for ten years preceding the campaign of 1904, while the Democrats were without control of the prosecuting machinery of any of the Northern States, the laws were permitted to become dead letters and no action was taken by Republican officials to enforce them.

"The Sherman law had been allowed to sleep and business men came to regard it as a dead letter. They made no secret about their operations. They advertised their plans to the public for taking in this plant or that corporation, and conducted the formation of their enterprises with the idea that what they were doing was permitted by law, because the Republicans had permitted the Sherman act and the common law, within the States, to become inactive."

Judge Parker would not discuss the allegation that Col. Roosevelt personally entered into any deal with these interests or that he subsequently recommended in his annual message legislation approved by them.

When Col. Roosevelt was again asked about this point as he was leaving the Union League Club yesterday morning to go to Gloucester, Mass., for Thanksgiving Day, he merely grinned and said:

"Read the message."

He would add nothing to what he had said on Tuesday night concerning Mr. Barker's testimony, when he compared it to "the pipe dream of an out-patient of Bedlam."

WHARTON BARKER EXPLAINS.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Nov. 29.—Wharton Barker, much displeased because what he terms a minor part of his dissertation before the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce in Washington on Tuesday was turned into a sensation, refuses to elaborate on his charges that Col. Roosevelt had entered into a deal with Wall Street four weeks before the Presidential election in 1904 and was thus aided in his fight against Alton B. Parker by the leading financiers.

Mr. Barker said to-day that his reference to Roosevelt was only a sidelight by way of illustration. Nevertheless, he did not take back anything he said, but maintained an unbreakable silence when Roosevelt's name was mentioned. When it was brought to his attention that the former Presidentt had declared he would as soon discuss a pipe dream, Mr. Barker laughed and intimated that the Colonel had merely added another to his own private Annanias Club—"an honor impressing nobody but Roosevelt."

Mr. Barker wanted it understood that, contrary to one report of his address, he was unalterably opposed to the Aldrich plan, and considered it merely as the instrument of the "moneyed oligarchy," which, he says, is the trust of trusts, and which is shaping the ends of this country at its pleasure.

"I did not say that the adoption of the Aldrich plan would be the only means by which this country would escape a serious business and financial depression next year. I did say that unless the Aldrich plan was adopted we would suffer a depression, and I meant by that, that the financial interests would use a threatened depression as a club with which to drive the plan through Congress. Unless this system is adopted the financiers will bring about the depression as punishment. That should be plain enough."

Mr. Barker declined to discuss his sidewalk conversation with the "Great Money King, since deceased," in New York, when the story of Roosevelt's alleged intrigue with Wall Street was given to him. It was generally interpreted that the "King," about whom Mr. Barker spoke, was Edward H. Harriman, but Mr. Barker would not discuss the matter.

"All that is merely incident to my topic yesterday," he said. "The really important news was not given proper notice while the illustration was pounced upon and turned into a sensation. I have nothing further to say. The committee will print my talk in full and spread it broadcast."

Mr. Barker's charges did not cause a very perceptible stir in Philadelphia banking circles. At least those bankers questioned about it did not take it seriously.

C. Stuart Patterson, Sr., President of the Western Savings Fund and a Director of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said life was too short to discuss inaccuracies. He declared that he was not worried about the financial calamities which Mr. Barker prophesied.

George Stevenson, Sr., of Sailer & Stevenson, bankers, said: "Life is too short to give Mr. Barker's speech serious consideration."

BLISS WAS FOOLED.

Treasurer Surprised by Attack on Trusts After Receiving Contributions

In connection with the charge made by Wharton Barker before the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce on Tuesday, that Theodore Roosevelt in 1904 got Wall Street support because he had "made a bargain" with those interests on the railroad question, certain circumstances connected with the raising of campaign funds at that time were recalled yesterday.

The late Cornelius N. Bliss, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee at the time of Roosevelt's nomination, experienced considerable difficulty in getting funds from financial men with Mr. Roosevelt as candidate. A member of one of the largest industrial combinations to which he applied asked Mr. Bliss frankly why it should contribute funds for the election of such a man as Roosevelt.

Mr. Bliss is said to have replied reassuringly: "I think Roosevelt has seen a new light."

This man thereupon contributed $100,000.

Later Mr. Bliss, experiencing a further shortage, applied to the same man, asking him to be one of a group to raise $250,000. The amount was raised.

Mr. Roosevelt was elected. Almost immediately he began to assail various corporations, including several of those that had contributed to the campaign funds. The man referred to above thereupon reproached Mr. Bliss, asking:

"How about this?"

"I am sorry," replied Mr. Bliss. "I am the worst fooled man in America."

HONOR WENDELL PHILLIPS.

Negroes Hold Centenary Memorial Meeting in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn.

Plymouth Church in Brooklyn, where Henry Ward Beecher once invited Wendell Phillips to speak after he had been twice mobbed in halls in Manhattan, was opened last night for a memorial meeting to the famous agitator, yesterday being the one hundredth anniversary of his birth.

The church was well filled, fully half of the audience being negroes. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis presided, and the orators were Charles Edward Russell and the Rev. Reverdy C. Ransom, pastor of the Bethel African Methodist Church on West Twenty-fifth Street. The memorial meeting had been planned by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People as one of a series of memorial services to the men and women who helped to free the negro.

"I voice the sentiments of millions of my race," said the Rev. Mr. Ransom, "when I take the liberty to use the rostrum of Plymouth Church as a megaphone to say to the American people that the negro wants neither the money nor the sympathy of those who do not believe in his equality of manhood and who do not accord to him the same political rights, the same education advantages, and the same freedom in every pathway of opportunity. What we do want is the support of more men like Wendell Phillips. We are tired of hearing the South say, 'Leave the negro to us; we understand him and we know best how to deal with him, both for his own good and for the welfare and peace of the South.'

"President Taft has declared that we negroes should be educated differently from the whites. He does allow us a few schools, but he gives us no place in the great universities of the land.

"We have no new chimerical scheme to offer for the solution of our race problem, but we do not intend to be colonized into a separate State or Territory. We don't want to go back to Africa."

THE OLIVE MEAD QUARTET.

A New Piano Quintet by Mrs. Beach Heard at the Afternoon Concert.

The Olive Mead Quartet gave the first of its afternoon chamber concerts yesterday in Rumford Hall. There was a good-sized audience, and this fact, together with the addition of draperies at the sides of the platform, modified the keen resonance of this distinguished little audience room beneficially. The musical results were of a greater mellowness and cohesiveness than they were at the first concert, and were much to the advantage of Miss Mead and her associates.

These young women gave an excellent performance of three movements from Dvorak's quartet in F, Op. 96, one of his American compositions whose Americanism was once much discussed—the allegro, lento and finale. Still better was their playing of Hayden's quartet in G minor, a composition that keeps a singular freshness and vitality, and whose slow movement has a harmonic progression (several times repeated) that must have startled the composer's contemporaries.

Mrs. H. H. A. Beach's quintet for piano and strings in F sharp minor, Op. 67, was played for the first time in New York, Miss Carolyn Beebe being the pianist. Mrs. Beach is a profoundly serious musician, and has seldom shown herself more [illegible] fundity [illegible] is closely allied with vagueness, and in the treatment of undistinguished musical ideas [illegible]. There [illegible] especially [illegible] has a [illegible] to lose [illegible] in confusion. The quintet seems [illegible] more of an intellectual effort than of a definite musical inspiration.

LINER HIT BY BIG WAVES.

The Minneapolis Two Days Late After a Stormy Voyage Across.

The Atlantic Transport liner Minneapolis arrived from London yesterday two days late, owing to the heavy weather encountered on the way across. Chief Officer Gardiner said that the waves were the biggest he had ever seen in [illegible] years at sea. On Friday morning, when the ship was east of the Grand Banks, the chief officer said that he could see the crest of one big sea breaking for five miles [illegible]. The wind was blowing at a velocity of seventy-five miles an hour at the time.

The first sea that struck the Minneapolis carried away the forward ventilators. Capt. Gardiner said that it was lucky the ship was [illegible] running [illegible] the time.

VANITY FAIR INSOLVENT.

Publishing Concern Is Put in a Receiver's Hands by Creditors.

The American Standard Publishing Company, which has been issuing at 1,547 Broadway The Standard and Vanity Fair, a weekly devoted to pictures of actresses and Broadway gossip, was declared insolvent yesterday. Judge Holt, in the United States District Court, appointed Edwin R. Davis, treasurer of The Klebold Press, receiver, at the request of the creditors, and gave him the discretion of continuing publication for four weeks. The court, however, instructed Mr. Davis to inquire into the possibility of reorganizing the company and rehabilitating the business.

The petitioning creditors are The Klebold Press for $4,364, the Knickerbocker Engraving Company for $1,494, and Bernard C. Eggers for $100. The liabilities are set down at $9,000 and the assets as accounts worth $1,000. The company was incorporated on Sept. 1, 1903, with a capital of $5,000, and published The Standard. In August, 1904, it bought Vanity Fair for $5,000 and incorporated the two publications. In August last year the concern was reorganized, Edward E. Pidgeon purchasing a controlling interest and becoming President.

A reason given by J. Gainsbury, counsel for the petitioning creditors, for the continuance of publication, was that thereby the right of the company to second class mail privileges would be preserved.

WOMAN ON EDUCATION BOARD

Mayor Names Mrs. S. J. Kramer Among Ten Other Members.

Mayor Gaynor appointed ten members of the Board of Education yesterday, their terms to begin Jan. 1. Four of the ten are new members. They are Prof. Morris Loeb, 273 Madison Avenue; Isidore M. Levy, lawyer, of 87 Madison Street; Joseph Barondess of 1,530 Fifty-second Street, Brooklyn, and Mrs. S. J. Kramer of 238 West 139th Street.

Prof. Loeb succeeds Dr. Charles E. Bruce, while Mrs. Kramer succeeds Mrs. Helen C. Robins, who resigned last week. Mr. Levy takes the seat of Max Katzenberg, resigned, and Mr. Barondess succeeds Horace E. Dresser of Brooklyn.

Those reappointed are Cornelius J. Sullivan, James E. Sullivan, Manhattan; Thomas M. Delaney, Brooklyn; Frank D. Wilsey, the Bronx; Rupert P. Thomas, Queens, and John Martin, Richmond.

Mrs. Kramer, the new woman member, is President of the Associate Alumnae of the Normal College, of which she is a graduate. For ten years she has been a member of the local School Board of her district. Prof. Loeb is a son of one of the founders of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and a graduate of Harvard, '83, and Berlin, '87. He was Professor of Chemistry at New York University up to a few years ago. Mr. Levy, like Mrs. Kramer, has seen service on a local School Board, and Mr. Barondess is well known as a labor leader.

BARNES WINS APPEAL.

Needn't Answer Disputed Questions Before Committee, Says Court.

ALBANY, Nov. 29.—The Appellate Division, Third Department, to-day reversed the decision of Justice Joseph A. Kellogg, which directed William Barnes, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, to answer certain questions put to him by counsel for the Senate committee which is investigating Albany city and county affairs, and to produce the books of The Journal Company. Justice Betts dissented from the decision.

The matter will now be taken to the Court of Appeals, which will decide whether Mr. Barnes must comply with the mandates of the committee or be committed to jail. Under the resolution authorizing the investigation the official life of the committee will expire on Jan. 2, and an effort will be made to obtain a decision by the Court of Appeals before that time.

Commenting on the appeal, Mr. Barnes's newspaper, The Evening Journal, says this evening:

"The Constitution of the United States was established to secure individual liberty, which had been denied by the Governments of the Old World. [illegible]

"It is well that this matter reach the highest court in the State, and possibly the United States Supreme Court, [illegible] the American form of Government [illegible]."

TAFT IS ANNOYED BY MATIN INTERVIEW

White House Rule Broken by French Journalist—An Official Denial Issued.

GOOD FAITH, SAYS WRITER

Francois de Tessan Was Introduced by the French Ambassador and Submitted the Dispatch to Him.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The Matin publishes what purports to be in interview with President Taft, written by Francois de l'Espigarie de Tessan, who is now in the United States. The writer quotes the President on such questions as intervention in the Turkish-Italian war, America's attitude in China, the situation in Mexico, and the general subject of arbitration.

When asked about the probability of American meditation in the Turkish-Italian war, M. de Tessan says that President Taft declared that the United States was certainly in favor of the re-establishment of peace. Nevertheless, said Mr. Taft, he felt that it would be unwise to depart from the path of wisdom, adding: "Our relations with the two belligerents are equally friendly. We do not wish to offend the national dignity of either. Moreover, the Turkish-Italian war concerns primarily the European Concert. There is therefore the question of tact. The United States cannot put herself forward to bring an end to a conflict which, however, from the bottom of her heart, she desires to see ended. If the European Powers were in accord in asking for our meditation we should be happy to work in favor of peace. We have wished to avoid anything that might lead to misinterpretation of our action. That is the reason why up to now we have adopted an impartial and impassive attitude."

Speaking on the subject of China, President Taft is quoted as saying that the United States would naturally defend its interests, remaining at the same time faithful to the double principle of the maintenance of the integrity of the Celestial Empire and of the "open door." Mr. Taft went on to say, according to M. de Tessan:

"The United States cannot conceive on the other side of the Pacific a nation dismembered and a prey to foreign cupidity, in which our enterprises would no longer be in a state of stability. What will emerge from the Chinese revolution is a question which no one knows how to answer. It is necessary, therefore, to act with prudence and within the limits of the international accords concluded after the Boxer troubles. We are adopting a patient attitude, so as not to add foreign troubles to the existing confusion in the interior. The point of view of the United States has not varied since the time of John Hay. We wish to see China restored to youth and modernized, so that when industry and public works are actively pushed forward we shall be able to develop our commerce in accordance with the rules of loyal competition."

When asked if any disquietude existed in regard to Mexico, President Taft, it is said, replied that everything would be done to re-establish peace there, adding that the United States would not permit agitators to prepare a civil war on United States territory, and remarking:

"Our bankers, merchants, and citizens have already been greatly embarrassed by the persistent troubles. We have no hostile project against our neighbors, but desire to maintain order."

Continuing, President Taft is quoted as saying:

"On the eve of the opening of the Panama Canal it is of importance to see the people to the south of our frontier enjoy the healthful tranquillity necessary for the triumph of the great work about to be finished, and to see the countries in the vicinity of the Isthmus in perfect security rather than have the spectacle of unceasing revolutions and counter-revolutions."

The President remarked that he had returned from the Far West with the conviction that he had accomplished a good work and also with the conviction that he had dissipated misunderstandings in connection with the arbitration treaties signed with France and Great Britain, declaring that "after all I have seen and heard, I am convinced that the Senate will ratify the text of the treaties submitted to it."

The President expressed appreciation of France's welcome to his arbitration proposition, and praised Ambassador Jusserand, saying he was the first to give his adhesion in the name of France to this "beneficent arbitration principle," which would accentuate the solidarity of nations. He rejoiced in the immediate collaboration of two friendly republics. He added: "It is necessary now to work in order to widen the progress already made."

In conclusion President Taft declared that the ambition of the United States was to find in front of an America harmoniously united a Europe preserved from war by rules of arbitration becoming each day more powerful. Mr. Taft said:

"There is a beginning to all things. Whatever obstacles we may temporarily meet on the way, we will attain our goal, because it is a generous goal and because the entire world is advancing toward it."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Formal denial was given at the White House this afternoon of an alleged interview with President Taft that was printed by the Paris Matin this morning.

It seems that a few days ago François de Tessan was introduced to the President by M. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, and had a general conversation of a few minutes with the President. The President seems to have talked as frankly on that occasion as he does on others when he is discussing public questions with friends. The President sometimes talks quite frankly with American newspaper men, but it is always understood that he is never to be quoted, and that use is not to be made of what he says without a distinct understanding. M. de Tessan either did not know of that understanding, or disregarded it on the theory that publication in Paris would not be a violation of it. The result was that, when attention was called at the White House this morning to the Matin interview, the following statement was issued by Secretary Hilles:

> An alleged interview in The Matin of Paris, purporting to quote the President on certain phases of the attitude of the Government of the United States toward foreign affairs, was this morning brought to the attention of the Secretary of the President.

Mr. Hilles explained that much surprise had been felt at the White House in finding that a gentleman, introduced by the French Ambassador, should have thought fit, without any authorization, to circulate as an interview his recollection of casual remarks made by the President in the course of hurried conversation. The geneleman in question was one of a very large number received during a busy morning, and no interview whatever was authorized.

M. de Tessan was understood at the White House to be a cousin of Count de Chambrun, Military Attaché of the French Embassy, and was introduced to the President by Ambassador Jusserand. Count de Chambrun to-day, however, declared that the journalist was no relation of his.

The fact that M. de Tessan was introduced to the President as the correspondent of the Matin does not alter the situation. Many newspaper men are introduced to the President as such, and he talks with them freely, knowing that they are there in their capacity as reporters. But it is an inviolable rule that the President is not to be quoted. Whenever the White House has anything to say which may be used in quotation marks it is always, without exception, put out in typewritten form prepared by the Executive office force. There is never any deviation from this.

The President occasionally sees a number of newspaper men together, usually on Cabinet days after the Cabinet meeting. On such occasions two of the White House stenographers are always present, reporting exactly what is said by the President and the newspaper men. Even under such circumstances the newspaper men are not permitted to use the President's language. The greatest care is thus exercised to make whatever comes from the White House official.

M. de Tessan may not have understood that he was not to attempt to quote the President, but M. Jusserand has been here so long that he should have been familiar with the rule. If de Tessan had given his impressions of the President's conversation indirectly and on his own authority, as the Washington correspondents always do in such cases, there probably would have been no denial from the White House, unless his recollection proved inaccurate.

Francois de l'Espigarie de Tessan, whose New York address is 600 Riverside Drive, called at THE NEW YORK TIMES office last night and gave out for publication a copy of a letter he had sent to Washington. It is as follows:

> Mr. Hilles, the White House, Washington, D. C.:
> Sir: I have just read your remarks on my visit to Mr. Taft. Allow me to emphasize strongly the fact that I acted in good faith on that occasion. The Secretary of our Embassy, who asked the audience for me, told you that I was an author, writing my impressions on this country, and anxious to see the President as a representative of Le Matin. My journalistic purposes seemed well established.
> When I was received by M. Taft I sincerely thought that you had made him well aware of my quality.
> During the conversation with the President I asked him several questions about the foreign policy of the United States, and he frankly answered me. He did not ask me to keep his opinions secret. I was happy to catch this opportunity of expounding his ideals in my country, and I wrote an article on my visit to the White House with that in view.
> But in order to avoid any mistake and to show you what is my professional care, I submitted my dispatch to our Ambassador.
> There was nothing in it which was not perfectly in accordance with the views several times expressed by the President in private or in public on the same topics. Therefore, I cabled my article to Paris.
> My conduct cannot be blamed any way, and my courtesy is above suspicion in that case. Would you kindly explain it to the President?
> Trusting that this explanation has removed any misunderstanding, I beg to remain, Sir,
> Yours very truly,

RETAIN EX-GOV. GAGE.

Will Defend Franklin, Accused of Attempting to Bribe McNamara Talesman

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 29.—Ex-Gov. Henry T. Gage was retained to-day to defend Bert Franklin, former United States Deputy Marshal, accused of attempting to bribe one of the McNamara talesmen. Mr. Gage was at one time United States Minister to Portugal. He is wealthy, and for many years was a close personal friend of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, owner of The Times. Before taking the Franklin case Mr. Gage received a retainer of $10,000 cash, which was furnished by the McNamara defense.

Further arrests in connection with the alleged attempt to bribe Talesman Lockwood will probably be made. Names of lawyers for the defense of the McNamaras are mentioned freely, but so far no official has made any statement. Franklin's hearing will be held next Monday, and it is not likely that any further arrests will be made before that time.

Clarence S. Darrow to-day said:

"Any statement that I or any man connected with me would have anything to do with bribery is a lie. All we want here is a fair jury."

Three trials and a Grand Jury investigation all going at once were the possibilities of the McNamara murder trial to-night when court adjourned for Thanksgiving until Friday.

One more talesman accepted as to cause was the fruit of the day's court proceedings in the case of the People against James B. McNamara. He is A. W. Stewart, a farmer, who came from Logansport, Ind.

HUDSON TUBE RATES FAIR.

The joint board of officers of the New Jersey State Commuters' Association and the Commuters' League of New Jersey met William G. McAdoo, President of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company, at the Hudson Terminal Building, yesterday afternoon, for a conference to ascertain the reasonableness or unreasonableness of the company's increase of rates between New Jersey and uptown Manhattan from 5 cents to 7 cents, announced several days ago. Mr. McAdoo laid before the committee figures showing the company's expenses and fixed charges which he had submitted on Nov. 24 to Howard Marshall, President of both commuters' organizations, and on the basis of which Mr. Marshall at that time declared he felt the proposed increase in tunnel rates was justified and reasonable.

> After a careful examination and consideration of the sworn public statements filed with the Inter-State Commerce Commission and presented by Mr. W. G. McAdoo in person, Resolved, that the statement issued Nov. 23, by Howard Marshall, President of the Commuters' League of New Jersey and the New Jersey State Commuters' Association, in regard to the proposed increased fare on the Thirty-third Street branch of the McAdoo Tunnels as being reasonable and just, be and the same is hereby approved by the officers of both organizations in joint meeting assembled. Dated, Nov. 29, 1911.

SICK LIST CUT IN QUEENS.

Official Visits Immediately Improved the Health of Borough Employes.

Official illness has suddenly fallen into disfavor among the employes of the Borough of Queens since Dennis J. O'Leary, the new Public Works Commissioner, started Charles W. Baylis out the other day to visit the invalids who were off on sick leave at the city's expense. Under former administrations, when an employe of the borough wanted to see his grandmother or take in the matinée, he simply applied for leave of absence with pay on account of illness.

When Commissioner O'Leary gave up his post as Assistant District Attorney of Queens for his present job he was at a loss to account for the amount of sickness among his working staff. From ten to fifteen applications a day for leave of absence on account of illness with pay were filed at his desk.

Inspector Baylis began his sympathetic rounds with the surprising result that in the next few days the requests for leave of absence on account of illness suddenly dropped to four a day, and now they do not average one a day. Commissioner O'Leary says that under proper conditions Queens is a great health resort.

MRS. STORY HOLDS HER BABY

While Lawyers Argue in Court as to Who Shall Have It.

Mrs. Helen Hilton Story, who is being sued for divorce by her husband, Allen Lawrence Story, had possession of her 3-year-old daughter, Ruth King Story, for a short time yesterday in the Supreme Court. Mrs. Story held her little daughter while lawyers argued about the possession of the child before Justice Seabury.

When the court adjourned the argument to Dec. 5 Mrs. Story reluctantly returned the child to a nurse employed by her mother-in-law, Mrs. William Cummings Story. Justice Seabury directed that pending the decision on the writ of habeas corpus Mrs. Story may see her daughter every afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock.

CONVICT TWO MORE FOR CROTON MURDER

Three Out of Five Italians Now on Way to the Electric Chair for Killing Mrs. Hall.

SETS A NEW STATE RECORD

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Filipo Di Marco, and Lorenzo Calli, two of the five Italians charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Hall at Croton Lake on Nov. 9, were found guilty of murder in the first degree late this afternoon. With their conviction three of the cases have been disposed of, and it is believed that Westchester County has established a new record in this State for quick action in homicide cases. The actual time taken up for the trial of the three men who have been convicted is less than eighteen hours. Vincenzo Cono, who was convicted yesterday, is the third man now in the Westchester jail awaiting sentence to death for his part in the robbery plot that ended in the murder of Mrs. Hall.

The trial to-day of Calli and Di Marco was considered the most important of the five cases, because it is believed that Calli, known as "Tony" by his confederates, was the brains of the gang that journeyed to Croton Lake on the night of Nov. 8 to break into the ancestral home of the Griffin family for the purpose of stealing $3,000 in cash they believed to be in the house, this money being the amount of an insurance policy paid to Mrs. Griffin on the death of her father a few months ago.

Calli was the last of the five charged with Mrs. Hall's murder to be taken into custody, and it was in order that his beard might have a chance to sprout that the trial was delayed for eighteen days. On the day of the murder Calli wore a short, stubby beard and black mustache, it is said, and the first thing he did when he got back to Brooklyn after the murder was committed was to get a clean shave and a hair cut.

Miss Anna C. Griffin, daughter of the widowed owner of the old home, who was held up by Calli, it was testified, on the day of the murder and compelled at the point of a pistol to give him all the money that was in the house, was able to identify Calli without his beard, but the identification was not so positive and convincing as that she made to-day when she saw him cowering in his chair in the court room wearing the short, stubby beard again.

Di Marco, the other Italian who heard a verdict this afternoon that will send him to the electric chair, was identified by Mrs. John S. Rae, who, with Mrs. Hall and Miss Griffin, was in the house when the five Italians came there to rob and murder. Di Marco, so short of stature that he just misses being a dwarf, was identified by Mrs. Rae as the man who stood on guard outside the house while the others went in to rob and murder. She had been held up by Di Marco while she was fleeing from the house and compelled to retrace her steps at the point of a pistol, Di Marco pointing the pistol at her with his right hand while he flourished a stiletto with his left.

When court convened this morning Sergts. Carmodt, Duane, Roosa, and Smith of the Aqueduct Police, with fifteen armed men, were again on guard within and outside the courtroom. The presence of this heavy guard in the Court House has occasioned much talk, and until to-day no detailed explanation of the reason this precaution was taken was forthcoming.

Rumors of "Black Hand" letters sent to Justice Tompkins, who is presiding at the trials, to District Attorney Winslow and his assistants, and even to Sheriff Hartnett, were at first said to have been the occasion of the big guard. Justice Tompkins asserts that he has not received any threatening letters and Sheriff Hartnett says likewise. District Attorney Winslow, however, admitted that he has been getting them every day or two, but that he pays no attention to them.

The real reason, however, is that a great deal of bad feeling has been noticeable in the watershed among certain Italians since the arrest of Calli, Di Marco, and their confederates, and this feeling became so pronounced that it was considered a wise move to have the court fully protected during the trial of the cases. None of the prisoners was an aqueduct laborer, but they had friends among them.

A careful investigation of watershed conditions disclosed the fact that a large number of the Italian laborers were carrying concealed weapons, and for several weeks past the police have been disarming and arresting all caught with weapons.

Jury Quickly Selected.

When the cases of Di Marco and Calli, who elected to be tried together, were called this morning, Clifford Beare of New York, who conducted the Cono defense yesterday, announced that Mr. Dempsey of Peekskill would be in charge of the defense of Di Marco and Calli.

Six hours were required to get a jury to try Cono, but to-day less than two were needed to get twelve men for the Di Marco-Calli jury.

Miss Griffin was called by the State, and, pointing her finger at Calli, said he was the man who had compelled her to open the money safe and give him the $55 or $60 that was in it at the time, besides about $13 that was in her purse, and between $4 and $5 in change that she had in a little basket.

Mrs. Rae followed Miss Griffin and pointed to Di Marco as the man who was on watch behind the Griffin barn, and who had told her that if she screamed he would kill her. Mrs. Rae had a baby in her arms and was dragging another less than 3 years old by the hand when she was stopped by Di Marco.

After the identification of the prisoners Sheriff Hartnett and Jail Warden John Hill were called, and their testimony showed what a shrewd individual Calli, the gang leader, is. Hartnett told of the capture of the man in Brooklyn and of his repeated requests after he was locked up in jail to be shaved.

"He said his face was sick and needed a cleaning," Sheriff Hartnett said Calli told him.

When he saw that he would not be permitted to have a barber, Hartnett said that Calli tried to manufacture a razor out of a piece of tin can and a piece of copper wiring that he got hold of while in jail. The tin had been beaten into the shape of a razor blade, and the copper had been inserted into the upper edge as a handle. Calli was detected while trying to whet an edge on the tin blade by rubbing it on the cement flooring of his cell.

At 3:30 P. M. Mr. Dempsey opened for the defense, and at 4:30 P. M. Mr. Davis, the Assistant District Attorney, began his closing speech for the State. At 5:20 the case went to the jury, and at 5:35 the verdict of murder in the first degree was announced to the court by H. H. McCalla, the foreman.

Justice Tompkins remanded the prisoners until Wednesday morning, when he will sentence them to the electric chair. The customary motions for a new trial were made by Mr. Dempsey and denied by Justice Tompkins.

Zanza and Giusto, the other members of the gang who are under indictment, will be placed on trial on Monday morning. It will be proved, it is asserted, that one of the two stabbed Mrs. Hall.

One of the lawyers for the defense was asked by THE TIMES reporter after the jury rendered its verdict against Di Marco and Calli, why he had not called either of these men to the witness stand.

"Because the State had a confession about two inches thick from each of them," he replied.

DENY CALL TO DR. FAUNCE.

Rockefeller Church Trustees Say He Has Not Been Invited to That Pulpit.

A dispatch from Boston last night said that the Rev. William H. P. Faunce, D. D., President of Brown University, had received an invitation to resume pastoral work in the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. John D. Rockefeller attends this church as well as other rich and prominent men, and the dispatch said that Mr. Rockefeller was a leading factor in the call. It also intimated that friction between Dr. Faunce and the college boards had arisen through the desire of Dr. Faunce to throw open the doors of the university to all and not make an exception in favor of Baptists. It added:

"Great pressure was brought to bear on Dr. Faunce to stay as soon as it became known to-day that there was a likelihood of his accepting the New York offer, and to-night telegrams from prominent alumni, who have been appealed to to use their influence with him to remain, are beginning to pour in on him."

Diligent inquiry among the Trustees and prominent members of the church last night failed to confirm the statement that Dr. Faunce had been invited to resume his work in the church. Charles D. Spencer, a Trustee, said: "I know nothing of it. I never heard of it before."

Eugene H. Paddock, another Trustee, said: "It is not true. I would certainly know of it if there was any truth in it."

The son of John H. Comey, a Trustee, said: "It is not true."

J. K. Shaw, until recently a Trustee, said: "I have never heard of it. I would probably know it if there was anything in it."

The son of Colgate Hoyt, a Trustee, said: "This is the first I have heard of it. If it was true I think I would have heard something of it."

Frank L. Froment, a former Trustee, said: "This is the first I have heard of it. I don't believe it is true."

SEND CALL TO DR. CARSON.

First Presbyterian Society of Greenwich Offer Chicago Pastor $3,500 Salary.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 29.—The Rev. Frank M. Carson of 820 Edgecombe Place, Chicago, pastor of the North Park Presbyterian Church, received a call this evening, at a meeting of the members of the First Presbyterian Church here, to become its pastor, at a salary of $3,500. A committee of the church, composed of Charles T. Wills, W. R. H. Martin, and Col. Robert C. McKinney of New York and Elders S. Augustus Brush, Osro W. Thomas, Leonard L. Allcorn, and Edward Slater, made a unanimous report favoring Dr. Carson.

When the Rev. W. B. Waller resigned the congregation gave him a purse of $5,000. He had preached for forty years. Dr. Carson is said to be a great church builder, and speaks of his church bowling club and his church ball team. He has just completed a church house for the boys.

Dr. Carson is 51 and has three daughters, the eldest of whom is 14 and the youngest 4. Dr. Carson has signified his desire to come to Greenwich, as he wishes to educate his children here. He is expected shortly after the first of the year.

JEWISH FARMERS PROTEST.

Against Passport Discrimination, Though They Don't Intend to Visit Russia.

Resolutions petitioning Congress to abrogate the 1832 treaty with Russia, unless that Government immediately ceases its discrimination against certain American citizens, were adopted last night at the final session of the third annual convention of the Federation of Jewish Farmers of America in the auditorium of the Educational Alliance. The resolutions said:

> The members of our organization have no personal desire to visit Russia; all of us, whether immigrants or natives, love our country, cherish its institutions, and rejoice in the opportunity which this country affords us to till the soil; but the fact that an American passport, issued under the great seal of the United States, will not admit an American citizen to Russia, if he happens to be a Jew, is in the highest degree degrading to us. We feel that it is a violation of the spirit of our institutions if the United States Government, even for a moment, allows such discrimination to be practiced against any of its citizens.

The convention also declared itself in favor of the establishment of a parcels post system. The establishment of a market in this city where the Jewish farmers might sell their products on consignment was heartily favored by all the delegates, but it presented so many complexities that it was voted to leave its working out to the Executive Committee.

Many delegates complained that in Ulster and Sullivan counties in this State particularly Jewish farmers are discriminated against in the making of rates for fire insurance protection. The meeting resolved to name a committee to begin procedure looking to the incorporation of a mutual fire insurance company.

The success of great credit unions formed within the federation in Rensselaer County in this State, and Fairfield County, Conn., was told by General Manager L. G. Robinson of the Jewish Agricultural and Industrial Aid Association, who urged the formation of similar credit unions by all the forty-one branches of the federation.

The following officers were elected: President, Samuel Hein, Nassau, N. Y.; Vice President, Harris Rotman, Millis, Mass.; Secretary, Joseph W. Pincus, New York City; Treasurer, Dr. Paul Abelson, New York City; Executive Committee—Raymond N. Lipman, Norma, N. J.; Max Nuremburg, Malaga, N. J.; Joseph Kennock, Pine Brook, N. J.; Jacob Weiner, Ellenville, N. Y.; H. Schindler, Hurleyville, N. Y.; Eli Greenblatt, Botsford, Conn., and Moses Kaufman, Ellington, Conn.

Magistrate Declines to Entertain the Charge Against Louis Neumann.

Magistrate O'Connor in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday refused to entertain a charge of assault and disorderly conduct against Louis Neumann, a roofing contractor of Mount Vernon, when he was arraigned on the complaint of Mrs. Catherine Campbell. According to Mrs. Campbell, Mr. Neumann struck her when she was attempting to arrest a driver for cruelty to his horses.

Mr. Neumann arrived in court, with strong letters of recommendation from practically all the city officials of Mount Vernon, including Mayor E. F. Fiske, and was accompanied by City Judge George C. Appel.

The disorder was in front of Mrs. Campbell's residence at 420 Fourth Avenue, on Thursday of last week.

Mr. Neumann said he believed Mrs. Campbell was honestly mistaken in accusing him.

HAINS GETS HIS DIVORCE.

He Started Suit Soon After Shooting Annis in 1908.

Justice Stapleton of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, signed the final decree of divorce yesterday for Capt. Peter C. Hains from his wife, Claudia L. Hains. The suit was started by Hains against his wife shortly after he shot and killed William E. Annis at the Bayside Yacht Club, Bayside, L. I., in August, 1908.

It was tried before Justice Scudder in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, last August, while Hains was serving a term in Sing Sing for killing Annis. The suit was undefended and Justice Scudder granted Hains an interlocutory decree. Hains has since been pardoned by Gov. Dix.

MRS. O'SHAUGHNESSY OUT.

She Is Put in the Custody of Dr. Mabon and Her Counsel.

Mrs. Frances O'Shaughnessy, who was acquitted of the murder of her husband before Judge Foster in General Sessions on Tuesday, the jury finding that she was insane at the time of the commission of the act of May 5, was paroled yesterday in the custody of Dr. William Mabon of the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane, and her counsel, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, by Judge Foster. Both Dr. Mabon and Dr. M. S. Gregory of Bellevue told Judge Foster that they did not believe Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was insane now, but desired to have her placed under observation.

"I don't think Mrs. O'Shaughnessy would be a danger to the community, but she might be dangerous to herself," said Dr. Mabon. Dr. Gregory had the same idea about her case.

Before leaving the court room to pack up her clothes in the Tombs preparatory to going to Ward's Island, Mrs. O'Shaughnessy said she intended to change her name and go West as soon as possible.

"I intend to begin life anew," she said. "I will not get married again under any consideration—I am through with all that." She admitted receiving many letters offering her employment, but destroyed most of them. After packing her clothing she left the Tombs to a chorus of good wishes from keepers, prisoners, and the Matron.

Mr. Mahoney received a bronze statue for winning an acquittal for Mrs. O'Shaughnessy. He was formerly Captain of the New York Athletic Club, and is now on the Board of Governors. He has been coveting a bronze statue of Pugilist Kilrain, which was owned by Frank Bradley, President of the Bradley Construction Company. Last Monday Mr. Bradley noticed him looking at it and when Mr. Mahoney said he wished he owned it Mr. Bradley replied:

"Well, Jerry, I will give it to you if you get an acquittal for Mrs. O'Shaughnessy."

RODGERS READY FOR FLIGHT.

Will Complete His Trip to the Pacific Coast This Afternoon.

Special to The New York Times.

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 29.—To controvert reports that he had postponed again his flight from Compton to Long Beach, Calbraith P. Rodgers, the transcontinental aviator, announced this morning that he would start on the last lap of his ocean to ocean journey to-morrow afternoon.

Rodgers passed all of yesterday and today at Long Beach, superintending the preparation of his big aeroplane, and the machine is now declared to be in condition for flight. At the conclusion of the flight the aeroplane will be shipped to San Francisco, where Rodgers is to give exhibition flights on Dec. 2 and 3 in Tanforan race track.

GIRL KEPT ASKING STOKES FOR MONEY

GAVE HIM AN ASSURANCE

That He'd Need Have No Fear That She Would Cause Him Trouble—A "Frame-up," Counsel Cries.

Seventy-three letters written by Lillian Graham to W. E. D. Stokes were produced by Assistant District Attorney Buckner yesterday at the trial of Miss Graham and Ethel Conrad before Justice Marcus in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court for attempting to murder Stokes. The letters, which covered a period from the Fall of 1907 until the latter part of 1910, were put in evidence to offset a written assurance, alleged to have been given by Miss Graham to Mr. Stokes while she was visiting him on his Kentucky Farm, that this was not her first affair of the kind, and that therefore he "need not have any fear that she would make any trouble for him."

Clark L. Jordan, Miss Graham's counsel, relieved Robert M. Moore, counsel for Miss Conrad, of the burden of cross-examining Mr. Stokes any further after Mr. Moore got Mr. Stokes to deny that he was ever struck over the head with a chair by Miss Conrad on the evening when he was shot while calling upon Miss Conrad in the Varuna Apartments. Mr. Stokes said he had made a mistake when he said that Miss Graham dragged him along the hall, as she had not dragged him, but had merely struggled with him.

Mr. Jordan took Mr. Stokes back to the Fall of 1906, when Mr. Stokes first met Miss Graham in the Ansonia. Mr. Stokes said that Miss Graham told him she was 24 years old, and denied that she had showed him a scrapbook in which her age was given as 17.

"Now, then, Mr. Stokes, on your direct examination you said that you demanded an assurance from Miss Graham that she had relations with other men before she visited you on your stock farm in Lexington, didn't you?" Mr. Jordan asked.

"Yes," he replied, while all in the courtroom leaned forward to learn what was going to happen next.

"Was it a written assurance?"

"Yes."

"Where is it?"

"The District Attorney has it."

"You say you received this paper about 1907?"

"Yes, about April, 1907."

Mr. Jordan demanded that the District Attorney produce the paper and after Mr. Buckner had handed it to him characterized it as a "frame up" and read it to the jury.

Stokes Didn't Expect the Bullets.

Mr. Jordan then asked if it was true that Mr. Stokes had exclaimed on the day of the shooting that if it was one cent or death he would take death. Stokes replied that it was true, and then Mr. Jordan asked him why he had said it and if he thought the girls would shoot.

"I did not think the girls would shoot," said Mr. Stokes. "I thought they had lost their nerve when I refused to write a retraction for what Miss Graham said I told Miss Conrad and I did not think they would shoot me for not writing a check for $25,000."

Mr. Stokes was asked why he had ordered Miss Graham from the Ansonia Hotel and he said he did so because he was married and did not want here there to annoy him.

Mr. Jordan closed his cross-examination and Assistant District Attorney Buckner took up his redirect examination. After a few unimportant questions he held up a letter and after Mr. Stokes had said that Miss Graham wrote it read it to the jury. It was dated Dec. 12, 1906, and told how disappointed Miss Graham had been because Stokes had not seen her the night before. Mr. Buckner then produced letter after letter written to Mr. Stokes by Miss Graham. One dated October, 1907, read:

> Dearie: You have broken my heart. I did not think you could be so cruel; the way you left me to-day in an angry way. I think, dear, you owe me an apology, dearie, if you still love me.
> You have not treated me quite fair, dear, I think, but any way I love you as much as ever. Dearie, for a little healing for my wounded heart could not I go for a ride with you to-night?
> If not, will you phone me any way. Please.

After this letter had been read Miss Graham buried her face in her muff and kept it hid there while other letters expressing love for Stokes and asking for money were read. In a letter on March 15, 1907, she said:

> It is such a beautiful day that you should have gone out. It would have made you feel better and help you to forget the widow.

Another letter, undated, also mentioned the widow. It said:

Here She Says Good-Bye.

The next letter, written Feb. 18, 1907, was:

> Dear Mr. Stokes: I know you will be surprised to receive this if you do, for I am only taking a chance on your going to the Annex Hotel.
> You did not care enough to even come and see me for a minute before you left, but I do not care. You never keep your word with me, and you tell me you care for me when I know you do not, so perhaps it is just as well, for I have made up my mind never to see you again, no matter what happens. Perhaps a long time from now, but some day surely, you may think of me and realize how much I cared for you.
> This declaration of my feeling will not surprise you at all, for you already know all I have said and more; but any way you shall never see me again, only from a distance, perhaps. Ever since I first met you I have neglected my chosen profession and tried to listen to your advice, but now I shall again take it up with renewed ambition, secure a position at once, and come to the front more quickly than a great many people think. It will be a very easy matter now that I am really determined. You know, dearie, I am writing all this because I could never tell it to you. Just as soon as possible I shall leave the Ansonia and live some place else, because I could never bear to live in the same house under such circumstances. With all my love to the only man I ever loved,
> I am, as ever, LILLIAN.

There is another letter dated Oct. 22, 1907, in which Miss Graham says a "friend of mine promised me an automobile once," (the word friend is underlined,) and that she is lonesome for Stokes. Another letter written when she was preparing to go to Paris says:

> I hope you will not be angry with me or think I have been careless and extravagant. You have already been so good and kind to me, and, of course, know how much I appreciate it. But, dearie, I am so sorry and hate to tell you that I have sent the money you gave and now have not enough to pay for my gown and get my ticket. You know, dearie, I was disappointed at the last minute in not getting some money which I expected. I know it will seem to you I have spent a lot of money, but, dear, I have not wasted a penny. I had so many things to get. I whenever you want me, if you ever do. Dearie, you will not refuse me this for the last time. Remember, it is not a great deal to ask, and you will not miss it. Of course, you know, dear, if I wanted to be bad and sell my soul I could very easily. The world is full of men looking for such chances, but I would prefer death rather than become a person of that kind. Say yes to what I ask.

Lettters bearing the dates Feb. 26, 1908; May 29, 1908, and Aug. 2, 1908, beg Stokes to come to see her. The letter of Feb. 26 says: "Dearie, I will leave my door unlatched." "I know you will never find any one as beautiful, nor half as charming, who will love you so," she says in another. "I am not a bit jealous." The last letter says: "I am sorry you have been so mean!" The last two letters were written on Waldorf-Astoria paper.

In a letter from the Hotel Garde at Hartford, Conn., on Sept. 29, 1908, she says she is with a show and wants to see him when she arrives in New York the following week. Two letters were written from the Hotel Aberdeen in this city on Nov. 17 and Nov. 22, 1908. These letters speak of getting a room in the Ansonia again. In the first one she asks for a rate and in the second she says that not under any consideration would she live in the Ansonia again.

An undated letter from the Hotel Aberdeen says she is going to Paris. The next letter, undated, is from Paris and says:

> My expenses have been running higher than I expected and I could not nor would not write home to my sister, for I know she is not able at present to send me anything more, and would worry about it, so, therefore, am asking you, as the nearest friend I have, to send me $200, of which I am very much in need, as soon as possible. It will only be a question of months now until I can repay you, if you will allow me, for then I will be well on my feet do hope you will not be angry or think badly of me. Dearie, will I see you?
> LILLIAN.

Here She Asks for $2,500.

All these letters were written on Ansonia Hotel paper and there was a lull lasting until January 22, 1908, when she wrote a long letter, saying:

> When I first knew you, I got along very well, but of late I have had really nothing to live on, and though I have been very economical, I did run into debt a little. I owe my dressmaker $150 and my milliner $90, and what I owe here in the hotel, which has been running for nearly five months.
> Dearie, I want to go to Europe and study part of the time, and can work part of the time. I can live much cheaper there, and have a better chance, too.
> Now, dear, if you will give me $2,500 to go with, that is the last I will ever ask you for, and I will not come back here again, dearie. I will never see you again unless you want to see me. Dearie, you are probably tired of me, at least, you do not care for me as much as you used to. I love you, dear, better than any one in the world. You are the only man I ever cared for or ever will. Dearie, I will always be good and just the same; always yours alone again. Wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year, and hoping to hear soon. Baby (her sister's) sends her love to Uncle Billy. Sincerely,
> LILLIAN G.

The next letter from Paris is dated Aug. 20, 1910, and says:

> I sang last night at a private house after dinner, where I went with friends, and I received a great many lovely compliments on my voice, and every one was so nice. The American Ambassador and Mrs. Bacon were present, together with a number of other Americans. Please don't refuse what I asked in my letter to you a few days ago. I know you will not refuse this favor when $500 is not so much to you, but to me, it would enable me to get on until next Spring, when I will be married in April. No one knows what a hard time I have to keep good, for after all one's reputation is everything in this world, so, dearie, I beg of you to give me this only chance.

At Last, a Check.

Another letter dated Paris, Sept. 20, 1910, says:

> I received your letter the other day and was very happy to hear from you. I did telephone you several times before leaving New York, but you were out of town. I received the check and had no trouble in getting it cashed at Monroe & Co.'s. They were so nice about it. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate it, for it came just at a time when I was so worried, for I had been obliged to use some of the money I had for my ticket to New York, in case I could not remain here until next Spring, as I wrote you. So you can imagine how glad I was.
> I do so want to stay here until next Spring, and I hate the thought of going back to New York with nothing in view. If you will only do what I ask of you. If you would even send me $300, now, with this that you have sent me, I could manage all right. It is not a great deal to you and means a great deal to me. I know you will not refuse me. It seems I have to worry all the time, but if you will do this I can be contented then and will have no more worry. It is the last I shall ever ask of you. You know, dearie, I have never given you much trouble, and you have never done for me what you have done for others. But I am not and could not be that kind. I only ask this now, because it will mean much to me, and there is no one else I could ask for it. Will you let me know immediately, for if you do not send it I will have to return to New York. It will break my heart to have to go back to New York, for you know how miserable I am there. Please think this over well, and remember it will be the last time, I promise you. Yours sincerely,
> LILLIAN GRAHAM,
> American Express Company.
> Many thanks for the other.

The last two letters put in evidence asked for more money. They read:

> Oct. 10, 1910.
> Dear Mr. Stokes: I am nearly insane from worrying. Will you do what I asked for me, for the last time? I am trying so hard, and have been so enonomical and careful, and any one could be, for I do not want to come back to New York, for I know too well what it will mean. This is my last chance if you don't send me this, I have just a little more than my ticket, and will break my heart to have to go back, for you know, also, what it will be, there for me. I am so contented here, living quietly as I do, and it will mean so much to me if I can just remain until the Spring.
> Please, I ask you to send me the money. I have asked, and you know, I have told you before, if you do this, it is the last I will ever ask. I promise you. Please don't refuse me, I have so little time, let me know immediately before I have to buy my ticket, for I can't bear to think of returning to New York. Please don't think, I will ask again for I give you my word of honor it will be the last. I am sure you will never regret this, for it means so much to me, and I am so miserably worrying all the time. I will count the days until I hear from you.
> Please answer immediately. Best wishes always

> My Dear Mr. Stokes: I am not sure if you have received my last letter, but I am afraid not, so am writing this one. I have had a good deal of trouble with my throat and nose recently and been treating some time, and just now beginning to feel well enough, and have resumed my singing. I am so sorry to have lost so much time, as I was not able to sing a note.
> I asked you to do something for me, but you did not do it. I didn't think you would refuse me, when you knew I certainly needed it or I never would have asked you for it. It is not a great deal I am going to ask you now, not a great deal for you. I need at least $200 very badly. I have had so much expense during my illness and owe so many little things. Please send me this, will you, for I would never ask you if I could possibly get on. It is the last favor I shall ever ask. Perhaps you think I will ask again, but I promise you no; this is the last time. If I was in New York you would have to help me, so as I am away over here. Please do this. You always ask if there is anything you can do for me, so now please don't forget, and do this now. This will mean so much peace to me, so please let me know at once. Best wishes to you always.

At the afternoon session Miss Graham and her sister, Mrs. Stella Singleton, were served with a notice of dispossess proceeding by the landlady of 1046 Amsterdam Avenue, where they live. They were invited to leave a few days ago but refused, contending they had a verbal lease from week to week.

Yesterday a summons was served on Mrs. Singleton to appear in the Municipal Court of the Seventh District next Friday. Mitchell E. Friend, who is associated with Mr. Jordan, will appear as counsel for Mrs. Singleton. Mrs. Singleton was very indignant when the summons was served, and said that she would not leave under any consideration.

Justice Marcus adjourned the case until to-morrow morning.

W. R. Grace & Co.'s Clerk Held.

Henry F. Monet of 69 Kingston Avenue, Brooklyn, the cable clerk for William R. Grace & Co., was held for the Grand Jury yesterday by Magistrate McQuade in the Tombs Court on a charge of forgery. Monet pleaded not guilty and waived examination. It is alleged that by an adroit check transaction Monet got possession of $12,500 of the firm's money.

GLOOMY AUGUSTUS

The man with a gloomy outlook is the Advance Agent for Calamity. To know him is to know the worst.

The difference between an optimist and a pessimist, is that of two evils, the optimist chooses the lesser, while the pessimist chooses both.

This is a fruitful subject for thought and it may set you thinking—where you have heard it before.

We are optimists. We firmly believe in the power of cheerfulness. May we then be allowed to make some slight criticism on the gloomy attitude which some people adopt so persistently? It seems difficult for them to realize that Thanksgiving is a festival and that the Christmas season is not a calamity.

They put off until to-morrow what they can purchase to-day, thus keeping the evil ever ahead of them.

Why wait until December twenty-first, which by the almanac is the shortest day in the year? Besides, at this date, it begins to get late so early.

People with taste are fastidious. The choice must be leisurely. A hustling environment is fatal. Why not select now? We will ship the date you name.

To be honest is commonplace, but to advertise that you are honest requires genius, courage—and money. Even Truth needs adornment, and that is why CROSS guarantees the truth of their advertisements to the New York Times, who in turn guarantees them to its readers.

POPE SAYS GLORY WILL SHINE HERE

RECEIVES NEW CARDINALS

Public Consistory, at Which Red Hats Will Be Conferred, to be Held To-day—Farley's Return Delayed.

ROME, Nov. 29.—The final ceremony in the creation of the new members of the Sacred College will take place to-morrow in the Hall of the Beatification of the Vatican, where the Red Hats will be conferred on the eighteen new Cardinals, who include three American prelates, Mgr. Falconio, formerly Apostolic Delegate at Washington; Mgr. Farley, Archbishop of New York, and Mgr. O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston.

The Pope received all the new Cardinals to-day and accepted their homage. He imposed on each the red biretta, and in response to the address of Cardinal Falconio, who acted as Dean, expressed his deepest thanks for their sentiments of devotion. He said he had chosen them to enter the Apostolic College because of their piety, zeal, and culture, the signal services they had rendered to the Church, and their unlimited devotion to the Holy See.

The Pope spoke of the present persecution of the Church, but encouraged the new Cardinals with the words of Christ, who declared that His Church was while the world endured. The Pontiff gave particular greetings to the Cardinals "coming from far America," saying:

"The enthusiasm with which the news of your elevation was received, the demonstrations of gratification by all classes of citizens, the acclamations, accompanied by benedictions, affectionate salutations, and best wishes on your departure from New York and Boston, and finally your triumphal voyage across the ocean, protected by the Papal flag, give me not only hope but absolute assurance that, on your return, our Lord will multiply the fruits of your Apostolate in that hospitable land which greets all peoples of the world and provides for their welfare through laws that mean liberty. The Almighty will reign and His glory will shine in that land."

The Pope expressed the hope that the example of Catholics in England and Holland would influence the return of others in those countries to the bosom of the Church. He spoke sorrowfully of the persecution of the Church in France, trusting that Divine mercy would hasten the day of repentance, and ended by imparting the Apostolic Benediction.

Cardinal Farley's return from Rome will be delayed until at least the first week in January. It was stated yesterday by Mgr. Mooney, Vicar General of the Archdiocese, that a letter had been received from Cardinal Farley giving a list of engagements abroad which it will require at least two weeks to fulfill. It had originally been planned that his eminence would be back by Christmas.

The welcome which is being prepared for the new Prince of the Church promises to rival if not outdo any other demonstration ever accorded to an ecclesiastic in this city. Hundreds of priests will sail down the bay in the specially chartered steamer Rosedale to meet the ship in which the Cardinal arrives, take him off, and land him at the Battery, where a procession will be formed. The route to the Cathedral will be up Broadway to Tenth Street, and thence via Fifth Avenue. Along the line at various points Catholic organizations and religious societies of the city will be massed. At the Cathedral an elaborate thanksgiving service will be held, in which 7,000 children will take part. Mgr. Mooney announced yesterday that he had appointed a Committee of Arrangements to carry out this general plan, and that further details would be arranged during the week.

Mgr. Mooney yesterday made public the following cablegrams which he had sent to Rome:

Cardinal Farley.
The end crowns the work. God be praised. MOONEY.

Cardinal Falconio.
New York, on this auspicious day, sends heartiest felicitations and best wishes to your Eminence. MOONEY.

WOULD END RUSSIAN TREATY

Senators Reed and Smith to Aid Fight for Passport Rights.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 29.—Abrogation of the treaty with Russia unless absolute equality be extended to American citizens traveling under passports of this Nation, was urged to-day by United States Senator James A. Reed and Representative William P. Borland of Missouri at a meeting of prominent Jewish citizens. Both favored the adoption of the resolutions pending in Congress to terminate the treaty of 1832 with Russia.

"For more than thirty years Russia has impudently broken her treaty obligations," said Senator Reed. "We should no longer maintain treaty relations with a Government which does not respect treaty obligations."

Representative Borland said:

"We should not tolerate discrimination against a Jewish citizen of this country. The time has now come to abrogate the treaty with Russia, unless the terms of the treaty are respected."

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 29.—A delegation of prominent Jews of this city called upon United States Senator John Walter Smith to-day and requested that he support the resolution now pending in the Federal Senate calling for the abrogation of the treaty with Russia of 1832. They held that this action was justified by the discrimination of the Russian Government against citizens of the United States.

Senator Smith assured his visitors of his support of the proposed action, which he said he regarded as reasonable and proper.

LINE YIELDS TO SEAMEN.

Dispute Between Atlantic Transport Company and Union Settled.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The dispute which threatened to tie up the Atlantic Transport Line steamers has been settled, the company reinstating the seamen of the Minnehaha who had been discharged for refusing to obey orders.

The Seamen and Firemen's Union had declared that it would not permit any of the vessels of the line to sail unless the company gave way.

PERSIA INCLINED TO DEFY RUSSIA

Has Received a Demand for the Dismissal of Mr. Shuster Within 48 Hours.

ALTERNATIVE IS INVASION

Russian Troops Will March on Teheran—Great Britain Said to be in Accord with Czar's Government.

TEHERAN, Nov. 29.—Russia's ultimatum has been delivered to Persia.

Russia demands the instant dismissal of W. Morgan Shuster, the American Treasurer General of Persia, whose administration of the financial department resulted in the present complications, and indemnity for the expenses incurred in sending Russian troops to Persia.

Should the dismissal of Mr. Shuster not be carried out within forty-eight hours Russian troops will march on Teheran and the additional expenses will be added to the indemnity.

The ultimatum, in addition to demanding the dismissal of Mr. Shuster, insists upon the dismissal of other foreigners and an undertaking that Persia shall not employ foreigners without the previous consent of Russia and Great Britain.

It is stated confidently that the Persian National Council will not comply with the demands. Mr. Shuster, in an interview to-day, said that the cancellation of his contract rested entirely with the National Council.

Whatever may be the feeling of the Persian people in the present affair—and it is said to favor Mr. Shuster—Persia is helpless before the Cossacks.

In some quarters it is expected that the Russian action, which is looked upon as an affront offered to American prestige, will be resented by the United States Government, as Mr. Shuster was recommended for the position he holds by the State Department at Washington.

The presentation of the Russian ultimatum has put an end to the Cabinet crisis. After a stormy sitting to-day the National Council approved another Ministry formed by Premier Samsam-es-Sultaneh, with Vosoogh-ed-Dowleh as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—Russia demands the resignation of W. Morgan Shuster, the American Treasurer General of Persia. This demand is contained in the instructions which the Foreign Office has forwarded to the Russian Minister at Teheran, M. Poklewsky-Koziel, concerning the supplementary demands which Russia is making upon Persia to recoup her for the cost of sending troops to that country.

Great Britain, it is understood, is in accord with Russia in the demand for Mr. Shuster's removal.

The Russian Foreign Office appreciates the tactful attitude of the American Minister at Teheran, Charles W. Russell, throughout the series of incidents culminating in the present demand. The Washington Government adhered to the view that Mr. Shuster was at Teheran in a private capacity and that the situation did not call for American interference.

TELLS OF TURKS' CRUELTY.

Italian Says Red Cross Workers Were Buried Alive—Others Mutilated.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Special dispatches from Tripoli give a harrowing account of the finding of mutilated bodies of Italian members of the Red Cross Society. They were apparently tortured to death in various revolting ways.

An Italian who had escaped by hiding for three days in a ditch, pretending to be dead, and witnessing the mutilations, declares that Turkish officers and women were present. Five Italians were buried alive up to their shoulders and allowed to starve to death.

VALLETTA, Nov. 29.—Many fierce attacks have been made by the Turks and Arabs on the new Italian positions at Derna and Tobruk, according to Turkish reports.

The losses on both sides are said to approximate 1,500. The Italian forces apparently fear to advance beyond the range of the naval guns.

Enver Bey has taken up a position opposite Bengazi with 15,000 Beduins, 3,500 Turks, and thirty modern guns.

TRIPOLI, Nov. 29.—Advices received here from Bengazi by the Italian military headquarters staff are that an Italian flying column advanced five miles into the desert on Nov. 27 and attacked a band of Beduins who had previously ambushed an Italian scouting detachment.

A severe encounter ensued, resulting in a victory for the Italians. Nearly all the Beduins were left dead on the battlefield. The Italians lost twelve killed and thirty wounded.

EL DIARIO PUBLISHER FLEES.

E. T. Simondetti, Who Opposed Madero, Comes Here for Protection.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Ernest T. Simondetti, who was formerly Katharine Noble of this city, arrived here to-day from Mexico, from which she declared she was a refugee. Her husband, publisher of El Diario, in Mexico City, stopped in Washington to consult friends and lawyers concerning his case.

El Diario supported De la Barra in the campaign which resulted in the election of Madero, and for this reason, Mrs. Simondetti declared, her husband had been persecuted. Believing they could not get justice in Mexico, they came here for assistance.

Mrs. Simondetti said that as soon as Madero was elected their troubles began. She said her husband was subjected to the bitterest criticism, their home watched, and their mail opened. They were in receipt of many anonymous letters, she said, some warning, some threatening her husband. Finally a criminal accusation was laid against him, and at her earnest pleading he left the country. She remained in Mexico to clear his name, and in this she was successful, but was afraid to permit her husband to return. The paper, she said, is now in the hands of the Maderistas.

ATTACK ON NANKING BY REBELS REPULSED

PREMIER YUAN IS HOPEFUL

Says the Crisis Will Be Ended in Eight Days — Revolutionary Flags Are Disappearing.

NANKING, Thursday, Nov. 30.—A concerted attack on the gates of the city by the revolutionaries yesterday failed. The revolutionaries were driven away with heavy losses and forced to retire.

Gen. Chang, commander of the Imperial troops, retains full possession of the city. The forts exchanged fire occasionally last night.

As yet the revolutionary warships have not taken part in the attack.

Gen. Li Yuen-Heng at Wu-Chang has requested reinforcements, and the revolutionaries are preparing to send a number of ships and men to that city.

The revolutionary flags which have been fying in Shanghai and other towns in the vicinity are disappearing.

PEKING, Nov. 29.—The foreign Legations have received printed circulars purporting to come from the revolutionary organization threatening to boycott the merchandise of any nation making a loan to the Government.

Premier Yuan Shi-Kai has informed a member of one of the Legations who visited him that the crisis would be terminated in eight days. As he is endeavoring to obtain a loan, his statement may mean that he expects to be successful.

Yuan is showing a desire to conciliate the rebel provinces. It is believed that he will safeguard the Constitution.

Military dispatches from Hankow say that the strength of the revolutionary army is decreasing. Hu-Nan troops on the rebel side have refused to attack, and 5,000 rebel recruits in the Province of Hu-Pé have become insubordinate and have shot their officers.

M. Korostovetz, the Russian Minister to China, will leave here for St. Petersburg on Friday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—A cablegram to the Chinese daily paper says the revolutionary army at Wu-Chang is hard pressed.

Help from the near-by provinces has been requested.

WE OFFER TROOPS TO CHINA.

2,500 Ready at Manila to Keep Peking Railway Open if Needed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The United States to-day formally offered to China the services of 2,500 American troops now stationed in the Philippines to aid in keeping open the railway from Peking to the sea and for the protection of foreigners in China, if the Chinese Council of Ministers desires to accept their services.

American Minister Calhoun was instructed by the State Department to explain to his colleagues in the Diplomatic Corps at Peking that the United States Government, in recognition of its obligation under the treaty following the Boxer troubles, is holding in readiness at Manila an expeditionary force of from 500 to 2,500 men.

This is in no way to be considered a force of intervention, but merely the United States' part in carrying out, with the other powers, the provisions of the 1901 protocol for maintaining railway communication from Peking to the sea.

A company of marines, which will leave Shanghai to-day aboard the cruiser Saratoga for Peking, was requested by Minister Calhoun. This force will guard the Methodist mission located near the legation quarter, where 140 American missionaries are to assemble if the turn of events requires such a move.

All foreigners are reported to have withdrawn from Siakuan, the Port of Nanking.

WELCOMES TARIFF VETOES.

The More Taft Sends the Better for Democrats, Underwood Thinks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Representative Underwood, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, returned to Washington to-day from his Summer vacation. When Mr. Underwood left Washington in August he had won the confidence not only of his colleagues in the House, but of Democrats throughout the country as a sagacious and resolute floor leader.

The defeat of his party's legislative programme last session by President Taft's vetoes has in no manner dampened his ardor. He said to-day that this session the majority would urge tariff bills and make clear to the country what they desired to accomplish for the relief of the overburdened taxpayer.

The Ways and Means Committee will meet early next week to discuss the schedules to consider first and the order in which the proposed measures of relief shall be reported to the House. The committee is entirely harmonious in its views on the general programme. With the complications of the President's demand for reciprocity out of the way the Democrats hope to force the fighting from the start, and to send to the White House more than one scientifically prepared tariff bill to invite the President's veto.

Mr. Underwood believes that the oftener the President vetoes these bills the better will be the chances of a Democratic success in the Presidential campaign. He regards the present attitude of public opinion toward the Administration and the Republican Party as assuring such a victory.

Mr. Underwood denies that he is in any sense a candidate for President.

BORDEN'S STRENGTH SHOWN

Motion by Sir Wilfrid Laurier Defeated by a Majority of 44.

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—The strength behind the Borden Government was shown in Parliament to-day, when an amendment moved by Sir Wilfrid Laurier was defeated and the Speech from the Throne approved by a majority of 44. This was the first division under the new Government.

Another feature of the session was the protest of the Liberals against the appointment of Edouard Blondin, a French Nationalist, as Deputy Speaker. Mr. Pardee, Liberal whip, declared that Mr. Blondin was not fit for the place because he was disloyal to the British Empire. He quoted from one of Mr. Blondin's campaign speeches in which the French Nationalist said: "England has sown the world with hatred, quarrels, and war. We have had enough of England and of the English."

Premier Borden said that Blondin was as loyal as Mr. Pardee or many other members of the Liberal Party, including Sir Richard Cartwright, who had once declared that "Canada owes nothing to England but Christian forgiveness."

FREE FIGHT IN REICHSRATH.

Czech and German Deputies Have a Battle—Ministers Flee.

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—The Austrian Minister of Justice, Herr Hochenburger, who on Oct. 5 was the target when a would-be assassin fired four revolver shots from the gallery in the lower house of the Reichsrath, was the centre of another storm in that house this afternoon.

Herr Hochenburger was defending the Government against the criticisms of the Czech Deputies when the latter suddenly rose in a body and dashed toward the tribune with the evident intention of annihilating the Minister.

The German Party by a counter-move stemmed the rush of the Czechs, and a fierce struggle ensued in front of the Ministerial bench. The tumult became so terrific that the session was suspended and the Ministers fled from the chamber.

The clamor gradually subsided, but it was fully an hour before business could be resumed.

JAPAN'S DEFICIT $8,750,000.

To be Met by Using the Existing Surplus of $8,000,000.

TOKIO, Nov. 29.—The budget as finally completed was officially announced to-day. It shows the following amounts in yens, a yen being equivalent to about 50 cents in American money:

Receipts—Ordinary, 500,500,000; extraordinary, 53,000,000.

Expenditures—Ordinary, 409,500,000; extraordinary, 161,500,000.

The deficit shown by the 17,500,000 yen excess of expenditures over receipts will be met by using the existing surplus, amounting to about 16,000,000 yen.

RUSSELL LOSES SUIT AGAINST PINKERTONS

Montreal Capitalist Charged Them with Conspiring to Have Him Adjudged Insane.

WOMAN THEIR TOOL, HE SAID

Many Prominent Canadians Involved in $250,000 Suit—Agency Proves It Acted in Good Faith.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—The suit of David Russell, the Montreal capitalist, against the Pinkerton National Detective Agency and the local representative of the agency for $250,000 damages for alleged conspiracy to ruin his reputation, was dismissed to-day by Judge Archer in the Superior Court, with costs against the plaintiff. The trial of the case began early in October, and the events on which it was based date back to September, 1910.

Russell, one of the most prominent men in the Dominion, pressed his claim through Sir Donald McMasters, a member of the English Parliament, whom he retained as counsel at a cost of $1,000 a day. Sir Donald came to Canada especially for the trial.

The plaintiff charged that the local agent of the Pinkertons conspired to involve him with a woman and thus besmirch his reputation. The Pinkertons denied the allegation throughout, and proved that the alleged conspiracy existed only in Russell's imagination. A New York woman with whom Russell charged that it was sought to involve him had been in Montreal, but that a Pinkerton agent should have appeared at a hotel at the same time was merely a coincidence, the evidence showed.

The court described Russell as "continually haunted" with the idea that J. N. Greenshields, K. C., was behind the whole alleged conspiracy, whereas the evidence clearly showed that Greenshields had nothing whatever to do with the persons mentioned in the suit.

Throughout the reading of the judgment, which occupied an hour and a half, Russell remained in court and listened intently. He declined to make any statement afterward, and his counsel gave no notice of appeal.

NEW ATLANTIC PARCEL RATES

Charges on Packages from England to This Country Reduced.

Up to three pounds	.30
Up to seven pounds	.54
Up to nine pounds	.78
Up to eleven pounds	$1.02

MEXICAN REVOLT SERIOUS.

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—President Madero was to-night entertained at a banquet by the leading bankers, merchants, and manufacturers of the city, both Mexican and foreign.

The President, in acknowledging a toast in his honor, said that, while he was deeply interested in improving the condition of the laboring class throughout the republic, he would endeavor to treat all legitimate interests, including the interests of capital, with absolute fairness.

Public opinion is wrought up over the execution of Abel de la Mora, an alleged Reyist leader in the Territory of Tepic, after he was captured by Federals. The Attorney General of the republic says the execution, if it took place, was irregular, as the law suspending the Constitutional guarantees is no longer in force.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Nov. 29.—That the revolutionary movement in Mexico is taking on a serious aspect is evidenced by telegrams from Mexico City saying that Deputy Pola, in the House of Deputies, to-day presented a resolution that all Deputies who had absented themselves be brought back for trial to determine whether or not they should be expelled. He declared openly that the absentees had aligned themselves with the Reyist movement, and declared that the peril of American intervention loomed larger than at any other time in the history of Mexico.

The strength and audacity of the movement was illustrated to-day in the returns from the election in Casas Grandes, where Enrique Portillo was elected Mayor, although he is in jail on a charge of aiding the Reyist forces. This follows the election last Sunday in Juarez, the largest town on the American border, of Juan Medina, a pronounced Reyist, who was removed from office recently on orders from Madero.

Telegrams from Monterey say that Reyists have raided four haciendas in that State.

President Madero has submitted a proposal to Congress for compulsory service in the army. He desires to recruit 16,000 men at once.

EX-SULTAN'S DIAMONDS SOLD

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The third day of the sale of the jewels of Abdul Hamid, ex-Sultan of Turkey, was devoted to the disposal of diamonds. A total of $237,800 was realized.

The highest prices paid were for a diamond stomacher, which brought $23,600, and a necklace, which sold for $20,400. Single stone brought from $4,500 to $5,200 each.

American Dies Suddenly in Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The police were summoned this afternoon to a hotel on the Rue d'Amsterdam in the vicinity of the St. Lazare Railway station, to register the sudden death of John Delmar, described as an engineer and said to be an American citizen.

REUNION OF MORSE FAMILY.

Wife Joins Banker for Thanksgiving Dinner in Hospital Room.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Charles W. Morse, wife of the former New York banker, who is now a prisoner patient in the post hospital at Fort McPherson, arrived in Atlanta from New York this morning, and half an hour later she was at the bedside of her husband.

Mrs. Morse was greatly affected by the change that she saw in the sick man. She has been too ill to travel. Her stay in the hospital was brief. She will have Thanksgiving dinner with her husband in the bare hospital room under the eyes of the guards.

Miss Jennie Morse, the banker's sister; Harry and Ben, his sons, and his little daughter, Anna, will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Seely, who is the owner of The Atlanta Georgian and is greatly interested in the Morse case. Morse's children are all here now with the exception of Erwin, who is on his way from California.

Major Baker, post surgeon at Fort McPherson, stated that there was no change in the condition of Morse except that he seems more cheerful since his wife and children arrived.

The GIMBEL TOY STORE Is A Great Railroad Terminal

Here, in a maze of tracks, center most of the great railroad systems of the world. New York Central, Pennsylvania, London & Northwestern, Prussian State Railroads—all are maintaining such a busy schedule that it is a wonder that any train dispatcher can keep it straight.

It is a wonderful collection of electrical, and mechanical Steam Locomotives, with various types of cars, tracks, tunnels, switches, stations, bridges, semaphores and all the rest of a railroad in remarkably exact miniature.

And if you, as a grown-up, have put in hours ostensibly showing some boy how to run his railroad, but in reality getting huge enjoyment out of operating it yourself, you can imagine how some other small boy will feel about getting a toy railroad for Christmas, or adding new equipment to the system he may already own. Here are some of the things you can get—come yourself and see the trains in operation, and by all means bring him.

FIND MRS. PATTERSON INNOCENT OF MURDER

CHEERS GREET THE VERDICT

Woman Overwhelmed by Crowd's Efforts to Congratulate Her—Verdict Delayed by Judge's Absence.

DENVER, Nov. 29.—Gertrude Gibson Patterson, accused of murdering her husband, Charles A. Patterson of Chicago, whom she shot to death while walking with him in a suburb here on Sept. 25, was declared not guilty to-day by a jury in the District Court.

As the clerk finished reading the verdict, Mrs. Patterson sprang to her feet and caught the outstretched hand of her attorney. From outside the courtroom came a roar of cheers. Inside the room the crowd was quiet, but as court adjourned and Mrs. Patterson stepped forward to thank the jurors, the crowd overwhelmed her with congratulations. Her efforts to reach the jurors were vain. Later four of the jurors called on her as she was making ready to leave the jail.

The space between the courtroom and the jail was packed with a cheering crowd. On the arm of her attorney Mrs. Patterson struggled through the throng while men tried to shake her hand and women strove to kiss her. Behind her, waving both hands, walked her father, shouting his joy. Close behind him followed her mother and sister, both in tears. As Mrs. Patterson stepped from the jail rotunda the 150 prisoners gave her a round of cheers.

At 11:30 o'clock the jury sent out word that they had agreed. It was impossible for them to report, however. Earlier in the day Judge Allen, at his home, had said that no announcement of the verdict could be made before noon, as he intended to attend the funeral of Judge Bliss and could not be in court until it was over. Word was sent to him at the cemetery, but it was more than two hours before his return to court made it possible for Mrs. Patterson to learn her fate.

At no time in the deliberations of the jury were there more than two votes for conviction. Four ballots were taken. The first resulted in ten for acquittal and two for conviction of murder in the first degree. This ballot was taken last night, after the jury, which retired at 9:45, had made its preliminary survey of the evidence. After that ballot the jury went to bed.

The second ballot was taken soon after the jury returned from breakfast, resulting as the first. An hour's discussion followed and the third ballot stood 11 to 1 for acquittal.

The fourth ballot was unanimous for acquittal.

The verdict hung, it is declared, on Mrs. Patterson's trip to Europe with another man after she had married Patterson. Whether this trip was taken with her husband's knowledge and consent, after he had received $1,500 from the man with whom she went, as she contended, or whether she had withheld from Patterson the true nature of the trip, as the State contended, was the subject, it is said, with which most of the discussion dealt. The jurors accepted Mrs. Patterson's story of the shooting that she had fired after her husband had knocked her to the ground.

Mrs. Patterson spent a restless night while the jurors voted. From her cell window she could look across at the jury room, and as long as the lights were burning she kept her eyes fixed on the spot where twelve men were deciding her fate.

This morning her composure returned. She sat calmly in her cell, talking with members of her family and a few newspaper men, but only in the most indirect way spoke of what might be in store for her.

As the jurors passed by the jail to breakfast, Mrs. Patterson pressed her face against the window and exclaimed: "Oh, you dear men, if you would only look up."

As the hours dragged on her confidence increased, but she confided to the matron "My knees are so weak that I don't believe I could walk over to the court room."

She found strength, though, when she was called to court, to hear the verdict that set her free and she was gay and strong thereafter.

METROPOLITAN WINS.

Central Crosstown Line Can't Enforce an Improvident Lease.

The Central Crosstown Railroad Company lost in the United States Circuit Court yesterday its suit against Douglas Robinson and Adrian Joline, receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway, for $52,500, alleged to be due as rental for its property from Oct. 1, 1907, to April 30, 1908, under the lease of Feb. 8, 1904.

Judge Lacombe ruled that this was one of the improvident leases which aided in the collapse of the Metropolitan system and that the receivers did not assume any obligation under the lease.

The railroad company also asked the Metropolitan to refund $27,646 which it had paid the city in special franchise taxes from 1904 to 1908. Judge Lacombe called attention to the fact that the Metropolitan paid the taxes for 1909 and 1910, which it was under no obligation to do, and ruled that it must reimburse the Crosstown Company for the taxes from May 1, 1908, to May 1, 1909, which the receivers had agreed to pay. They cannot be held responsible for the other taxes.

BOOMED SCHEFTELS'S STOCK

Albert Levison & Co. Put in Business in Reno to Push Rawhide.

Affairs of Albert Levison & Co. occupied a good deal of time at the trial yesterday of George Graham Rice, B. H. Scheftels and other directors of B. H. Scheftels & Co., before Judge Ray in the United States Circuit Court. A. B. Levison, who was employed by Rice in Nevada, was called to the stand and described how he asked Rice for a job and in the end was taken on at Reno by Nat C. Goodwin & Co., with which Rice was connected.

As the Government began to ask what his duties were the defence made many objections, but at length the witness was permitted to say that he was started in business as a loan and brokerage company by Nat C. Goodwin & Co., as Albert Levison & Co.

"What did you do?"

"I opened the mail," replied Levison.

Then he explained that the business of Albert Levison & Co. was to send circulars out all over the country and that Rice looked over the circulars before they were dispatched. A number of replies, with money and checks, were received, but, though they were addressed to Albert Levison & Co., they were all turned over to Nat C. Goodwin & Co.

A circular sent out by Albert Levison & Co. was put in evidence. It dealt with Rawhide Coalition stock and strongly advised all who read it to invest in this rare mine immediately. Albert Levison & Co., it stated, had lately come into possession of a number of shares of Rawhide Coalition and other ventures through loans made on them, and were able to dispose of them at from 3 to 7 cents less than other brokers.

Assistant United States District Attorney Pitkin stopped for a moment as he read it.

"Well, well, why don't you read it all?" said Ernest Baldwin for the defence.

"I'll read what I please," said Mr. Pitkin.

"The retort courteous," remarked Mr. Baldwin and everybody laughed.

Judge Ray adjourned the case till tomorrow to the disappointment of the jury, who had asked to have the trial go over to Monday. It has now been in progress more than a month and the end it not in sight, and the jurors are complaining of the hardship of being kept so long from their businesses.

CALLS ROBIN LINE A FAKE.

South Shore Traction Company Must Transfer Its Franchise by Dec. 26.

Vigorous protests were made yesterday before the Board of Estimate against the extension of any more time to the South Shore Traction Company, one of the Robin properties, for the fulfillment of the conditions of its franchise. Complaints of violations of these conditions were filed with the board by the Citizens' Union and the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island City. One of the protesters declared:

"The South Shore Traction Company is a fake. It should have no more time. Its franchise should be revoked now."

Representatives of the company and the receivers stated that capital to take up the operation and financing of the road is ready, and the assignment of the franchise is about to be completed. The board extended the time of the company to Jan. 4, with the provision that a duly executed transfer of the franchise must be filed by Dec. 26.

File Plans for Dix Memorial Chapel.

Plans were filed yesterday by the Trinity Church Corporation for the Dix Memorial Chapel, which will be built on the west end of Trinity Church, north of Trinity Place. In architectural treatment it will conform with the main edifice.

COURT HOUSE SITE IS STILL NEGLECTED

No Steps Taken Even Yet by the Board of Estimate Committee.

DIFFERENT IN BROOKLYN

There the Justices Have Lost No Time in Agreeing on a Place for the Courts.

The Justices of the Supreme Court, as they contemplate the delay in the choice of a site for the new County Court House by the committee of the Board of Estimate, look with envy at their brethren of the Second Department. Though conditions in Kings County are not nearly as bad as they are in New York, the first steps in the provision of a new habitation for the courts there have been taken, and the matter is being pressed forward with all the Mayor's energy.

In Kings as little as possible has been left to the tender mercies of the Board of Estimate. By an act passed in May, 1909, the power to select a site and control the construction was vested in the hands of the Justices of the department resident in Brooklyn. They selected a site bounded by Court, State, Clinton, and Livingston Streets, and at once appointed an architect to draw plans for the new Court House. Then, unfortunately for the Judges, the matter had to come before the city authorities, and since February last year their recommendation has been before the Sinking Fund Commission.

Mayor Gaynor, however, has taken the matter up and given notice that at the next meeting, which will be next week, he will urge the adoption of the resolution appropriating $3,000,000 for the purchase of the site. The Mayor now controls the commission, but after Jan. 1 it will pass into the hands of the Fusionists, and he is anxious to press the matter forward while he is still able to do so.

Though there is doubt as to his power of bringing the matter to a head, considering the number of improvements now demanding attention, the Justices of New York County see that already two of the matters that must be settled in this borough before they can get any relief have been got out of the way across the river. The site has been selected and an architect has been chosen. As soon as the city will grant the money their brethren can go ahead, and they may be housed in their new quarters long before the substitute for the old Tweed Court House has begun to rise from the ground.

Borough President McAneny said yesterday that he hopes to get the other members of the Board of Estimate Committee on the Court House Site together on Monday or Tuesday of next week to inspect the territory in which it is now understood the new Court House will stand. He was confident that once they did meet the selection would not be a long drawn out proceeding, and that then the Board of Estimate would be ready to take up the matter immediately.

But it is seven weeks now since the board was empowered to act, and about six weeks ago a meeting was held in the Borough President's office to consider what sites were eligible. In that time nothing has been done, and those with business in the Court House have in consequence grown more and more impatient. A considerable part of the six months granted to the Board of Estimate has slipped away and the time for the working out of the necessary details before the Summer comes to interrupt all such activities is becoming seriously curtailed.

Meanwhile even such partial alleviation in the conditions of the old Court House as are possible have been rendered impossible by the recent action of the Aldermen. Mr. McAneny had included in the budget an item of $46,000 for the ventilation and plumbing of the Court House. These were for alterations that the best authorities have declared necessary, not only for the comfort and convenience but also for the health of those whose duties take them to the courts. The item was taken out by the Aldermen and is one of the matters which it is hoped the intervention of the Mayor may restore to the budget.

R. Ravenhall, Sr., Seeks Citizenship.

After living forty-one years in this country Richard Ravenhall, Sr., hotel and bathing house proprietor at Coney Island, has decided to become a naturalized American citizen, so that he will be able to cast his vote in the Presidential election next Fall. He applied to Percy Gilkes, clerk in the United States District Court, Brooklyn, yesterday for his final papers. Mr. Ravenhall was born in Prescott, England, on April 29, 1849.

Dix Renames Justice Scott.

ALBANY, Nov. 29.—Gov. Dix to-day redesignated Supreme Court Justice Francis M. Scott of New York as a member of the Appellate Division, First Department, for a term of five years. Justice Scott was designated originally by the late Gov. Higgins on Dec. 5, 1906.

HARMONY AT PEACE DINNER.

Both Carnegie and Taft Will Attend—To be Held Dec. 30.

After a conference yesterday morning in the office of John Temple Graves, at which the Peace Society, the Citizens' Committee, and other factions interested in the proposed Citizens' Peace Banquet, were represented, Mr. Graves announced that the banquet would be held on Dec. 30, and that all arrangements were progressing in perfect harmony.

It was announced that Andrew Carnegie will act as honorary President, and will be one of the speakers. President Taft and Secretary Knox will be present, the letter of acceptance from Mr. Taft stating that "to avoid misunderstanding and to prevent the slightest obstruction to the peace movement," he felt that he and Mr. Knox should accept the invitation of the Citizens' Committee.

Since the receipt of Mr. Taft's letter Mr. Carnegie and his associates have agreed to co-operate heartily with the Citizens' Committee.

Contractor Rielly Exonerated.

Thomas A. Rielly, a contractor, and his father Patrick, who is employed by him as foreman, were cleared of blame in connection with the dynamite explosion at 72d Street and Columbus Avenue on Thursday of last week, when one man was killed, by a Coroner's Jury before Coroner Holtzhauser yesterday.

Mr. Rielly said that no dynamite had ever been stored in the shanty which blew up. After being out for about fifteen minutes the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that Charles Wetsell, a steamfitter, at 116 Hull Street, Brooklyn, met his death in an explosion due to unknown causes.

METROPOLITAN BOND TRADES

In the first day's trading on the Curb yesterday $300,000 of the new Metropolitan Street Railway 4 per cent. bonds and $500,000 of the new adjustment 5s, to be issued in connection with the reorganization of the Metropolitan, changed hands at prices varying from 81⅝ to 81¾ for the 4s and 51¼ to 53 for the 5s. On this basis the amount of cash which the Interborough-Metropolitan Company will have to raise to carry out its part of the reorganization will be less than $1,300,000. In addition to the bonds which it may sell, the holding company is to receive $13,000,000 in the new company's stock.

Hallgarten & Co. are to finance the Inter-Met's part in the transaction and will announce the terms of the undertaking tomorrow.

RETIRE FROM NATIONAL LEAD

Daniel and Murry Guggenheim and Edward Brush Resign as Directors.

It was made known yesterday that Daniel Guggenheim, President of the American Smelting & Refining Company and Murry Guggenheim and Edward Brush, both members of the Executive Committee of the company, have retired from the Board of Directors of the National Lead Company. The reasons given for the resignations was that they were unable to give sufficient attention to the affairs of the lead company.

The Guggenheim interests became largely interested in National Lead in 1906 when that company took over the United Lead Company which had been a Guggenheim enterprise.

CORRIGAN PROMISES TROUBLE TO M'ADO

Intends to Complain to Bar Association Because Chief Magistrate Won't Sit Oftener.

SAYS, TOO, HE WAS SPIED ON

"I Suppose," Chuckles McAdoo, "It Will Have to Go to the Hague Tribunal"—A Lively Meeting.

The gap between Magistrate Corrigan and the administration of the courts in which he sits widened perceptibly yesterday. The "insurgent" Judge left a meeting of his associates in the central office at 300 Mulbery Street, with the avowed intention of referring to the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association a matter which had been settled at that meeting not at all in accordance with Magistrate Corrigan's approval.

This trouble goes back to the afternoon of Nov. 13, when Magistrate Corrigan and two other Magistrates were in the large room at 300 Mulberry Street, waiting for the arrival of their associates to attend a meeting. The matter of the schedule for next year was to come up, and Magistrate Corrigan expressed his intention of asking that it go over for a week, because he desired to protest against a schedule that provided 255 court days for all the Judges except Chief City Magistrate McAdoo, who was to sit only 55 days.

In his subsequent account of what happened he said that one of the Magistrates pointed out the impossibility of compelling Mr. McAdoo to sit oftener, whereupon he himself suggested that if all the Magistrates thought their chief should do more judicial duty perhaps there would be material to submit to the Bar Association.

The conversation had reached this point, when, following the direction of Magistrate Appleton's eyes, Mr. Corrigan was startled to find De Muth, an employe in the Chief Magistrate's office, busily taking down his remarks in shorthand. He was furious at that, and he asked De Muth how he dared do such a thing, only to be informed by De Muth that he had his orders, from whom he would not say. It took Magistrate Corrigan just about half a minute to reach for the notebook and tear out the pages. Then, when the meeting was called to order—Judge McAdoo was absent—he spoke his mind so freely that a committee was appointed to investigate with an eye to seeing whether or not charges should not be preferred against De Muth.

Judge McAdoo Accepts the Blame.

That committee reported yesterday in the negative, in view of the fact, as they said, that Judge McAdoo took the responsibility on his own shoulders. In the Chief's statement to the committee, he said:

"I do not remember my exact words, but I intended to convey to Mr. De Muth that if Judge Corrigan made any remarks in a tone which could be generally heard throughout the room, and which were not in the nature of private conversation, and which reflected on me and on my conduct of this office, they were to be taken down. These instructions did not refer to any other Magistrate, nor was there the slightest hint or suggestion from me to encourage eavesdropping, spying, or the taking down of private conversations of any Magistrate. My reason for asking that the remarks of Magistrate Corrigan be taken down was not because they would be of any personal interest to me as an individual, but for the reason that I believed they were likely, from information I have received and from my experience on past occasions, to be personally offensive and to exceed the bounds of propriety and parliamentary usage and might possiblly call for official action in future on my part."

"But, protested Magistrate Corrigan, it was eavesdropping, it was spying on a private conversation between gentlemen, and the Chief Magistrate accepted no responsibility for that." Nevertheless, with Magistrates Cornell, Kernochan, and Corrigan voting in the negative, the report was accepted. Judge Corrigan told them he thought the thing was contemptible.

"This is the culmination of a system of espionage," he said, and declared that when he sat in the Tombs Court if he only went upstairs to consult with the District Attorney or take luncheon with one of his assistants the Court Clerk would lose no time in telephoning the fact to Judge McAdoo's office.

McAdoo Has His Way.

"I do no propose to let the matter rest," was his final warning, and later he explained this by telling of his determination to carry a complaint to the Grievance Committee.

"I suppose it will all have to go to The Hague Tribunal," was the final chuckling comment of Mr. McAdoo.

Magistrate Kernochan stood by Magistrate Corrigan in voting against the schedule, which leaves Mr. McAdoo with only fifty-five court days in the year. The law provides that the Chief Magistrate shall do only such judicial duty as he finds time for, for his office is mainly administrative, furnishing a "personality to sit behind the machinery" of the courts, which was centralized by the laws of 1910. On this point Magistrate McAdoo gave out this statement last evening:

> So far as my own assignments to court sittings are concerned, the overwhelming majority of this board and myself are in complete accord. So far as I know, the objection to the number of days comes from two or three Magistrates. My own belief is that personally they don't care two straws how many days I sit. They chafe under the superintending powers given this office, and the centralized control lodged here by the law of 1910, and to the enactment of which they were opposed, and in the main principles of which they do not believe. The powers of the Chief City Magistrate are entirely outside of the board. If it were otherwise, the law would be ridiculous. The Legislature intended to create an independent Chief City Magistrate, and for that reason they created an additional Magistrate, so that the Chief City Magistrate, if his duties required it otherwise, should not sit in the courts at all.

Magistrate Corrigan believes that the extra thousand dollars which the Chief receives is plenty to compensate him for the extra administrative work. He seemed skeptical of its being so very burdensome, only slightly more so, he intimated, than the work which devolved upon Magistrate Barloy in the old days, and which was not enough to prevent his sitting quite as often as any of his associates.

The assembled Magistrates yesterday listened to the reading of a paper which was sent up from the Criminal Courts Building, a transcript of the presentment which was handed up to Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions by the Grand Jury, which looked into the case of Albert Creelman and declined to indict him. The document read:

FINDING IN CREELMAN CASE.

> In the course of its investigations conducted this term this Grand Jury has had presented to it evidence to the effect that in various instances defendants who have been convicted in city Magistrates' courts and sentenced to pay fines have offered to the clerk the amount of such fines in silver constituting a legal tender, and that such offers have been declined and the defendants kept in custody until they should make payment in paper money.
> The Grand Jury respectfully presents to this court that in its opinion such practice on the part of clerks of the city Magistrates' courts is highly improper and subversive of the rights of citizens, and that if such a custom has obtained in said courts such practice should at once be stopped and the attention of the Board of City Magistrates should be directed at once to the existence of such practice with a view that they may take the strongest and most immediate action to terminate it and to inflict proper discipline upon those responsible for it.

Again Magistrate Corrigan was on his feet. He said that if the Grand Jury had gathered that the Creelman case was but one instance of a more or less common custom or practice they had been misled, and that a committee ought to be appointed to investigate, and, if necessary, to prefer charges before the Appellate Division.

Instead his associates referred the matter to Judge McAdoo, to act in the premises as he saw fit. Last evening he said that he would see fit to summon the court clerks before him, read them the presentment and tell them that they must regard it. He doubted, however, if there would be found traces of any such custom having existed to any general extent, which was the very point Magistrate Corrigan made.

On the question of how well the Grand Jury understood the situation it was learned yesterday in the Criminal Courts Building that when Philip Bloch, Chief Clerk under Judge McAdoo, and Albert Creelman, the accused clerk of the Essex Market Court, were before the Grand Jury the jurymen requested the District Attorney's assistants to keep out. The testimony of Block and Creelman was not submitted to any cross-examination.

Banker Sullivan Fears Unfair Trial.

Counsel for David A. Sullivan, former President of the defunct Mechanics and Traders' Bank of Brooklyn, now under indictment for forgery and grand larceny in Kings County, appeared before Supreme Court Justice Kapper in that borough yesterday to argue for a change of venue for his client's trial. Sullivan said he could not get a fair trial in Kings County because of the notoriety given to the Union Bank investigation. Justice Kapper reserved decision.

MUST FREE RODENBURG.

Longer Island Sentences Than Six Months Illegal, Court Rules.

Supreme Court Justice Seabury sustained a writ of habeas corpus yesterday for Philip Rodenburg, and ordered Rodenburg's release from the penitentiary. Rodenburg was sentenced to serve a year for criminally receiving stolen property, and has served six months. His attorney called attention to the fact that the offense for which his client was convicted may be punished by 5 years imprisonment in a state prison, but that the law provides no more than 6 months in a county jail.

Justice Seabury holds that it was an error to sentence Rodenburg to more than six months on Blackwell's Island and that if the trial justice wished to inflict a longer sentence he should have committed Rodenburg to Sing Sing.

$57,843 Verdict Against Addicks.

A Supreme Court jury reported yesterday to Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum a verdict of $57,843 against J. Edward Addicks, the Bay State Gas man, and former Republican boss of Delaware, in favor of Charles H. Stanton. The suit was for judgment on a protested note. Addicks said he gave the note to protect a woman's realty, and received no consideration for it.

CITY TO DINE TO-DAY ON 500,000 TURKEYS

Carloads of Ducks, Geese, and Chickens Will Add to the Feast for the Millions.

POOR TO BE LOOKED AFTER

To-day is to be cold and fair, ideal Thanksgiving Day weather, according to the Weather Man. There will also be plenty to eat for rich and poor, for turkeys enough are on the market, mostly of the cold-storage variety, it is true, and late shipments have prevented any shortage of the "fixings."

There will be services in the churches with special music.

Half a million turkeys, not to mention ducks, geese, and chickens, it is estimated, will be consumed in the city to-day. Freshly killed Maryland, Vermont, New Jersey, and Rhode Island birds brought an average of 32 cents a pound, while the cold-storage bird retailed at about 26 cents a pound.

Cranberries are plentiful, though for a time it looked as though there was to be a shortage, caused by a fire which swept the bogs in New Jersey. This was made up by shipments from other districts and a good crop on Cape Cod. A threatened potato shortage was met by the timely arrival of several large shipments. There is enough of everything for a second helping.

The less fortunate have been provided with dinners and good cheer. At the Newsboys' Homes, 14 New Chambers Street and 247 East Forty-fourth Street; the Elizabeth Home for Girls, 307 East Twelfth Street; the Tompkins Square Home, 295 East Eighth Street; the West Side, at 225 West Thirty-fifth Street; the Harlem, 136 East 127th Street; Brace Farm School, Valhalla, N. Y.; the House of Reception of the Five Points House of Industry, 442 West Twenty-third Street, and the Shelter for Mothers with Children, 311 East Twelfth Street, all maintained by the Children's Aid Society, there will be Thanksgiving cheer for the homeless. Besides the dinners a series of entertainments has been arranged.

The city's charges have not been overlooked. The inmates of the City Prison on Blackwell's Island will have a treat. In addition to a special dinner there is to be a vaudeville entertainment at which forty-one volunteer actors will appear. Two performances will be given simultaneously, there being two stages at the prison.

Thanksgiving Day is the great event for the children of the Bethany Day Nursery, at 402 East Sixty-seventh Street, and plenty of turkey and pie has been provided. The Bowery and Chinatown will flock to a dinner to be served by the Chinatown Midnight Mission, in the old Chinese Theatre. No invitations have been issued to the feast. The diners are to come from the highways and byways, and all will be welcome. Dinner will be provided for 1,000 persons, and a brass band and phonograph will be there to aid digestion.

"Home dinners" will be provided in the morning for the poor by the Bowery Mission. At 9 o'clock there will be a distribution of baskets, each containing a good dinner for ten persons, and this alone, it is figured, will brighten the day for poor families over a large area of the east side.

At the close of business last evening the employes of Bloomingdale Brothers, Fifty-ninth Street and Third Avenue, each received a turkey with the compliments of the firm. This is an annual custom.

There will be a Thanksgiving entertainment for the seamen in port at the Seamen's Christian Mission, 399 West Street. The Sunday Kindergarten of Centre Street will spread a feast for the children at 11 o'clock this morning. All of the city playgrounds will send representatives to the De Witt Clinton Park, where they will have a ragamuffin party.

The one hundred and fifty children in charge of the Children's Society will have a real treat. Dinner with turkey will be served at the society's rooms in Fourth Avenue. This will be followed by a night entertainment. Mrs. Curtis, manager of the children's department, and Mrs. Willett, her assistant, have arranged an elaborate programme. There will be all sorts of games, followed by dancing.

"Here in New York we are in danger of falling into a custom which is inconsistent with the whole spirit of the day. This is the habit of giving pennies and larger coins to children who put on fantastic clothing and impudently ask every passer-by for money," the circular says. "It has no argument to show that to teach children to become beggars is no right way for the day."

The thoughtless are warned that the giving of money to such is dangerous, and parents are appealed to to refrain from allowing their children from taking any part in the custom.

The day will be celebrated in the churches with special music and sermons.

40-LB. TURKEY FOR TAFT.

President Will Spend Several Hours Working on Thanksgiving.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—A forty-pound milk-fed Rhode Island turkey is to grace the White House table for Thanksgiving tomorrow. The managers of an "apple show," now in progress here, will send the President some of the finest apples to be seen at the exhibition, and altogether President Taft hopes to have a fine Thanksgiving dinner.

There will be few guests. Robert and Charlie Taft, the President's sons, will not be home from school, but Miss Helen Taft will invite several girl friends. The President will attend Pan-American Thanksgiving mass and spend several hours working either at the executive offices or in his study.

AMERICAN BANQUET IN PARIS.

One Hundred and Fifty Present at Thanksgiving Eve Celebration.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The Thanksgiving Eve banquet of the American Club at the Carlton Hotel to-night brought together about 150 Americans.

Robert Bacon, the American Ambassador, was prevented from attending because of an official dinner which he was giving in honor of the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. de Selves. Jules Claretie, who was also invited, was ill, but sent a letter, in which he spoke warmly of the bonds of friendship uniting France and the United States.

Prof. William Davis of Harvard, who is lecturing at the Sorbonne, and Prof. Mark C. Baldwin were among the speakers. Prof. Davis said he rejoiced that he had not found the superficial Paris known to some Americans. On the contrary, he was convinced that the healthful, laborious, creative France was the true France.

Prof. Baldwin said that the greatest cause for thanksgiving was President Taft's initiative with respect to international arbitration.

GOVERNORS GIVE THANKS.

Proclamation Issued by Ten Executives on Their Way East.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Nov. 29.—The Governors of ten Western States arrived here to-day from Chicago. The visitors were greeted by Gov. Chase S. Osborn, Mayor Charles H. Farrell, the City Council, members of the Kalamazoo Commercial Club, and several hundred citizens.

The special train was met at the Union Station by sixteen automobiles decorated with banners for each of the various delegations, the cars being named for each of the States represented.

A reception and luncheon were given at a downtown hotel, Prof. D. B. Waldo, President of the Western Michigan State Normal School, acting as toastmaster.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 29.—The Western Governors' special arrived in Grand Rapids this afternoon. President Clements of the Grand Rapids Board of Trade acted as official pilot from Kalamazoo.

On the way from Kalamazoo the Governors went into executive session, the first of the trip. One of the results of it was the adoption of a Thanksgiving proclamation, signed by ten Governors.

Upon arrival in Grand Rapids the Governors and their party were met with automobiles and taken for a trip around the city. They stopped at a leading furniture factory and literary club, where addresses were made. A dinner was given in the evening.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—While Gov. Edwin L. Norris of Montana was here with other Western Governors, a suit for $50,000 was begun against him by Mrs. Hallie E. Howes, a Chicago woman. The cause of the action was not made known.

"The suit is over a money transaction," said Attorney Frank for Mrs. Howes.

Gov. Norris said:

"I know nothing of any such person as Mrs. Hattie E. Howes. I never heard the name before. This is all news to me. You may say for me further that I know of no person on earth who has basis for action against me for $50,000 or for 50 cents."

MAYOR'S BIRDS SELL FAST.

Shank Braves Cold to Supply Indianapolitans with Fowl at Cost.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—Braving the cold and snow for hours, Mayor Shank gave personal attention to-day to his poultry sale at cost in the city market. While the Mayor and several assistants were selling live poultry in front of Tomlinson Hall, in Market Street, several assistants were at work inside selling dressed turkeys and chickens.

The success of the former day's sale was repeated, and it was apparent that the Mayor's stock would be exhausted by the time the market closed. The only difficulty was in getting turkeys dressed fast enough to meet the demand. Coop after coop of live turkeys was sent to a poultry house for the fowls to be killed and dressed. They were delivered hourly to the Mayor's stand, where they were taken at once by waiting customers.

At noon 300 live turkeys, 150 dressed turkeys, 100 geese, 100 live chickens, and 275 dressed chickens had been sold, and there was still a large crowd to be waited on.

TURKEY FOR OUR SAILORS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 29.—The United States fleet at drill in Narragansett Bay will have a holiday to-morrow. The ships will be decorated, and at noon a turkey dinner will be served to the men, handsome souvenir menu cards being given to each.

After a band concert most of the men will have shore leave. The 2,000 naval aprentices at the training station, after a special dinner, will hold athletic contests, and in the evening will give a minstrel show.

FREE TRANSFERS ORDERED RESTORED

Street Car Lines Certain to Fight and at Least May Obtain a Long Delay.

NOT THE OLD-TIME SYSTEM

You Can't Ride on the Cars of More Than Two Companies for One Fare Under Service Commission's Ruling.

The Public Service Commission voted unanimously yesterday in favor of the restoration of a free transfer system on the street railways of Manhattan and the Bronx. It must be put in operation by Jan. 1, and counsel of the commission were instructed to draw up the formal order that will be issued to the companies. It is almost certain that the companies will not receive the order without protest. The leading men of the street railway corporations will consult together next week, and in all probability will seek relief in the courts.

The action of the commission does not amount to a complete return to the system in vogue before the Metropolitan system began to disintegrate. As things are to-day the companies give free transfers at about 160 points in the two boroughs between different routes under the same management. These will be continued, and the 151 additional points to be established under the order include all corners at which the routes of rival companies intersect.

But no free transfer will be granted to the cars of more than one company. Thus if a passenger boards a car at Ninety-sixth Street and Second Avenue he can transfer, according to the order, to the Fifty-ninth Street cross-town cars, but cannot take any other downtown line without paying an extra fare, as the Second Avenue Company has but a single north and south line. On the other hand, if he started from Ninety-sixth Street on the Third Avenue line he would be able to get a second transfer from the Fifty-ninth Street conductor to continue his journey south on the Broadway cars, as they belong to the company on the cars of which he began his journey.

The points at which the commission ordered the free transfers restored are the intersection of the north and south routes by cross-town lines at Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Fourteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-third, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirty-fourth, Forty-second, Fifty-ninth, Eighty-sixth, 110th, 116th, 125th, and 145th Streets; Stuyvesant Street, St. Mark's Place, Houston, Stanton, Spring, Delancey, Broome, Duane, and Ann Streets, Astor Place, Grand, Canal, Beach, Vestry, Desbrosses, Walker, North Moore, Cherry, and Monroe Streets, Jane Slip, Battery Place, and Cortlandt, Chambers, Watts, and Christopher Streets. Also at the junction of St. Nicholas Avenue and Eighth Avenue, and at Manhattan Street north and south on Amsterdam Avenue.

The order has been issued at a moment when the active management of the two principal street car systems of the city is on the verge of changing hands. F. W. Whitridge, receiver of the Third Avenue, and Douglas Robinson and Adrian Joline, receivers of the Metropolitan, hope to be relieved of their responsibility within the next few weeks, and the future conduct of the roads will be in the hands of the Reorganization Committees.

Both Douglas Robinson and F. W. Whitridge refused to discuss the situation, as the restoration of transfers was a matter for the Reorganization Committees, but Guy E. Trippe, Chairman of the Bondholders' Committee of the Metropolitan, said:

"The Metropolitan will probably contest the order."

One of the officials most closely connected with the management of the Third Avenue Railway system, said:

"We shall certainly appeal to the courts on the ground that the order is unfair, unjust, and unwarranted by the law and the facts of the case."

The Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth Street Crosstown Line has been operated of late so closely in connection with the Third Avenue that it is certain that it will follow the lead of that corporation, and the Second Avenue Railway and the Central Park North & East River Railway Companies are likely to fall in line with the others. George W. Linch, receiver of the Second Avenue Line and General Manager of the Central Park Line, said yesterday that he could not make a statement, as he had not yet seen the order of the commission and must refer the matter to his Board of Directors.

It was learned yesterday that there will be a consultation after the holidays by the heads of the street railway companies, and that an agreement will be reached if possible for a common course of action. That is likely to be an application to the courts for a writ of certiorari for the review of the order on the ground that the restoration of transfers will be so costly as to prevent the companies earning a fair return on their capital, and consequently that the order amounts to taking property without due process of law.

The Third Avenue Railway Company, in its protests against the transfer order, also has brought forward the point that it has spent large sums of money in building up a competitive system, and that it would be unfair, just as it had succeeded in organizing this in effective rivalry with the Metropolitan, to have it destroyed by a return to the transfer plan, which has been proved a failure.

The writ of certiorari is likely to be accompanied by an order to the commission to show cause why its order should not be held up pending the settlement of the companies' suit. As this will involve the appraisal of the property of the companies in order to determine the capital on which a fair return must be earned, the companies can, if they wish, put off the decision in the matter for a long period. It is also open to them simply to disregard the order, and it would then become necessary for the Public Service Commission to resort to the courts to procure its enforcement.

CHAMPION EATER'S MENU.

Starts Sample Bill of Fare with 15 Pounds of Turkey—Will Eat It for $25.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Charles W. Glidden of Lawrence, who says he is the champion eater of New England, has submitted a Thanksgiving menu against which he is willing to back himself to the extent of $25. Here is the menu:

Fifteen pounds of turkey or chicken, two loaves of bread, three quarts tea, six bananas and cream, twelve doughnuts, one bunch celery, ten large potatoes, one-half pound butter, one order squash, two quarts cranberry sauce, one mince pie.

Glidden is the man who broke into fame not long ago by eating 58 ears of corn in 115 minutes. Last Monday Lewis A. Walker of Spencer issued a challenge, directed particularly at James R. Kane of West Warren, and submitted three menus, offering Kane his choice, but Glidden scorns Walker and his sample menus, saying it makes him "laugh to hear these other fellows tell how much they can eat."

COAXING VOTES FROM SANTA.

Woman Suffrage Party Has Its Christmas Stocking—Checks, Too.

The Woman Suffrage Party has its Christmas stocking ready to hang. It will go up in the rooms on Dec. 1. It will be a big yellow stocking and Santa Claus will be expected to drop "Votes for Women" in it, but the public at large may give less important but very useful checks.

A big theatrical benefit is to be held for the cause in March in one of the Broadway theatres. Arrangements are going on for the torchlight parade of the Suffrage Party on May 25. Saturday evening has been chosen to give industrial workers a chance to take part in it. The Wage Earners' League, of which Miss Leonora O'Reilly is President, will be one of the organizations which will be out in full force that evening.

New Jersey Is Debt Free.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 29.—The State of New Jersey is debt free and has about $10,000,000 to boot, according to the annual audit of its books. State Treasurer Voorhees to-day made the statement that at the end of the fiscal year, Oct. 31, New Jersey was without debts and had the balance besides.

The Spirit of Thanksgiving Comes Cheerily Over the Telephone Wire.

ON THANKSGIVING DAY, from far and near, the members of the family gather for the annual reunion. After the hearty welcome home, comes the abundant feast, and then the reminiscences—the recounting of incidents almost forgotten in the busy days of the past year.

This is the day when we all long to be at home. With many of us in the busy city, however, time is so important that only at the very last moment can it be known definitely that the journey can be made. Then it is the telephone to which we turn to carry the welcome message—the message that will give so much pleasure to the waiting family at the old home.

The last moment, however, may find some of us compelled by force of circumstances to remain at our posts far from the family circle. But the telephone brings comfort, even then, for greetings can be exchanged, and the voices and the laughter can be brought miles and miles over the wires in all the kindly freshness of tone.

Join the family group if you can, but if you can't—there's always the telephone.

Milk or Cream?

That is ordinary flour.

All because—

Gold Medal Flour is ten times sifted, through ten fine sheets of silk.

Only the flour that comes through—fine, soft and digestible—ever goes into Gold Medal bags.

The quality shows in the perfect mixing and rising—in the flaky pastry—in the golden bloom on the loaf.

You can get that flour always—forever alike—by stating that you want it. Don't merely say "flour." Say—

By FRED J. WAGNER,
Official Starter Savannah Auto Races.
Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 29.—The weather was the all-absorbing topic in the race talk here to-day. The gloomy hangover from yesterday, which lasted wearily all day, created apprehension for the success of to-morrow's Grand Prize from the spectators' point of view, but a most glorious sunset dispelled this doubt and to-night this phase of the big event is most promising. The official forecaster has also given his assurance that the sky will be clear, but that the chill which accompenied to-day's gloom will for the most part continue over to-morrow.

While the auto crowd was somewhat inactive to-day the football boys who tumbled into town for the annual game between Georgia University and the Alabama Polytechnic Institute of Auburn livened things up quite considerably. The biggest crowd that ever saw this annual struggle jammed the baseball park, and as it was the big attraction of the day, naturally the auto folks were all on hand. The game was hotly contested throughout, but neither side was able to score.

It has been definitely decided that Bob Burman will drive the Marmon car in the Grand Prize to-morrow instead of Joe Dawson. It was hoped that Dawson, who left the hospital Saturday, would be able to drive in the Grand Prize race, but his arm is troubling him a great deal and he will not be in the race. It was the desire of the Marmon management that Dawson drive the car in the Grand Prize, and it was insisted that he would until every chance of his recovering from his accident in time to do so seemed to have disappeared. Now Burman has been announced as the driver. With this announcement disappears the idea that Burman might have appeared in the race with the fourth Benz car that is here. This is the only change that is expected since the arrangement to let the Mercedes cars in appears to stand, and Wishart will wear the number 54, De Palma 55, and Hemery 56.

Since the admission of the Mercedes cars into the race they have come to be reckoned as factors in the contest. Their performance in the Vanderbilt race, when they won second and third at a speed which is conceded will be close to that of the Grand Prize, if not greater, is making them talked of probably more than any of the other entrants in the big race to-morrow. There are many who believe the Mercedes cars will finish inside the money. Hughie Hughes, one of the best known drivers here, winner of the Savannah challenge trophy race on Monday, and who is not in the Grand Prize race, is among those who believe this.

Hughes thinks that the Grand Prize will be won in close to 74 miles an hour, or slightly under the record for the Vanderbilt, on account of the longer distances the cars will have to go. He picks Hemery of the Benz team as the favorite in the race. Wagner, in the Fiat, is Hughes's choice for the runner-up. For third place Hughes thinks it will be a battle royal between the Lozier, driven by Ralph Mulford, and De Palma's Mercedes. Hughes says this is the way it looks to him on form, but qualifies his forecast with the statement that one can never tell what will happen in a race and can only say what ought to happen as the situation is seen from his angle.

There were busy scenes at most of the camps during the day. Those who had no more races to run were packing up, while the sixteen entrants in the Grand Prize were making ready for that race. The activities are particularly noticeable among those who were in Monday's Vanderbilt race and who are in the Grand Prize. These, after Monday's gruelling contest, are going carefully over their cars to see that nothing broke, or is on the verge of giving way, which would bring loss to them to-morrow.

Practice for the Grand Prize entrants was announced for yesterday, but the rain that was a feature of the morning and the threatening clouds that hung over the city during the day discouraged much practicing on the course.

All of the Benz team were out and Hemery, Hearne, and Bergdoll went around the course carefully, looking into any changes that might have taken place in the race Monday. The course is said to be practically unchanged from the terrific treatment it got from the Vanderbilt and light car races and is fit for the big race to-morrow.

The two big Buicks were out with Basle and Cobe driving. David Bruce-Brown also had his big Fiat out. None of these attempted any fast time.

It is a toss up between Wagner (Fiat) and Hemery (Benz) so far as odds go. Bookmakers have placed both of these drivers on a par at odds of 8 to 1. David Bruce-Brown in his Fiat is second choice at 4 to 1. While Mulford in a Lozier, Hearne in a Benz, and Bergdoll in a Benz are all 5 to 1 for third choice. Caleb Bragg in a Fiat is placed at 6 to 1, while Ralph De Palma in his Mercedes is being played at 8 to 1. The other odds range from 30 to 1 to 100 to 1, the two Abbott-Detroits being placed at the latter figure. Limburg and Mitchell are the drivers of these cars.

Barney Oldfield has this to say on the prospects for the big race: "The Benz team is the one best bet. Lots of folks are talking about Hemery, which reminds me that the Frenchman has been in the game about as long as I have. But don't let them forget Eddie Hearne. Eddie should be the main dependence of the Benz team. He can be counted on to drive a great race. If Eddie does not win this race I shall be very much disappointed. Not that I mean to say that Hemery has not got a fine chance. But Hemery says he has driven second too many times. You may count on Hemery not coming in second again without a desperate effort to avoid it. If Hemery finishes he wins. Bergdoll must also be counted on as a factor in the race. He is driving his own car and he knows how to drive it. Don't forget that. Bergdoll won the Fairmount Park race recently in this same machine and stamped himself a fine driver in doing it. The course was a very hard one and, while he did not set up any remarkable time, it was impossible to do it on that course. The race is described by the drivers and those who knew the conditions under which it is run as being three-fourths driving and one part car.

"Of the Fiats, Wagner is a veteran who can drive. The Mercedes drivers, De Palma and Wishart, are going to show up finely, barring accidents. That goes without saying in all that can be said of the way a race should turn out. Mulford's Lozier also should be up somewhere near the front when the race is determined.

"I hear Bob Burman will drive the Marmon. Well, he has to be looked out for also. Bob is a great driver and I looked for him to do well in the Vanderbilt, and he would doubtless have done so had not the accident to his gasoline supply put him out. Patschke is also a driver who has done things. Those who know him give him much of the credit for the great winning of the Marmon at Indianapolis."

ENOS TO HEAD TICKET.

Buffalo Motorist to be President of State Association.

The Nominating Committee of the New York State Automobile Association has selected Laurens Enos, President of the Automobile Club of Buffalo, to head the ticket which it has prepared for the annual election of officers of the association at Albany on Saturday. The other nominees on the ticket include Harry G. Strong, Rochester, for First Vice President; Howard Martin, Albany, Second Vice President; Arthur B. Maynard, Utica, Third Vice President; Fay C. Parsons, Cortland, Treasurer, and J. A. Ritchie of Albany as Secretary. Herbert G. Andrews of Brooklyn, who was elected a delegate at large at the June meeting, will hold over. All of the candidates, with the exception of Secretary Ritchie, are new to the offices, although well known in motoring circles throughout the State. As there is no likelihood of an opposition ticket being placed in the field their unanimous election is practically assured.

Laurens Enos, who is to succeed Frank G. Webb of the Long Island Automobile Club as President, is the head of the Automobile Club of Buffalo, and it was largely through his efforts that the membership of his club was built up from 1,500 to more than 3,300 members, making it the largest automobile club in the world.

McFarland and Murphy Ready.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—"Packy" McFarland of Chicago and "Harlem Tommy" Murphy have practically completed training for their Thanksgiving Day bout. Both did light road work to-day, but no boxing was scheduled. The bout will be held in "Sunshine," Croffoth's open air arena, if the weather permits; if not, the promoter will stage the contest at Dreamland rink at night. Both men are down to weight. McFarland is a top-heavy favorite.

Crouse Ill; Bout Called Off.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—The bout between Buck Crouse of Pittsburgh and Knockout Brown of Chicago, scheduled here for to-night, has been called off because of the illness of Crouse.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

With the Palzer-Kennedy fight off the minds of the fight public, attention now centres in the bout at the National Sporting Club to-morrow night, when Champion Abe Attell will stack up against Patsy Kline, the New Jersey featherweight. It will be the second meeting of the pair, and was brought about after considerable effort on the part of the management. In their former fight Kline handled the champion roughly, and he was not anxious for a return match. During the past few weeks Attell has been mowing down all his poor opponents with comparative ease, but in Kline he will be confronted with a hard proposition.

The showing of Mike Gibbons last Tuesday night at the Fairmont Athletic Club, when he easily defeated Willie Lewis, has stamped him as the best welterweight of the day, and the club officials have promised him another bout. He will appear on next Tuesday night at the show of the club, and as it is not very probable that any of the local welters will care to go against him he will be matched with Walter Coffey. At the Saturday night show a good card has been arranged, and will furnish plenty of entertainment. Three ten-round bouts and two six-round contests will make up the card. In the main event Young Reilly will oppose Kid Black, and as both boys are clever bantams they should furnish a good bout. Willie Brown tackles Young Saylor in another ten-rounder, and Knockout Sweeney and Eddie Gillespie will exchange punches in the first ten-round event. The six-round events will be between Billy Curley and Willie Adams and Joe Mooney and "Sleepy" Mickey Finnegan.

On Monday night at the Brooklyn Beach Athletic Club Patsy White, the newsboy champion, and Eddie Powers, the Brooklyn featherweight, will entertain in the main event of ten rounds. In the semi-final of six rounds Lew Diamond of Ridgewood will hook up with Soldier Bachuss.

The regular Saturday night shows will be staged at the majority of Manhattan and Brooklyn clubs. At the Olympic Athletic Club of Harlem Young Otto and Billy Sherman will box in a return engagement. In their last bout Sherman won by knockout route in the fourth round, and Otto hopes to even up the score.

The Royale Athletic Club of Brooklyn has decided to run popular-priced Saturday night shows in the future. The programme for this week's show should be productive of some good boxing. The main bout of ten rounds brings together Billy Uvick of Missouri and Harry Powers, a promising welterweight. Both men are rough-and-ready fighters, and the bout should furnish enough interest to satisfy the crowd. In addition to this contest a good preliminary card is provided.

Willie Howard, the Brooklyn lightweight who put up such a hard fight with Willie Beecher a week ago, is ready to get back in action and will box Pal Moore of Philadelphia at the Wednesday night show of the Royale Athletic Club. Since his defeat by Beecher, Howard has been in hard training and expects to redeem himself when he faces Moore. The Quaker is a clever and shifty lightweight, and being in fine condition himself, the contest will be marked by some fast fighting.

Johnny Dundee, the New York bantamweight who claims the championship of Gotham and was matched to box Abe Attell at the Fordan Athletic Club, declares that Attell has backed out of the agreement, as the latter called off the match after having posted a forfeit. Dundee is matched to box Tommy O'Toole to-day at Philadelphia, and says that he is still ready to take on the champion.

KENNEDY WHIPS AL PALZER, WHITE HOPE

Tom Kennedy, the former amateur heavyweight champion, outpointed Al Palzer, the much-touted white hope in their ten-round bout at the Royale Athletic Club, Clermont Avenue Rink, Brooklyn, last night. The defeat was not as decisive as Palzer scored in the first clash of the two men at the National Sporting Club some months ago, but it made up for the previous set-back.

It was a battle of a clever man against a fighter of the rugged type, who relied wholly on strength and stamina to win. Kennedy jabbed Palzer with a straight left all through the bout, and shot over enough hard ones to rock his opponent. Palzer, always strong and willing to mix matters, rushed at his opponent from start to finish, and at the final bell he appeared better able to go over a longer route than his opponent. But neither his willingness nor strength was sufficient to offset the cleverness of his opponent. Kennedy fought a cool, deliberate battle all the way, met Palzer's rushes with the ease of a veteran, and in only one round, the eighth, did he run much behind his more rugged opponent. Cleverness gained the former amateur the majority of the rounds.

Kennedy did not show the snappy style that he displayed in the other bout, and his footwork, while better than Palzer's, was not as good as in the first bout. But he ducked cleverly, Palzer missing continually, and showed a much better judgment of distance.

The bout was full of action all the way, and was witnessed by a crowd of about 3,500 people. The spectators were for the most part Kennedy sympathizers, and they found much fault with Referee Tim Hurst for not showing more speed in breaking the men from clinches.

Al Kaufman, of California, Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant, and John Willie, the Chicago heavyweight, were introduced as challengers of the winner. Kennedy was looked after by his manager, Dan McKettrick; Dan Sullivan, Joe Jeannette and Dave Cook. Palzer was seconded by his manager, Tom O'Rourke; Paddy Moran and Griff Jones. It was announced that Palzer weighed 212 pounds and that Kennedy's weight was 195 pounds.

While Kennedy and Palzer sat in their corners appearently unconcerned, their seconds stood in the centre of the ring arguing about the rules. O'Rourke and McKettrick, managers of the two fighters, led in the debate. O'Rourke insisted that the men be allowed to hit on the break and McKettrick was equally insistent that the men break clean when ordered by the referee. The matter was finally left to Commissioner Frank O'Neil, of the State Athletic Commission, and after a consultation with him it was announced that the breaks must be clean. This was in accordance with the recent ruling of the Commission.

Palzer assumed the aggressive at the opening bell and during the entire first round he continued to rush at Kennedy. The latter, although he showed none of the fancy foot-work that featured their first bout, held his opponent off effectively with a stranght left and had the better of the bout on points. Palzer landed only in the clinches. Then he pounded Palzer's stomach, but only lightly. The pair clinched repeatedly and the crowd was continually yelling to Referee Hurst to break them. It was Kennedy's round.

Kennedy had all the better of the second round. He jarred Palzer's head back repeatedly with straight lefts and had the blood flowing from Palzer's nose early in the round. Kennedy also showed a good right swing which sent Palzer's head back. The latter was missing frequently, the result of Kennedy's clever dodging, and Palzer shook his head to O'Rourke, indicating that he was unable to follow directions. The round easily belonged to Kennedy.

In the third round Palzer ran into two terrific right hand punches. He was still trying to force the fighting, but was unable to land effectively. Kennedy was sidestepping and dodging cleverly, the result being that many of his punches went wild. Kennedy, up to this time, had shown none of the sensational foot-work that characterized the early rounds of their first battle. The round belonged to Kennedy, but by a less margin than the preceding round.

One fast exchange of blows in which honors were about even featured the fourth round, but during the greater part of the session Kennedy continued to use his left jab effectively and to make Palzer miss, at times ridiculously. Palzer was loudly hissed in this round for using his elbows in the clinches. Kennedy was still fighting a careful, deliberate battle.

The fifth round showed as much hard fighting as in any two preceding rounds. In the early part of the round Kennedy showed to better advantage, and opened a small cut near Palzer's eye. Palzer managed to draw blood from Kennedy's nose. Just before the bell Palzer landed a hard right on Kennedy's jaw and then rushed him to a neutral corner, raining blow after blow to Kennedy's head and stomach. His rally in the closing minute gave him an even break.

Kennedy kept his right hand busy in the sixth, driving a series of hard punches to Palzer's sore nose. Time and again as Palzer rushed in Kennedy beat him to the punch, often sidestepping and meeting Palzer with a stiff left. Palzer made his weight tell and he rushed Kennedy to the ropes, driving both hands to the body as best he could, but Kennedy protected himself so well that Palzer could do little real damage. Palzer was still going strong, but was outpointed.

In the seventh round Kennedy appeared a bit tired and took things easy through the round. He landed two or three hard rights to the jaw, but Palzer was more effective in his punches to the stomach, and he gained a slight lead for the honors of the round. Kennedy was showing the effects of the hard body punches and Palzer was coming as strong as in the early chapters.

Palzer had the better of the eighth round and at times it appeared that history was to repeat itself. He seemed about to be defeated after outpointing his opponent all the way as in their previous bout. Palzer's stomach punches were telling and were slowing up Kennedy. It was Palzer's round by a big margin.

Kennedy came back strong in the ninth and during the three minutes he landed three punches to Palzer's one. Kennedy was following the orders from his corner and resorted to a boxing game, refusing to mix to any extent with his opponent. He shot over several lefts which did no great damage, but an occasional right landed with sufficient force to rock the big fellow. Palzer's strength was as much in evidence as in the early chapters, but cleverness was triumphing over brawn.

In the tenth Palzer tore in to finish matters, realizing that his only hope of victory rested in a knockout. In the early part of the round Kennedy's cleverness kept him to the front as much as in the preceding rounds, but toward the finish Palzer was going just as strong as his opponent. The only mark which Kennedy carried from the ring was the result of a right hand punch in this round. It raised a swelling under Kennedy's right eye. The round belonged to Kennedy.

McGoorty Coming East to Fight.

NEENAH, Wis., Nov. 29.—Eddie McGoorty, who is to fight Jimmie Howard of Chicago on Dec. 4 at Fond du Lac, will soon after that bout engage in a match with Hugo Kelley. After the Kelley fight he will go to Philadelphia, New York and Boston, where he will accept offers of clubs to fight "Knockout" Brown, Jimmy Gardner, Leo Houck and Frank Klaus. This campaign is planned to terminate in a third trip to Europe, where negotiations are under way for a match with Jim Sullivan, champion of England.

Racievich to Wrestle Six Men.

The Italian wrestler, Giovanni Racievich, will make his first appearance in this country at Madison Square Garden on next Wednesday night, December 6th. Jack Herman has accepted the offer made by the Italian's manager whereby Zbyszko's manager is to furnish six men whom Racievich agrees to throw in two hours' time. He has also accepted the conditions imposed and is to receive a thousand dollars for each man who can stand the Italian off for a period of twenty minutes or more. Gotch and Zbyszko are barred.

Clabby Scores a Knockout Blow.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Nov. 29.—"Jimmy" Clabby, middleweight boxing champion of Australia, knocked out "Tim" Land, a middleweight boxer, to-day in ten rounds. Clabby led in every round. The contest took place in the Stadium.

AD WOLGAST UNDER KNIFE.

Lightweight Champion Recovering from Acute Appendicitis.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 29.—On the eve of a fight in which his title to the lightweight championship was at stake, and for which he had brought himself supposedly to a state of physical perfection, Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion pugilist of the world, to-night lies in Clara Barton Hospital recovering from an operation for the removal of his vermiform appendix. His condition to-night was said to be good, but his fight with Freddie Welsh is off indefinitely.

The illness of Wolgast came suddenly. Wolgast retired last night after partaking of a hearty supper, feeling, he declared, in fine fettle. With Wolgast at the training camp in Vernon Suburb were his sparring partner, "Hobo" Dougherty, and his manager, Tom Jones. There were three beds in the room, one for each man. The party retired for the night at 9 o'clock promptly. At 4 o'clock Wolgast was in the hospital preparing for the operation.

As soon as Mrs. Wolgast reached her husband's room in the hospital Dr. Pollard called in constultation Drs. Barton and Sherrard, and it was decided that an operation was the only thing that could save Wolgast's life, and that it must be performed at once.

Manager Jones informed Wolgast, who said: "All right, Tom. I'll go through it, but, Tom, none of that sleeping stuff for me. Just tell them to strap me down tight and then go to it. I can stand it."

It was 9:30 A. M. when a nurse placed a sponge under the champion's nostrils, and forty-five minutes later the door of the operating room was again opened. Then the champion was wheeled back to his room and put in bed. Wolgast came out of the anaesthesia in about four hours, and Mrs. Wolgast and Jones were admitted to see him.

"I feel fine," he said to his wife, "and am all right. I'll be out in a few days."

Dr. Pollard to-night said that the operation was entirely successful, and that Wolgast would recover rapidly.

Manager McCarey of the Vernon Athletic Club announced to-night that he had engaged Willie Richie, training partner for Packey McFarland, to fight Welsh to-morrow, and that Richie had left San Francisco for Los Angeles. Welsh agreed to this change of plan.

The house had been sold out early in the week for the bout to-morrow, and the gross receipts, estimated at $35,000, will have to be returned to seat purchasers. Wolgast was to have received $13,500 as his share and Welsh $5,000.

CADILLAC, Mich., Nov. 29.—Ad. Wolgast was born here Feb. 8, 1888. He began his pugilistic career about 1906 and had gained a local reputation when he left for Milwaukee in 1907. In 1908 he went to the Pacific Coast and won further conquests. After taking the lightweight championship from Battling Nelson at Point Richmond, Cal., in 1910, he returned to Cadillac and purchased a farm here, to be located near his relatives. He was married last Spring and went West about a month ago to prepare for the fight he had scheduled to-morrow with Welsh.

NEW BOXING CLUB IN RINK.

Boxing Commission Again Refuses License to Knickerbocker A. C. of Albany

The promoters of the Knickerbocker A. C. of Albany, with their attorney, William T. Byrne, occupied the attention of the State Athletic Commission for nearly two hours yesterday at the regular meeting of the Commissioners at 41 Park Row. At a court hearing held last Saturday at Albany it was decided that the promoters must appear in person before the commission and be examined, the question at issue being that of refusing a license to the club several weeks ago. The club obtained a peremptory order calling upon the Commissioners to show cause why the license should not be granted. At the close of yesterday's hearing it was announced that the Commissioners had decided not to grant the license.

The reappearance of a boxing club with headquarters at the St. Nicholas Rink was one of the surprises of the meeting. The new club, which succeeds the Twentieth Century A. C., will be known as the St. Nicholas Rink A. C., and it will conduct boxing shows at the rink. The promoters of the club are the same as those behind the skating rink. The names of Cornelius Fellowes and Samuel C. Austin were announced at the office of the commission yesterday as the promoters of the new club. Two other clubs were also granted licenses. They are the Atlantic Park A. C. of Ralph Avenue, Brooklyn, and the Oneida County A. C. of Utica, N. Y.

That the commission will not allow the manager of any boxer to act as a referee in any bout in which that boxer is a participant became evident yesterday in the revocation of the license to Abe Marks to act as referee. Marks is the manager of Kid Burns, the west side lightweight, and is the referee at three or four of the local clubs. He recently acted as referee in a bout at Mount Vernon in which Burns was one of the principals. He brought the matter to the attention of the commission in a letter which was printed in a local newspaper. It stated that he was Burns's manager and also that he was to referee the bout.

The case of the Malvern A. C. against Marty Brown for failure to box in the main bout of last week's show did not come before the commission. The club officials were present, but Brown did not appear. He will be ordered to appear at the next meeting. He declined to box Harry Stone because the house was too small, and his action spoiled the show, which had to called off, as no substitute boxer could be procured.

Charles Solinger of Malone, N. Y., was the only referee appointed yesterday. The following were named as Inspectors: John L. Daly and Maurice Breitpart of Brooklyn, Joseph L. Stack of Albany, Isaac Lehman, and S. W. Rose of New York City.

SIMON BEATS WEIGNER.

Syrian Novice Heavyweight Gives His Opponent a Good Beating.

Two novice heavyweights, Ray Simon, a Syrian, and George Weigner of Washington Market, slammed each other around the ring of the Long Acre A. C. for ten rounds last night, with the Syrian being returned the victor by a large margin. Neither man knew the first rudiments of the art of self-defense, but their brute strength carried them through the ten rounds, although the Washington Market representative came nearly being knocked out several times during the contest. The Syrian carried the fight to his opponent from the start, and with the exception of the first minute in the initial round did all the work.

It looked as though it might be curtains for the Syrian in the opening round, when, after the first blow struck by Weigner—a hard right to the point of the jaw—Simon went down like a ton of brick. He jumped up like a flash and tore after Weigner, and from that time until the end was always on the winning end. The inexperience of Simon lost for him several golden opportunities of knocking out his man. He had Weigner helpless in the seventh round and dropped him to the mat. He followed him up to the best of his ability, and was about to land a knockout punch when he himself slipped to the floor.

In the early part of the fight, Simon, whether by chance or ability, got over some good left jabs to the face and brought blood from Weigner's nose. Simon did all the work in the clinches, and when the pair came to close quarters he pounded the ribs with sledge-hammer-like blows and had them badly bruised.

The last three rounds were simply slam-bang affairs, and Weigner, although in bad shape, made a game trail at evening up the score. Simon pounded him about without mercy, and the last gong in the final round just saved Weigner from a sure knockout.

Berkeley Wins Final Game.

In the final football game of the season, Berkeley defeated the Barnard School for Boys by the score of 30 to 0. Berkeley successfully used shift formations and forward passes. Barnard could not meet Berkeley's varied attack, though they did put up a plucky game. Clark, for Barnard, and McAleenan, Burden, and Wagoner, for Berkeley, played a strong game.

FOOTBALL SEASON REACHES ITS CLOSE

Football Games To-day.

Brown vs. Carlisle at Providence.
Syracuse vs. St. Louis at St. Louis.
Penn State vs. Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.
Lafayette vs. Dickinson at Easton.
Bucknell vs. Ursinus at Reading.
Virginia vs. North Carolina at Richmond.
Georgetown vs. Lehigh at Washington.
Vanderbilt vs. Suwanee at Nashville.
Johns Hopkins vs. West Maryland at Baltimore.
Colgate vs. Rochester at Rochester.

PUBLIC SCHOOL GAMES.

The final games of the football season of 1911 will be played to-day, the principal battle being at Franklin Field in Philadelphia between Pennsylvania and Cornell. The Carlisle Indians will end their season at Providence against Brown. An intersectional battle will be played at St. Louis between Syracuse and St. Louis and in the South an important contest will be played when Vanderbilt lines up against Suwanee.

Pennsylvania and Cornell are just settling a little difference of their own and neither team has ranked as high as in former seasons. Despite the reverses of the preliminary games, student bodies of each institution will rally around the gridiron to-day and it is expected that every one of the 26,000 seats will be occupied. Pennsy has had a bad season with defeats by Penn State, Brown, Carlisle and Michigan. There has been dissension between the coaches and the trainer and it wasn't until after the awful drubbing by the Indians that the Red and Blue pulled itself together. Pennsylvania expects to win to-day because Cornell has never acquired the habit of winning the Thanksgiving Day game. The teams have met annually since 1893. During that time, Cornell has won once, in 1901, when Pennsylvania was downed 24 to 6. Pennsylvania has won 16 games and the other game in 1906 was a tie.

Cornell's season hasn't been much better than Pennsylvania's. The Ithacans have been defeated by Penn State and Chicago and had a close call against Williams. The material at Ithaca looked good this season, but the team has not yet shown its promised power. After the Chicago defeat the Cornell team settled down to real work for the big game to-day and may be depended upon to make a surprisingly good account of itself against Pennsy.

PENNSY AND CORNELL.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Nov. 29.—The University of Pennsylvania football team to-day completed its preparation for to-morrow's game with Cornell with a light signal practice on a gridiron at Wayne, a suburb. The team will remain in the country until just before the game to-morrow. The line-up will probably be the same as that which faced Michigan, with the exception of Harrington at left half back instead of Thayer. The latter turned his ankle in practice last Monday and may not be able to get in the game.

Manager Shellens to-night announced that the officials will be: Referee, David Fultz, Brown; umpire, Al Sharpe, Yale; field judge, W. S. Langford, Trinity; linesman, William Roper, Princeton.

Although some of the university students are betting at odds of 5 to 4 on their team, critics look for a close and interesting game, and it is probable that even money will prevail before the contest begins.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 29.—Cornell's football team will be handicapped in to-morrow's game with the University of Pennsylvania by the absence of three of the regular back field. Butler, quarter back; Underhill, full back, and Hawkins, a half back, are still too badly crippled and bruised to enter the game, according to the coaches who to-night decided upon the line-up of the team.

Trainer will start the game at quarter, Blackwell at full back, while the halves will be McCormick and Collins. Whyte, who is still in bad shape, and Hill will be used as substitutes.

The squad had a lively signal drill to-day at Inlet Park, and all the players appear to have benefited by their stay here. Coach Reed was better satisfied with the work of the men to-day and said that the team might pull itself together and give Pennsylvania an interesting battle. The players are more optimistic than the coaches, and say they expect to win.

YALE'S NEW TICKET PLAN.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 29.—Owing to the excessive demands for tickets this year to the Harvard and Princeton football games, the Yale football ticket management will immediately take up the question of future ticket distribution, in order to avoid the disappointment of applicants and other complications.

It is almost certain that a plan will be adopted allowing direct application for only one ticket, applications for additional tickets being conditional and contingent. Under this system applicants, if graduates or undergraduates, would be assured of one ticket, and take their chances for others, and also the chance of obtaining grouped seats of two or more. The effect of this will probably be the exclusion of a large proportion of women from the games.

The plan if adopted will apply to both the Harvard and Princeton games, and it is believed that the Princeton and Harvard ticket managements will adopt the same scheme. In connection with ticket distribution it is also likely that the so-called "favored" list will be cut down.

Indians and Brown in Game.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 29.—The curtain on the New England intercollegiate football season will be rung down to-morrow on Andrews Field, where the Carlisle Indians and Brown University will fight their second annual game.

The Indians reached here this morning and indulged in some practice later in the day, while the Brown eleven was sent to Bristol for the finishing touches. It will be a morning game, and as nothing will remain to be hidden from future opponents each team is expected to run the full gamut of football strategy and uncover all sorts of spectacular plays.

Because of their unusually successful season, with only one defeat, and that a close match, the Indians were a strong favorite in the betting to-night. Brown is expected to bring out the latest thing in the forward pass that proved so effective against Harvard. The announced line-up was as follows:

Brown.	Position.	Carlisle.
Donovan	Centre	Berger
Gelb	Right guard	Busch
Bartlett	Right tackle	Williams, Lonestar.
Asbaugh	Right end	Burd
Sprackling	Quarter back	Welch
Tenney	Right half back	Arcasa
Snell	Full back	Powell

Colgate Goes to Rochester.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Accompanied by about 200 enthusiasts, the Colgate football team left this afternoon for Rochester, where Rochester University will be played to-morrow. On account of Quarter Back Huntington's sickness the team will be considerably weakened. Capt. Thurber, however, is back in the game, so the chances of the team are considered here to be about even.

A large field of cyclists will start this morning in the 25-mile Olympic road race, held under the auspices of the United Cyclists. The run will be over the Pelham Parkway Road in the Bronx. It will be over a 21-lap course, and a splendid view of the race is assured. The organization announces that while this race will not be considered an elimination contest for the Olympic games to be held in Sweden next year, those making the fastest time, however, will receive serious consideration and will be eligible to start in the competition, which will be run next Spring.

For the first time in a decade Manhattan schools this year have a chance to play for the scholastic football championship of Greater New York, which title since 1901 has fallen to the lot of Brooklyn schoolboys. The two teams in Manhattan—the De Witt Clinton eleven and the team of Commerce—have shown marked superiority over their rivals in Brooklyn this season, with the result that Brooklyn has been eliminated from consideration for the title of supremacy, and for the first time in ten years Manhattan will be able to boast of a championship team. This afternoon in American League Park the gridiron warriors of Clinton and Commerce will clash in their annual battle. The winner of this afternoon's game will be entitled to premier laurels of the gridiron—the Greater New York football championship.

Donald E. Stone of Mexino, N. Y., has been elected Captain of the Hamilton College football team of 1912. He played quarter back this season, and was one of the stars of the game with Union.

Dooin May Buy Boston Nationals.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—It was reported in this city to-day that Charley Dooin, who managed the Philadelphia Nationals this year, is trying to buy the Boston Nationals, the club now being on the market because of the recent death of President William Hepburn Russell. Dooin has a player's contract with Philadelphia, but hopes to obtain his release from President Fogel. Dooin claims to have secured financial assistance from friends here.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 29.—The effort of Manager Charles Dooin of Philadelphia National League Baseball Club to obtain his release so that he might acquire at least partial control of the Boston National League Club, resulted to-day in a telegram from President Fogel of the Philadelphia Nationals, which Dooin received here. The message stated that Fogel would consider no deal which would mean Dooin's departure.

Spring Plans of the Cubs.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The Chicago National League team will make no extended trip through Southern cities for exhibition games after completing preliminary training at New Orleans, according to reports from the office of President Murphy to-day. At the suggestion of Manager Frank Chance it is said the change was made in the plans. Only three cities are to be visited after the team leaves New Orleans. These will be Louisville, Indianapolis, and Terre Haute, the home town of Mordecai Brown. During the two weeks before the opening of the season, five games will be played at Louisville, five at Indianapolis and perhaps two at Terre Haute.

SLANDER BY COMMITTEE.

For what purpose are inquest committees of the Senate and House organized and set at work? Are they slander mills, ready to grind the grist of any irresponsible caluminator or crank who may offer to take the witness chair? Are they mints for the coinage of false metal, established to give currency to gossip and drivel and all manner of fabrications that, without the stamp of their approval, would never get into circulation?

Senator Cummins is Chairman of the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce, which is now engaged in giving hearings intended to elicit testimony and opinions that may be useful in shaping public legislation. Representative Stanley is Chairman of a committee which is inquiring into the organization and business of the United States Steel Corporation. We venture to remind Mr. Cummins and Mr. Stanley that they have been unmindful of the dignity of the offices they hold, that they have shown a grossly perverted sense of the duty they owe to the public and to the legislative body they represent, and that they have allowed their committees to be disgracefully misused.

A few days ago Chairman Stanley permitted the witness chair and the time of the committee to be occupied by persons who told at great length a tale of the grievous hardships they had suffered at the hands of Mr. John D. Rockefeller in connection with Mesaba orebed properties, and this stuff went out to the public with the full authority of the committee, although Chairman Stanley had in his possession at the time, and withheld from publication, a statement signed by these witnesses and their associates in which they expressly retracted all these charges against Mr. Rockefeller, made in a litigation sixteen years ago. On the part of a member of Congress and of the Chairman of an important committee, such conduct is reprehensible, it is ignoble. Chairman Stanley permitted himself and his committee to be made an instrument for deceiving the public by a rehash of statements long ago admitted to be without foundation by the very men who made them. We submit that the people of the country do not elect and pay their Congressmen for that sort of service.

Senator Cummins on Tuesday permitted to be without foundation by the very men who made them. We submit that the people of the country do not elect and pay their Congressmen for that sort of service.

Senator Cummins on Tuesday permitted the time of his committee to be occupied by Mr. Wharton Barker, who told a preposterous story about ex-President Roosevelt. No serious person has in the last twenty years trod by the laws of measure and of reason. Yet this committee gravely listened while Mr. Barker told how one day in 1904 he met on Broadway "one of the most distinguished financiers in New York, now dead," whom he by indirection identified as Mr. Harriman, and that this distinguished financier told him of a bargain with Mr. Roosevelt, according to the terms of which Mr. Roosevelt was to be permitted to "holler all he wants to," but for and in consideration of his promise to recommend and secure the passage of a bill putting a stop to the railroad practice of paying rebates, the railroads and the great financial interests were to give him their support in the campaign. As Palmerston said to the bunko man, a person who would believe that story would believe anything. Mr. Roosevelt properly dismisses the yarn as quite unworthy of notice. It is unworthy of his notice, it is unworthy of the notice of any decent man. Yet Senator Cummins's committee listens to this sort of stuff and then lets it go out to the public as "testimony" supposed to be relevant to public issues of great weight and moment.

If the Stanley Committee and the Cummins Committee are to serve any public purpose it will be necessary for them at once, and sharply, to reform their procedure.

COL. WARING'S METHOD.

Since the exemplary lesson conveyed by the defeat of the striking night drivers of the Street Cleaning Department no disposition has been shown by any body of city employés to commit their future and fortunes to strike leaders. Subject to the civil service rules they realize the fact that to strike means to give up their jobs, with no hope of reinstatement. Mayor Gaynor warned the street cleaners that this would be the case. The employés in every department now know it, and they will observe the law.

But it is too much to hope that grievances and occasions for dissension will not recur. Col. Waring, in his notable administration of the Street Cleaning Department, provided for them by selecting a board before which grievances might be aired. By use of such a board Mr. Waring not only avoided the danger of strikes, but promoted among his men such a good understanding of what was expected of them in the interest of the city that they fell to work with a will to make his administration successful. If Commissioner Edwards should adopt Col. Waring's method, with proper modifications, no harm would be done, and much good might accrue.

NO FUND IS NEEDED.

The responsible friends and advocates of currency reform should take measures to put a stop to rumors now somewhat widely circulated about the raising of a fund to be used in promoting the acceptance of the Monetary Commission's plan for the creation of a Central Reserve Association. Nobody supposes that any fund thus raised would be improperly used to influence legislative action. That is not the point. The movement for currency reform is one that needs no fund, it needs no organized promoters' syndicate, it needs no press agents or publicity bureau.

It may be admitted that a campaign of education is necessary to inform the public mind as to the merits of the plan. Very well, the means for carrying on that campaign of education in the usual and honorable way are at the command of its friends. The public press of the country is at their service, the newspapers are ready to publish their arguments and expositions. It is the duty of the newspapers to publish them; it is to their interest to publish news, and to contribute to the general stock of information. That is the approved way, the effective way to reach the minds of the people of the United States. If a fund has been raised, if money is being expended by publicity bureaus or press agents, we may be perfectly sure that it is wasted. Addresses such as were made at the meeting of the bankers in New Orleans last week are the best means of informing the public of the merits of the Aldrich plan. These addresses were fully published in the press. It is a sheer futility to attempt to supplement them by reports of interviews and expressions of unauthoritative opinion such as have been supplied in copious volume by somebody to the newspapers.

By such methods the friends of the Aldrich plan discredit channels of publicity which are open to them, which are the only ones that can effectively assist them in educating the country, the ones they can count upon for coöperation in the work. Besides, any attempt to raise a "fund" is certain to lead to gossip and damaging misrepresentation. The bankers of the country should leave fund-raising to political committees.

THANKSGIVING, 1911.

As the time-honored formula runs, "For what we are about to receive may the Lord make us duly thankful." So long as the festival has history its celebration has been heartiest in times of deepest depression. It, has always been "thanks before meat," that sort of appreciation of Divine mercies which is expressed in hope of favors to come rather than of those received. It would almost be painting lilies or gilding gold for the spoiled child of nations to ask for future improvement upon the past, for which it ought to be truly thankful, even if contrary to precedent.

Yet it is not impossible to imagine such a thing. We have been chastened sufficiently to live soberly, with appreciation mutually of the rights of all, high and low, rich and poor, capitalist and laborer. Such troubles as we have been passing through conduce to thought of duties as well as of rights, of giving equivalents as well as of demanding payments, of checking the spirit of envy, hatred, and all uncharitableness which has found its way even into the hearts of some part of the electorate and Legislatures. It is the mightiest in the land who have fallen before the humblest, and so it must continue to be whenever the mighty are wrongers of the public. But the mighty masses should not allow themselves to fancy that they can punish the mighty because they are strong or rich. That would be to cripple the power of the strong and rich to serve the common welfare. The triumph of the moral power of the community is one of the present causes for thankfulness, and the anticipated self-control in the newly exercised powers is one of the favors about to be received for which we may be fervent in prayer as well as thanks.

The economic causes for thankfulness rival the moral, despite those cheerful souls who are brightest in anticipation of calamity. It is flying in the face of all experience to be downcast when we are able to export both gold and iron, when cotton is in the fullest supply ever known, when the world shows signs of wanting our copper under conditions enabling us to ask its cost, and when our foodstuffs are so ample in supply that we can feed other nations. Nowhere in the world are raw materials cheaper, nor wages higher, with better prospect of staying where they are. The croakers have been accustomed to say that we cannot be prosperous again until we have "liquidated labor." Even if they are right the liquidation of labor is a world problem, rather than a local problem, and others are nearer to it than the United States. Including our high wages our costs of production are on the world's level for a constantly increasing proportion of our production, and so long as our exports of products of labor grow the rate of wages can be maintained. The check to our thankfulness is not intrinsic, but psychologic. We are flagellating ourselves, and are giving license to others to flagellate us for evils which cannot be cured in that way. We set ourselves toward prosperity by practicing frugality in expenditure, and we would do well to practice economy in words, laws, and politics.

It is when we look abroad that we find the strongest causes for thanking ourselves that we are not as others are. Where in the world is there a people so well off as ourselves? All Europe is in terror of war. Italy is in trouble. There is war in Africa, and revolution in Asia. Admitting the worst that can be said about our politics and economics, their relative superiority must be apparent to any unprejudiced observer. It is not for us to sit in judgment on the morals of others, and yet it is sure that the violation of treaties and disregard of natural rights is the cause of much of the unhappiness among many peoples which it is impossible to regard with pleasure, despite the proverb regarding the satisfaction felt in the misfortunes of our friends. Relatively our conditions are so superior that our thanks should be hearty, and touched with humility. Surely the Lord has been good to us, and yet our own waywardness may spoil it all. There is need of some American to write an American "Recessional." Lest we forget, it would be well for us to remember that whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth.

MR. SHUSTER IN PERSIA.

It is not surprising that our Government does not feel called upon to take any action in regard to Mr. Shuster, the highly respected and able American gentleman who has got into trouble in Persia. It is true that when the Persian Government asked our own to suggest some one who was capable of taking charge of the finances of that distracted kingdom, the request was complied with, Mr. Shuster was suggested and was appointed. He was at the time connected with the finance department of the Philippines, and had been a useful member of the Philippine Commission. He is a man of high character, much energy and independence and unusual gifts for organization and administration. Had his powers, or those of the Persian Government, been adequate, there is no doubt that his work would have been successfully performed.

But this condition was not fulfilled. He met very early in his experience the attempt of the former Shah, with the sympathy and more or less veiled protection of the Russian officials, to overthrow the actual Government and to regain possession. Against this attempt he undertook to organize an effective police force under an English officer. He was so far justified that it was plainly impracticable for him to carry out his plans with the interference and disturbance caused by the supporters of the former Shah. But his use of the force at his disposition offended the Russians, who demanded his dismissal under threat of occupying the northern provinces of Persia. Under this duress Mr. Shuster obviously could not sustain his position without foreign aid.

On the facts, so far as they are known, no aid, however indirect, could with propriety be given by the United States Government. The President may feel—very probably he does—that the action of Russia in the matter has been unjustifiable, and that his nominee for high office under the Persian Government has, in consequence, been made the object of unfair treatment. But with the internal affairs of Persia or with the relations of the kingdom and its neighbors, he can officially have no concern. The only Government that could properly be called on to intervene, diplomatically or otherwise, in the matter is Great Britain, which has a recognized interest in Persia and intimate relations with Russia. It is possible that Great Britain may yet see its way clear to take some action. The question was brought up on Monday in the House of Commons, but was deferred in consequence of the greater importance of the German question, to which Sir Edward Grey devoted all his time. It will doubtless be brought up before the close of the week. Mr. Shuster has published in The London Times two elaborate letters setting forth the facts in his experience, his own course regarding them, and the course of the Russian officials. Though some of his statements are sharply traversed by The Times, the matter has aroused deep interest in England.

In that country the Russian-English understanding is by no means generally approved. It is, indeed, most sharply opposed by some of the supporters of the Government, who declare that it is not only inexpedient, but essentially wrong, and that it practically commits Great Britain to the support of Russian aggression. Certainly this is not true on the face of the agreement which binds both Governments to respect the integrity of Persia. But the integrity of Persia is at present a very uncertain factor. It implies an authoritative Government of Persia, and the country cannot be said to have one. There is no doubt, however, that the present Government is preferable in most regards to that of the former Shah. It will place the British Government in a very embarrassing position if it is forced to plead that it cannot, on account of its understanding with Russia, aid in establishing a decent and fair administration in Persia. Sir Edward Grey's explanation will be awaited with keen interest.

AID TO ALIEN YOUTH.

We hope that the Children's Aid Society will not be obliged to discontinue the social and educational activities of the Italian Industrial School in the Five Points Building on Worth Street. This has become perhaps the best known and most efficient of the society's agencies for dealing with the problem of assimilating the youth of New York's vast foreign population.

The Italian community and the city at large will be worse off if the work of the school is interrupted or restricted in scope by removal to less commodious quarters. The rapid growth of the Italian colony—New York is now, in point of population, the second Italian city in the world—with the civic problems which are inseparable from it, make it the more regrettable should it and the city lose the benefits of such an agency for betterment.

The current expenses of the Children's Aid Society in its manifold activities amount for the year to more than half a million of dollars. A lack of funds impairs the work in the Five Points Building. Checks or other contributions will be welcomed by the Treasurer, Edwin G. Merrill, or by the Secretary, Charles Loring Brace, at the society's office, 105 East Twenty-second Street.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Falsity Not the Grievance.

Not much of the criticism directed against "The Playboy of the Western World" is articulate, but such of it as has appealed to the reason more directly than by throwing eggs, potatoes, bread crusts, and malodorous drugs, all simmers down to one often-repeated statement—the play presents the Irish peasant in a false light.

Well, suppose it does? Why not? Who or what, in the name of history, of common sense, and of all the gods, male and female, is the Irish peasant that he shouldn't be presented in any light that any literary man, romancer or dramatist as the case may be, wants to present him? Who or what is the Irish peasant—or peer, for that matter—that he should escape the common lot of mortals, which is to supply "material" out of which stories and plays are made by friends and foes, and made by them under no moral obligation whatever to do more or less than tell the truth as the artist sees or imagines it?

In a false light, indeed! It is not to the falseness of the light in which Synge may or may not have presented the Irish peasant that these disturbers of the peace object. Never a one of them raised a single yelp, or even a single whine, while through innumerable years the Irish peasant has been presented in the falsest possible light—that of a knee-breech hero in a tailed coat, whose entire life is spent in singing sentimental songs, rescuing persecuted heroines from the deep pool below the waterfall, and administering corporal punishment to British villains with a mortgage on the old farm.

All that was as false as it possibly could be made, whether by men like Dion Boucicault or by men like Fritz Emmet and Chauncey Olcott. But it was also flattery, and therefore it was received with smiling contentment, or the higher tribute of happy tears, by exactly the sort of people who are now putting so much of professional heat into their absurd resentment of a play that doesn't minister to their racial illusions and conceits.

It isn't true? What isn't true? That there are not in Ireland, as in every other country on earth, fool women who have a morbid admiration for criminals, or fool men who drink too much whisky? Who is to say what vices, weaknesses, and imbecilities are not to be found in or around a miserable, low-down drinking-place, even in Ireland? And if a genius discovers and reveals poetry and humor even there, is it his fitting reward to be lynched as a traitor and liar?

Jurymen Act as Legislators.

If in a criminal trial there had been a conviction as obviously in conflict with the law as was the acquittal of Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, the defense would have appealed instantly for a new trial, and the appeal very probably would have been granted. As the end in this case was an acquittal, and not a conviction, the defense is content and the prosecution is helpless—a fact which illustrates anew one of the wildest absurdities of our criminal procedure.

The decision of the jurors before whom the woman was tried for shooting and killing her husband was, in effect, that she had sufficient provocation to justify her act. They did, indeed, have enough respect for the letter of law to veil their disagreement with it under the pleasing fiction that a woman whom everybody considered sane before she avenged her wrongs, and whom everybody considers sane now, was insane when she did it and therefore is irresponsible. In other words, as these jurors believe that in certain circumstances a woman has a right to kill her husband—that in such circumstances she is under no obligation to control her rage—they coolly amended the law to their liking.

Other jurors have many times taken like action because of the belief that in certain other circumstances a man has a right to kill his wife. Such are the beliefs of many people not jurors, and it is perhaps true that verdicts of this kind do carry with them substantial justice. To admit that, however, is by unavoidable implication to proclaim that the law should be changed, and the weak basis for the beliefs is instantly realized when one comes to consider just what would be the wording of a statute giving to husbands and wives the privilege which is every now and then accorded to them by jurors little scrupulous as to keeping the oath taken when they enter the box. Evidently no such law could be drafted with any hope of passing it.

These remarks are not complaint that Mrs. O'Shaughnessy has escaped the electric chair, nor are they the expression of a sympathetic regret for sudden taking off of the late Mr. O'Shaughnessy. They merely voice the opinion that murder is murder, no matter by whom committed, and that there should be something of sense and consistency, and also of definiteness, in formulating the provocations that transfer a killing from the category of murder to that of justifiable or irresponsible homicide.

Beggary Most Shameless.

It is perhaps worth while to call attention again to the fact that every parent who to-day lets his child go about the streets in fantastic garb, begging for pennies, is guiltily responsible for the degradation of that child's morals, mind, and manners which inevitably follows indulgence in this evil and disgraceful practice.

Only less heavy is the guilty responsibility of weak-headed—not the tender-hearted—people who countenance and encourage the practice by yielding to the demands of these shameless urchins.

Mendicity as the alternative of starvation has explanations that serve it more or less well as excuses, but to beg without need and as a sort of a game is utterly abominable. It is permitted only by parents who either are quite destitute of the sense of decency or who haven't enough of the other kinds of sense to see that they are acting as if they lacked that one.

NOT SPEED OF MOTIONS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article on "Better Pay and Better Work" is sensible. The objection which organized labor holds against the efficiency system, as stated by the labor leaders (who do not appear fully to understand the matter) is clear enough. Organized labor believes that the introduction of the so-called efficiency system increases output, and also increases the workman's pay, but that it accomplishes these ends by making the workman a mere machine, working at such high intensity and so continuously that his brain and body are always overfatigued and his term of life thereby sensibly shortened.

That this view depends upon a lack of knowledge of the efficiency system is quite manifest after a little thought; for efficiency management demands that the actual time spent working busily should be so adjusted to the time spent in resting or recuperating that the maximum production be attained consistent with little or no fatigue of the worker. The originator of the efficiency system, Frederick W. Taylor, very strongly emphasizes this fact, and the philosophy of it should be self-evident. Then, too, it is not the speed of motions but the kind of motions made that counts. The manager who desires maximum production can secure it only by making trained men and holding them; and he cannot hold them if he overworks them, even if he pays them high wages. Therefore, he will not overwork them. Every efficiency manager realizes the fundamental importance to himself of these facts, and the efficiency system is built upon them.

The deplorable fact is that labor does not recognize the truth of them, and the cause of this is the attitude of the labor leaders, who really know nothing either of the philosophy or the practical application of efficiency management, and who will not take the trouble to learn. A brother engineer of mine who was present at an efficiency conference last year actually heard a prominent labor leader of this city, who had spoken during the evening against efficiency methods, later admit (under a good-natured cross-examination) that he had never read Taylor's remarkable work on "Shop Management," (the pioneer exposition of the subject,) or "Gilbreth's Motion Study"; had never even heard of H. L. Gantt, the originator of the famous task-and-bonus system of payment, and, in fact, that he knew mighty little of the entire subject. It is such men as this who sway the laboring man; and the incident, taken in connection with the foregoing remarks on overwork, may throw some light on the opposition of organized labor to efficiency work.

GEORGE F. MILES.

As to Mr. Carnegie's Great Men.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been greatly interested in scanning the list of Mr. Carnegie's "Twenty-one" who have done the best for this world. I am astonished at his lack of information along other lines than steel manufacture and that of invention. He seems not to have heard of Pliny, the father of natural history; of Darwin, the patient and most remarkable investigator that ever lived; of Spencer, the philosopher, whose methods have revolutionized psychological methods and investigation; of Lyell, that master mind who made possible the proper scientific investigation of the Mesaba region, and others; of Joseph Henry, the real inventor of the telegraph; of Ericsson and the Monitor, the precursor of the present naval ironclads that will do far more to preserve the world's peace than the famous Hague Building; nor of Baird, whose work as United States Fish Commissioner has done more to help mankind with food and added millions to our resources than any and all other economical forces combined.

On the whole, thinking the matter over, it seems to me to be very puerile to try and pick of the world's great ones any such limited number. We do not all view them from the same vantage point. My mind has not been developed along the money-making lines, and I may be somewhat prejudiced against mere iron-mongers, however successful they may have become. I still think that there is a place in this world for brains as well as dollars. And—they are not all in use along lines of manufacture and invention.

The Aristocratic Flat Foot.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I cannot resist the temptation to add a postscript to the notes on the vanity of the possessors of high insteps. This is the other side: A lady here has always been very much ashamed because she thought her flat feet indicated plebeian ancestry. She read THE TIMES'S editorial article quoting the English critic, who says that "the American people are flat footed because they do not walk enough." This was a new idea to her, but THE TIMES supported it, and that settled the matter for her and lifted the burden completely. She says, "Now I understand it. My ancestors were riding in their carriages, while those of some of my vain friends were getting their high insteps by climbing the dusty highways."

This lady has always wished to join the Daughters of the American Revolution, but would not have her genealogy looked up, for fear of finding some plebeian forbear. She has now had the papers made out, and will soon be a regular D. A. R. She is even considering joining the Colonial Dames. "True Tread" might read this to the sixty-year-old friend and her daughter, but probably nothing would puncture their bubble of vanity.

The Provincial Turkey.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What—but that may be plagiaristic, so I will change it to that which—"L. J. W." writes on "A Universal Thanksgiving Day" prompts me to relate that my firm received this morning from a "Down East" correspondent a hearty wish for a "most joyful Thanksgiving." To my associates I remarked that this sounded queer anywhere outside of New England. That, I think, about expresses the idea of the universe on the subject, deplorable as it may seem.

To the average person Thanksgiving Day has become a tradition. Perhaps if we could separate from it the turkey which is not within the reach of all, and re-establish the occasion on a less restricted basis, "L. J. W.'s" hope of a universal adoption would be fulfilled.

But what would the poor paragrapher do without the food furnished by that emblematic bird for the time-honored jest?

Woman's Auxiliary of Saturday and Sunday Association Asks Funds.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association, through its President, Mrs. Edmund L. Baylies, announced yesterday that it is about to start a campaign to raise $25,000 as its contribution to the association, which contributes to forty-six hospitals in or about New York.

Mrs. Baylies said that letters will be sent to members and non-members this week asking that they contribute as generously as possible.

Mrs. Baylies said that last year the auxiliary raised $13,748, the total amount being given by 840 women. Mrs. Baylies said that contributions, no matter how small, will be gratefully acknowledged by the Treasurer, Mrs. James Speyer of 257 Madison Avenue.

THE HANDICAPPED CHILD.

His Lot, as Distinguished from the Defective Child's, to be Considered.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a few days the problem of the handicapped normal child—the misfit in society, the unfortunate—will be discovered beginning Dec. 1 at New York University, in the second annual conference of the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children. I consider it a privilege to call the attention of your readers to this important discussion. A number of the foremost educators, medical specialists, and social workers will be present and read papers on the various phases of this problem.

In the awakening of the public conscience in regard to the nature of those large numbers of children who need special training, heretofore too much emphasis has been laid upon what has been called the defective and feeble-minded child. Extravagant statements have been made to the effect that even the majority of those children who are found backward in the schools are in reality feeble-minded. Such statements are very misleading. While it is true enough that the feeble-minded and abnormal child has not yet received as much attention as he requires, his problem is fairly well defined, and it is largely a matter of making provisions for his segregation.

On the other hand, there is a vastly greater number of children in our country whose problem is very imperfectly understood. And yet it is from these children that the ranks of the misfit, of the unhappy, of the disturbers of social peace, of the eccentric, are recruited. There is an enormous waste of human material going on year after year—tens of thousands of children might be saved for happy and useful lives, to become constructive rather than destructive elements in society, if only the proper methods for the saving of this waste material would develop. Educators should take the cue from the development of modern industries. What the laboratories experimenting with waste material have done for commercial industries, similar methods may do for utilizing the human waste of society.

This implies a vast and vital social problem. We are learning daily more about the causes and nature of disturbed mental conditions, such as throw their victims out of gear and make them disturbers of the peace. We are learning to understand and to apply progressive methods of dealing with juvenile delinquency. We begin to realize the relation of physical condition and conditions of environment to the development of exceptional mental and moral conditions. We know that many a bad boy is merely an unsocialized boy, and that we must learn to socialize him. And it has become perfectly evident that the backward pupil in the schools is a product of a variety of causes and conditions most of which can be relieved.

On all these vital points there will be a discussion by experts at the coming conference.

The Playboy of the Far Eastern World.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is whispered among naval circles in this city that a vigorous protest is to be lodged against further performances of "Madama Butterfly." The character of Lieut. Pinkerton is felt to be a vile slander against American naval officers. It is said that a number of the service clubs will be on hand when next this work is presented. Each member will be armed with a 4.7, with which, as the story goes, an early stop will be put to a spectacle which it is considered must tend to degrade American manhood in the eyes of the world.

Not the Playboy Storm.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will some of your readers kindly inform me in what year the great storm in Ireland took place? I should think it would be about sixty or seventy years ago, but perhaps it may be more or it may be less. The information is needed in order to determine a date of birth.

How Big Business May Be Advised.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Has it not occurred to the howlers against the Sherman law that the decisions in the oil and tobacco cases are based upon facts obtained from acts involved in business transactions and the line of cleavage is thus clearly drawn against business methods that run foul of the law? It should be easy for lawyers to advise big business to avoid using the methods of the Oil and Tobacco Trusts, and thus easily sail on smoothly by simply avoiding the rocks.

Would Cover Garbage with Ashes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every thoughtful citizen who has the welfare of his family at heart should demand that the reeking piles of garbage in uncovered receptacles and those dumped on the streets should be covered with a heavy layer of ashes, for sanitary reasons, as well as to hide from view the offensive and disgusting sight. While awaiting removal the lye and potash in the ashes would act as a disinfectant.

WHILE.

At the top of the slope, dear, pause and turn,
And find the place where our love-fires
burn
In the heart of the rose-clouds hanging low,
Where the swallows skim and the sweet winds blow.

Yes, watch each color and changing tone
As if you stood on the hill alone;
Ah! stand quite still, absorbed, intense—
While I get over this awkward fence.

SEE A BEAUTIFIED BROOKLYN AHEAD

President Steers and Co-workers Making Great Plans for Borough Improvement.

CIVIC ARCHITECT EMPLOYED

Dr. Hillis's Pulpit Suggestions to be Discussed by the Committee—An Ocean Boulevard.

The plan for beautifying Brooklyn outlined by the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis in a recent sermon in Plymouth Church, which has been up in the air like the hanging gardens of Babylon ever since, will come down to earth at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. A committee of thirty-five prominent Brooklynites and two Manhattanites will meet in the office of Borough President Steers of Brooklyn and find, if possible, some practical way of accomplishing a great municipal improvement.

At this meeting preparations will be made for the reception of Daniel H. Burnham, who is said to be the foremost civic achitect in this country. It was he who planned the World's Fair buildings at Chicago and the improvements for Cleveland, Washington, and other cities that transformed them, or at least parts of them.

The suggestions made by Dr. Hillis include the extension of the Shore Road to Coney Island, a boulevard in Furman Street, reaching from the navy yard to Joralemon Street. This elevated driveway would relieve Columbia Heights from the noise and dust of Furman Street, unite the two adjacent bridges, and afford a fine view of the city and harbor. His plan also includes the widening of Fort Hamilton Avenue and Kings Highway, with a connecting boulevard.

President Steers wants to consider any improvement in the most comprehensive way. He means that all of Brooklyn shall be brought under the eye of an expert, and it was for this reason that Mr. Burnham was asked to come here from Chicago and go over the ground. He is expected to arrive on Dec. 16. He will be received by the committee and taken over the borough.

John B. Creighton, Secretary to President Steers, said yesterday that it was not intended to increase the number of parks in Brooklyn. The first work would be the study of the water lines of the borough.

"There are more than two hundred miles of water front in Brooklyn, including coves and estuaries," he said. "It is pretty nearly all susceptible of great improvement, but the only thing we hope to do is to create a splendid boulevard running all the way to Coney Island and clean up and beautify other sections of the borough. Included in this plan is the improvement of the Brooklyn entrance to the Brooklyn Bridge. The population of the borough is 1,700,000, only 300,000 less than Chicago.

"The plan of beautifying Chicago includes parks running out into Lake Michigan and some fine boulevards. The cost is estimated at about $150,000,000 and the plan is to spend $10,000,000 a year for fifteen years. It is hoped to induce the State of Illinois to give the city a hand in paying the bills. Something of the same sort may be attempted here. But all that, of course, will be in the hands of the committee."

But the cost of the contemplated improvements is not troubling anybody just yet. Mr. Burnham is to pay his own expenses for the present. If it is decided to ask him to draw preliminary plans the members of the committee will be expected to make up among themselves enough to pay for them. It usually costs the city anywhere from $5,000 to $25,000 for any large maps or plans, including the services of an engineer. The first set of plans made for Chicago that were made about five years ago cost $25,000. The personnel of the committee was considered in connection with the possible need of asking for contributions to meet the first expenses.

"It may be necessary to ask for help from private sources to get the hope-for improvements started to that point where the help of the city can be asked for," said President Steers. "Of course, we can't expect the general public to take much interest in the matter until a definite plan is outlined, and we know just what we want to do. Brooklyn is fast outstripping Manhattan in point of population, and this means that it will shortly lead Manhattan in its voting power. The time is not far distant when the whole city will go in an election as Brooklyn says.

"This borough will soon be the most important of all. It will become the homes of the people, and we want to make it beautiful enough to attract everybody. Every section of Brooklyn will be considered in this proposed improvement plan. I hope to be able to make better some of the narrow, over-crowded streets in the eastern district. Everybody who lives in Brooklyn will be benefitted if we can carry our ideas out, and we believe that we can."

President Steers and some of the men who are working with him think it may be possible to get help from the State, and maybe from the Federal authorities. They point to the fact that engineers in the employ of the Federal Government are greatly interested in the water front of Brooklyn, and that some surveys have already been made. This help from the city, State, and Nation, they all feel sure, will be easier to get if the substantial residents of Brooklyn display a willingness to contribute to a private fund to give the work a start. Here is the committee that will meet at 4 o'clock to-morrow:

Col. Andrew D. Baird, William Berri, Edward C. Blum, David A. Boody, Dr. George W. Brush, George W. Chauncey, John B. Creighton, John M. Cruikshank, Col. William N. Dykman, William H. English, W. W. Freeman, Walter Gibb, Herbert F. Gunnison, A. Augustus Healy, the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, Prof. Franklin W. Hooper, Darwin R. James, Jr., Elijah R. Kennedy, Michael J. Kennedy, N. H. Levi, N. P. Lewis, Frank Lyman, Henry H. Mallory, Robert H. McFarland, Andrew McLane, Frank C. Munson, William H. Nichols, Charles J. Peabody, James H. Post, Lewis H. Pounds, Charles M. Pratt, Fred B. Pratt, Fred W. Rowe, ex-Mayor Charles A. Schieren, Frank H. Tyler, A. M. White, and Alfred T. White.

SEEK AID FOR WATERWAYS.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—Congressman J. Ransdell, President of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, will leave for Washington, D. C., to-day to assist in preparations for the eighth annual convention, to be held in that city Dec. 6, 7, and 8. In discussing the convention to-day Mr. Ransdell said:

"We have good cause for encouragement from the rapid progress made since our organization began active work, six years ago. At that time less than $20,000,000 per annum was being expended for all the great water courses of this Republic, while now the annual appropriations exceed $30,000,000. At that time rivers and harbors bills were passed every three years, but for the last two years we have had annual bills. If the present Congress continues for the next two years the same wise policy adopted by its predecessors, the success of our water way system will be well established.

"But we must not be too sanguine yet awhile. The Democratic Party, of which I have the honor to be a member, is in power in the House of Representatives for the first time in sixteen years, and it is committed to a policy of economy.

"I sincerely hope that at the present session of Congress there will be a comprehensive Rivers and Harbors bill, framed along liberal lines and fair to every section of the Union."

BAR OUT TEACHERS WITH SMALL BABIES

NEW RULE PUT INTO EFFECT

Four Young Mothers Suspended for Absenteeism and Others Are Expected to Resign.

Hereafter married women with small children in their homes requiring their attention will be barred from the public schools as teachers. This came out yesterday a few minutes before the meeting of the Board of Education, when the Elementary Schools Committee suspended, without pay, four young mothers on a charge of being chronic absentees.

But more important and far-reaching than this action was the announcement by Chairman Abraham Stern of a new policy agreed upon by his committee, evidently with the approval of a majority of the members of the board, that from now on married women who have young children must give up their places as teachers voluntarily or be dismissed under charges of neglect of duty, making it extremely difficult for them to get back in the future.

For some years the Board of Education has refused to appoint married women as teachers unless their husbands were mentally or physically unable to support them, but no meeting of the board is held that City Supt. Maxwell does not report the marriage of women teachers. Of course, the board cannot dismiss a teacher simply because she marries, and consequently a large percentage of the women teachers are married.

While some of them resign on marriage, most of them, it is learned, remain in the schools. On coming out of the meeting Chairman Stern said:

"A married woman's proper sphere is the home, if she has a family. A woman who has infant children to rear has no business trying to take care of these and at the same time teach school.

"On the birth of a child a woman teacher must be absent from school for a period ranging from two months to a year. The baby needs the mother's constant attention and she must either slight her own child or the school children, and I don't believe there is any mother who would neglect her own baby for school duties. A mother places her children first, just as the Board of Education places first the children it provides for."

"After a baby grew up, could a mother come back on the teaching force?" Mr. Stern was asked.

"Yes, if she resigned," he replied, "and later came up to the regular requirements imposed on former teachers who return to work. However, if she were discharged for cause it is improbable that she could ever be reinstated. The trouble is that when a regular teacher is absent a substitute has to do her work, and this is a hardship on the children. It takes a substitute several days to get hold of things and in this time the children do not learn anything.

"What we also object to is that these women who have husbands who are able to support them not only give poor service, but also keep occupied a place which might go to unmarried women or to a deserving widow.

"It must not be understood, however, that we are attempting to bar married women simply because they have families. The rule applies to women who have babies to care for and therefore cannot do justice to their classes."

The Board of Education adopted at the meeting a carefully prepared schedule putting into effect the new Equal Pay law. The new schedules, which go into effect on Jan. 1, were drawn up by the By-Laws Committee of the board, composed of lawyers, and it was admitted by some of its members that every effort was made to keep the women teachers from getting only what the new law gives them.

Chairman Harrison expressed the belief that it may not be necessary after all to jump the assistants to principals from $1,600 to $2,400, as it was first supposed, but that it may be arranged that if the assistant to principals ever get this sum it will only be after having passed through a number of gradations, with a year between each increase.

Nothing in the new measure so rankles in the board as does this jump. The new schedules provide an increase in the public school expenses of about $3,500,000.

R. H. DAVIS TO BRING MRS. FARRAR HOME

WILL SAIL ON SATURDAY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Richard Harding Davis, who came here in the Mauretania at the urgent request of his sister, Mrs. Farrar, wife of the Rev. F. Percival Farrar, the recently deposed King's Chaplain, will take his sister back to New York, starting next Saturday.

In a talk with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-night, Mr. Davis, who has taken his sister under his protection since arriving in London, said that the first he knew of any trouble affecting her was a cablegram received in New York last Monday week, in which she said she was in great trouble and asked that either he or his brother come to London at once.

"I jumped on the Mauretania on Wednesday, thinking she was seriously ill," said Mr. Davis, "and it was only after a day or two at sea that I got a wireless from my brother intimating the nature of the trouble—that it was not illness, but far more serious. When I arrived here I learned its full extent.

"My sister is bearing up under her great blow. What affects me most is that people who do not know my brother and myself may think that we did not make sufficient inquiries about the history of the man my sister married. But I had met him fifteen years before, and knew him as a splendid type of Englishman, a first-rate athlete, fond of outdoor exercises and sports.

"The next time I saw Farrar was at the wedding a few months ago. He seemed to be the same fine man, only more developed and making great headway in the Church.

"Would any one under the circumstances think of making inquiries, bearing in mind that the man was a clergyman, the King's Chaplain, and what his family was?"

Mr. Davis is naturally very distressed at his sister's position. She has the sympathy of all who know the circumstances.

Miss Dorothy Manice a Debutante.

Mrs. Edward A. Manice gave a tea yesterday afternoon at her residence, 100 East Sixty-fourth street, followed by dancing, to introduce her daughter, Miss Dorothy Manice. Thompson, Caramai Carroll, Gwendolin Condon, Mary Haskell, Adeline Townsend, Doris Porter, Louisa Johnson and Miss Gladys Reed, of Baltimore.

A number of other guests came in after dinner for informal dancing, there being about fifty in all in the party, and these included Burgess and Frederick Wooley, Lindell Bates, Benjamin H. McKee, James Maitland, Sidney Osborn, Frederick Humphreys, William Ketcham, Henry Young, William Symington, William Baldwin, Harvey Graham, W. Bruce Brown, Ralph Thomas, Frederick McDonald, and Putnam Morrison.

Miss Levy a Bride at Hotel Astor.

The wedding of Miss Estelle Levy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Levy of Plattsburg, N. Y., to C. Chester Kaufmann, son of Mrs. J. K. Kaufmann and the late Mr. Kaufmann of Pittsburgh, took place last evening at the Hotel Astor. The Rev. J. Leonard Levy of Pittsburgh officiated.

Mrs. Edna Oppenheimer was matron of honor and Miss Florence Levy was maid of honor. Alfred Kaufmann was best man for his brother.

A dinner was served after the ceremony in the Art Noveau Room, after which there was dancing. There were many guests from Pittsburgh and also from the bride's home at the wedding. The couple will spend their honeymoon in the South, returning to Pittsburgh to reside.

Luncheon for Lady Parker.

Mrs. Arthur Carroll gave a small luncheon yesterday at her home, 64 East Seventy-seventh Street, for Lady Parker. Haggerty Pell, Mrs. John Aspegren, Mrs. Joseph Ulman, Mrs. Francis Dugro, Mrs. Howard Ford, Mrs. Miller Graham, Mrs. Lewis Nixon, Mrs. G. G. Heye, Mrs. Clermont L. Best, and Mrs. Howard Carroll.

APPROVES "THE PLAYBOY."

McAdoo Finds It Unobjectionable—Hissing Ceases.

Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, who was assigned by Mayor Gaynor to look over the Irish Players' production of "The Playboy of the Western World" at the Maxine Elliott Theatre and determine whether or not it was indecent and immoral, reported to the Mayor yesterday that he could find nothing objectionable.

The Mayor refused to make Chief McAdoo's report public, but it was learned that Mr. McAdoo said that he had seen the majority of plays which had been declared to be objectionable the past few years and that he had reported to the Mayor that he was unable to find anything offensive in "The Playboy." So far as the Mayor is concerned this will end the controversy.

Not even a hiss disturbed the performance of the Irish players last night. After the disturbance of Monday night and the diminuendo trouble of Tuesday night the objectors to the drama seemed to have played themselves out. The audience, which filled the house, was quick to applaud the striking points in the play and to laugh at the hyperbole of the supposed parricide. There were plenty of police on duty, both in uniform and in plain clothes but nothing for them to do.

Arnold Bennett Leaves Us.

Arnold Bennett, the novelist, sailed for England yesterday on the Cunarder Lusitania. He said he had enjoyed his visit to this country, but for some reason he had been unable to sleep well here, and so was going home very tired.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The first performance of Thomas W. Ryley's production of "Peggy" in New York will take place at the Casino Theatre next Thursday evening, Dec. 7. The company will include Harry Fisher, Vida Whitmore, Renee Kelley, Louise Alexander, Violet Colby, Alva York, Blanche West, Florence Walton, Farren Soutar, Charles Brown, Tom Dingle, Jules Charmette, John W. Ransome, Rose Winter, and Margaret West.

Richard Bennett, who has been out of the cast of "Passers-By" at the Criterion Theatre on account of a bad cold, resumed the role of Peter Waverton last night.

A special clergymen's matinee of "The Wife Decides" was given at Weber's Theatre yesterday afternoon, at which about 500 ministers were present.

'LA GIOCONDA' AT THE OPERA.

La Gioconda	Emmy Destinn
Laura Adorno	Florence Wickham
Alvise Badoero	Andre de Segurola
La Cieca	Theodora Orridge
Enzo Grimaldo	Enrico Caruso
Barnaba	Pasquale Amato
Zuane	Bernard Begue
Un Cantore	Edoardo Missiano
Isepo	Pietro Audisio

Conductor, Arturo Toscanini.

Mr. Caruso and Ponchielli's opera "La Gioconda" together attracted a very large audience to the Metropolitan Opera House last evening. The opera has had a place in the repertory of the opera house ever since its revival there seven years ago, when it was found to provide an excellent opportunity not only for the employment of the admired tenor's powers to advantage and for an ensemble of other prominent singers, but also for sumptuous stage settings and scenic pictures.

It is not a work that deals in sweetness and light. It is cast in the most conventional operatic mold, and develops a grisly history of lust, jealousy, hatred, and revenge, and presents hardly a single character that is blameless or that can engage the sympathy of the spectators. Ponchielli's music is a little garish and flamboyant, perhaps more than a little; and foreshadows much of the achievement of the young Italian school of hot-blooded opera that looks back to him as its founder. Its obvious melodies—some of which have cheapened woefully—its effective airs and duets, ensemble numbers, and ballots, its brilliant and highly colored orchestration do not fail of their effect, and all these features are put forward in the performance as it is given under Mr. Toscanini's direction in a manner to count for their utmost.

It was a vociferous performance last evening that appealed immediately to the eyes and ears of the audience; but the fact could hardly have escaped attention that Mr. Caruso was not in his best vocal condition; his voice had not all of its power and beauty. Even his singing of "Cielo e Mar" in the second act, in which he has often displayed some of his most exquisitely perfect art, was lacking in his most distinguished qualities. Mr. Amato, too, was not up to his own high level, and his singing at several points left much to be desired.

The performance introduced to this public one of the new singers of the company, Mme. Theodora Orridge, who appeared as La Cieca. She disclosed excellent gifts and abilities and a voice of real beauty, a contralto of power and richness in its lower range and approaching a mezzo-soprano in its upper, which she uses with skill and discretion, with a true sense of dramatic values and a fine artistic feeling.

Her air in the first act was well sung. She possesses a knowledge of stagecraft that ought to make her a valuable member of the company in what is yet to come in the season. Other members of the cast, Mme. Destinn, Miss Wickham, and Mr. de Segurola, being the principal ones, gave well-remembered interpretations. The chorus sang with its greatest zeal and the ballets in the first and third acts made their customary effects.

ALTSCHULER SEEKS REDRESS

Symphony Director to Sue Metropolitan for Loss of Mrs. Rappold's Services

It was announced last night by the Russian Symphony Society that Mrs. Rappold of the Metropolitan Opera House would not sing with the orchestra on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon, as she had been announced to do. Mrs. Rappold is singing at the Metropolitan Opera House in "Aida" on Saturday afternoon, and it is said that this has made it impossible for her to appear with the orchestra.

Mme. Olitzka will take Mrs. Rappold's place in the Russian Society's programme, but Modest Altschuler, the Director of the Russian Symphony Society, says that he has decided to bring suit against the Metropolitan Company for damages.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

CALL MONEY AT 6 PER CENT

Stress Laid on Possible Adverse Influence of Matters to Come Up Before Congress Next Week.

With only two more days of trading before the convening of Congress the Stock Exchange was disposed yesterday to lay much stress on matters which will come up for Congressional action. The forecast of the President's message contained in the morning's Washington dispatches revealed no modification of the President's well-known attitude in respect to the trust question, nor did the report that the Railroad Securities Commission would recommend some form of Federal supervision over railroad capital issues contain any new suggestion. Neither did the report that the New York Central management proposed recommending a large bond issue, placed in yesterday's rumors at $100,000,000, go beyond information available to the financial community many weeks ago in connection with a preliminary outline of the company's plan for a merger of its lines in New York State, and the placing of a large general mortgage on the consolidated properties. The day's temper was bearish, however, and each of these matters was treated as if it carried unfavorable import and as if it were something altogether new. Interpreted in this light, these forecasts of future developments were reflected in a general selling movement on the Stock Exchange, which depressed prices to a considerable extent, even before an advance in the call money rate to 6 per cent. helped to stimulate the downward movement. It does not yet appear that the sudden advance in call money means anything more than the meeting of the special Dec. 1 requirements at a time when the resources of the money market had been somewhat lessened by the gold outflow. Until some other aspect than this is given to yesterday's 6 per cent. call money rate it is fair to assume that it reflects a merely temporary situation. The natural sequel to the advance in money rates appeared in the foreign exchange market, where rates receded under further realization against foreign credits. The fortnightly settlement at London was concluded yesterday with one small embarrassment. Discount rates there were firmer, partly because of the announcement of an issue of $17,500,000 Treasury bills, and carry over rates were also somewhat higher, which in particular found reflection in a decline in consols, the monthly settlement in which takes place to-morrow. Again, for the second time since the statement to Parliament on Monday, the Berlin Boerse was the firmest of the European markets. The somewhat interesting developments abroad, however, received relatively little attention here because of the more immediate factors which the stock market was interpreting according to the day's adverse sentiment. In the final trading there was some recovery, which lessened the extent of the net losses, though these still amounted, in a number of instances among the active stocks, to figures well in excess of a point.

The day's information was by no means altogether unfavorable despite the drift of events on the Stock Exchange. Several railroad returns contained elements of encouragement, particularly in respect to the ability of the railroads whose gross returns have declined to offset this by reduction in expenses. This was notably true yesterday of the October statements of the Union and Southern Pacific lines, while the Canadian Pacific, the Erie, the Reading, and the Mobile & Ohio all made favorable showings for that month in both gross and net. The iron market is unquestionably feeling the stimulus of consumption which is the natural result of low prices, for The Iron Age found it possible to say yesterday that the buying movement in pig iron was by far the most vigorous and extensive that has been seen in recent years, and that it is in full swing in all sections of the country. This would seem to be the forerunner of still further increases in the production of finished products, although in these lines the week has been less eventful than in the raw iron market. A reduction of from $2 to $4 a ton in certain classes of pipe shows that there were still some lines which were subject to the readjustment which had previously taken place in most products. In the general matter of reported price increases the Iron Age says that they are being taken with allowance, although sales of bars have been made at some advance over recent quotations. It is interesting to note in this connection that the competition which developed in the bar iron market following the price changes of last Spring was perhaps more aggressive than in any other one class of product.

In disowning that feature of the plan for the advancing of cotton prices, as originally outlined by its promoters, which would exact from the Southern cotton farmers who might desire to profit by the marketing facilities offered by the syndicate an agreement to reduce their next year's cotton acreage by 25 per cent., the promoters of this plan are dropping the feature of the original proposal which most subjected it to public criticism. It would be to the general advantage to have the product of the cotton farms marketed upon favorable terms rather than that most of the crop should be forced on the market at the outset of the season because of the weak financial position of the small cotton farmer. It is distinctly not to the general advantage, however, arbitrarily to reduce the cotton acreage by a large percentage for the purpose of giving a larger profit to the producer of cotton at the expense of the consumers of that staple. If the plan in actual practice is to be confined to facilitating the grower of cotton in comfortably marketing his product, the scheme appears in a very different light from that in which it was presented when first formally announced last week.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

GAIN AND LOSS IN COPPERS

Inspiration Has Sharp Advance, but Several Other Issues Make Fractional Declines—Cobalts Weak.

Curb trading was less active yesterday, but there were some substantial fractional gains as well as losses. Among the Coppers, Braden advanced from 5½ to 5⅝ on sales of 1,000, and Inspiration from 8⅛ to 9⅜, the close being at 9¼, after sales of 2,000. On the other hand, Greene-Cananea sold off from 8¼ to 8, and closed at 8⅛, and Giroux sold off from 4½ to 4¼, closing at 4 5-16. Fractional declines were also made in Ray Central and the Cobalts.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

For a brief period in the early dealings the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was decidedly strong, several important issues selling at that time fractionally above the prices on the New York Stock Exchange. The subsequent action of the market was a great disappointment to traders holding bullish views, and as prices receded much stock was thrown over, which had been carried through the decline of the day before. Bear operators regained their courage and helped to force prices lower. The advance in call money to its highest quotation for the season was utilized as a depressing factor.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Serenading the Bankers.

There seems to be a fascination for street orators in the busy corner at the head of Broad Street, where Mr. Wilkenson, the "Bishop of Wall Street," is wont to locate his preaching stool for his noonday meeting. It is probably the easiest place in the city for gathering a sizeable crowd at a minute's notice, for it is only necessary to do something a little out of the ordinary to stem temporarily the tides of hurrying pedestrians and assemble a crowd of several hundred persons in less time than it takes to raise a banner. Then, too, the stage-setting is to the orator's liking, for with a single wave of his arm he can point to the Stock Exchange, J. P. Morgan & Co., and the Sub-Treasury. This feature appeals especially to the Socialists, who get frequent permission to harangue the multitude from that vantage point. A new element was introduced into these meetings yesterday when a band of Salvationists from the Bowery brought a brass band with them to discourse religious music. The interest of the crowd was intense up to the time that the female missionaries began to circulate through the audience with their contribution boxes.

Exchanging Tobacco Securities.

Beginning to-morrow holders of the 4 per cent. and 6 per cent. bonds and the preferred stock of the American Tobacco Company, who are unwilling to deposit their securities with the several protective committees in advance of the filing of the dissolution plan with the Circuit Court, will be enabled to turn them into the committees without paying the penalty frequently imposed in such cases. Those holders who had previously deposited their bonds or stock, and who are not satisfied with the provisions for the exchange, will be allowed to withdraw from the agreement up to Dec. 28. The offer of the committees to act as a clearing house for the security holders will facilitate consummation of the plan.

Advance in Call Money.

Call money on the Stock Exchange made a sudden advance yesterday to 6 per cent. The highest price on the day preceding was 3¾, with most of the loans made at 3. Wednesday's quotation was the highest since Jan. 7, 1911. The advance was due to the approaching holiday and the losses by the banks through the heavy shipments of currency to Canada and San Francisco, which have been going on for several weeks.

Third Avenue Up.

The settlement of the Third Avenue's reorganization plans has been of immediate benefit to the holders of all classes of its securities. Yesterday the old stock advanced to 5½, a gain of 1⅞, and the new stock, when issued, to 36⅜, a gain of 8¾. The new 4 per cent. bonds sold up to 85¾ at one time and the new adjustments to 76¼. The certificates for the old Third Avenue bonds likewise made new high records for the year in Wednesday's trading.

Erie in October.

Although gross earnings of the Erie Railroad have shown increases in three of the four months of the new fiscal year, net earnings were below last year's until October. The losses in net were so light that the total for the first three months was more than wiped out by an increase of $178,000 in October, and at the end of the four months the company had an increase of $356,000 in gross and $104,000 in net. October's operating revenue was $5,205,000, a gain of $90,000 over that month last year, and expenses were reduced by $87,000. October is usually the best month of the year with the railroads.

Farmers and the Sherman Law.

Apparently the confidence that the Governors of the Cotton Belt States feel in their ability to keep clear of the Sherman law and at the same time induce their farmer constitutents to reduce cotton acreage next year and thereby curtail the cotton crop and boost the price is based on State rights. The spokesman for the Governors has advertised that the agreement to reduce acreage, if made, is one between the Governors of the several States and their citizens. Great anxiety has been shown by both the syndicate representatives and the Governors to have it known that the syndicate has nothing to do with the curtailment part of the plan. Quite a little interest has developed among lawyers in the attitude of the Department of Justice toward the plan. One observer of the situation remarked yesterday that if the Governors of the Cotton States can get together at a convention and at various conferences with trade interests frame up a plan to boost the price of cotton, he did not see why the Governors of the important steel States, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Alabama, could not get together on behalf of their oppressed steel makers and their financial backers, frame a plan to reduce production and go back and administer the plan in their respective States with the machinery of the State Government, thus escaping prosecution for combining in restraint of trade.

City Company's Bank Stock.

A story circulated yesterday gave the impression that the National Bank of Commerce stock, which reposed for a short time in the treasury of the National City Company and which was sold recently along with other bank stock to remove objections to the National City Bank's relationship to its subsidiary investment company, had gone to other members of the group which acquired control of the Commerce Bank when the Equitable and Mutual Life's holdings were sold. It was said in an authoritative quarter yesterday that while the City Company's sale of the Commerce stock had been an actual one, and not a mere return of the shares to the original holders, the new owners are indentified with the National City Bank, so that no change in the control of the jointly owned bank has taken place.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

ILLINOIS BRICK OUTLOOK

Present Sales of 45,000,000 Bricks a Month Make Dividend Resumption Probable.

In anticipation of the holiday, markets in other cities were quiet yesterday, traders being unwilling to increase their commitments over Thanksgiving. The Baltimore market was quiet and generally unchanged. Houston Oil shares were heavy and the common stock lost a fraction, while the preferred lost one point.

Though an easier tone was apparent throughout the list, business on the Boston board was conducted on a rather moderate scale, with the bulk of the transactions to even up over the Thanksgiving holiday. Issues in the arbitrage group weakened in sympathy with the sharp decline in New York, and Steel, selling ex dividend in this market, lost heavily. Amalgamated and American Telephone were also quoted materially lower, with some pressure from Wall Street. Of the local industrials, Massachusetts Gas was prominent on the decline, but United Fruit sold at the highest price of the year. Little interest was shown in the copper shares. Hancock was the feature, rising from 21 to 25, and reacting to 23 on reports of the finding of a rich lode at the bottom of the shaft.

An advance of a point in American Can preferred, after reaching a fraction better than that, and a decline of more than 2 in Chicago Telephone were the only considerable price changes on the Chicago Stock Exchange Wednesday. Diamond Match, selling ex dividend 1½ per cent., was quoted off an even point, equaling a fractional gain. Losses of a fraction occurred in Commonwealth Edison, Chicago Railways, Series 2, and Kansas City Railway and Light preferred. The regular monthly meeting of the Directors of the Chicago Telephone was held yesterday and nothing but routine business was transacted. The matter of the absorption of the company by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was discussed to some extent, but nothing was given out for publication. It is understood that the shares of stocks are being exchanged freely. Illinois Brick officials report sales to average between 45,000,000 and 50,000,000 bricks a month, and earnings promise to continue large enough to justify resumption of dividends soon on about a 4 per cent. basis. The banking interests in the concern have insisted on a sharp reduction of the floating indebtedness before any dividend disbursement would be considered, and the management has complied with that wish to a large extent.

In one of the quietest sessions in weeks the Philadelphia list merely marked time, except for the customary arbitraging in United States Steel. The traders were disinclined to do anything in view of the approaching holiday. An illustration of the utter stagnation prevailing among purely local issues was the fact that not a single share of Philadelphia Electric appeared on the tape during the first three hours of business, despite the announcement of a reduction in the rates for electric light in the most important section of the city. United States Steel, as already remarked, made up the bulk of the morning's trading. The stock was quoted ex dividend, except for cash, and traders were inclined to sell it. Cambria Steel, on the contrary, improved slightly. Reading was much less active than of late, and this was also true of Lehigh Valley.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

CHICAGO BANKERS OPTIMISTIC

"Corner in Trade Is Turned," One Says—Bank Clearings Larger.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Chicago bankers express themselves as satisfied with the business outlook. As one of them said to-day:

"The corner in trade was turned a month ago."

John J. Mitchell, President of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, believes business conditions are improving, the rise in New York discount rates being cited as an indication of the condition. He thinks trade will steadily improve. George M. Reynolds, President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, was extremely optimistic. He said: "The South is prosperous and farmers are holding their cotton without being compelled to borrow."

Charles G. Dawes, Vice President of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, said he looked for a gain in business during the next six months. Ralph Van Vechten, Vice President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, believed the South would steadily improve and was impressed by the reclamation progress made in submerged lands in the Mississippi delta.

Chicago bank clearings for the current month were larger than a year ago, the total for November being $1,170,616,706, against $1,145,087,608 in the same week in 1910. Balances were respectively $65,132,197 and $64,456,162. Clearings for the eleven months of 1911 to Nov. 30 were $12,684,940,038, against $12,738,217,813 in 1910; the balances were respectively $837,189,075 and $766,352,200.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

A Failure on the London Exchange—Prices Firm in Berlin.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Money and discount rates were higher to-day.

The settlement was concluded on the Stock Exchange with one small failure. The market declined early on realizing, but fair repurchases in foreign securities and home rails helped to make a steadier closing. Consols declined on the higher discount rates and the forthcoming issue of £3,500,000 Treasury bills.

American securities opened steady and about unchanged. Later in the forenoon prices advanced on light covering, but New York selling caused recessions in the late trading, and the market closed weak.

Money, 2½@3 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3¾ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for three months is 3⅝ per cent.

Gold premium at Madrid, 8.40; at Lisbon, 10.50.

COTTON BULLS DENY PLEDGING FARMERS

FIRST STATEMENT DIFFERENT

This Said That the Plan Depended on How the Farmer Kept His Pledge to Keep Acreage Down.

Both Col. R. M. Thompson of S. H. P. Pell & Co., the cotton bull who has formed a syndicate to advance money to planters on their cotton, and Gov. O'Neal of Alabama, representing the Governors of cotton States, denied yesterday that Col. Thompson's syndicate had any share in the plan for curtailing cotton acreage supported by the Southern Executives.

Gov. O'Neal was here in New York as the representatives of the Governors of the cotton belt States when the plan was finally put into shape. Along with other Southern States officials he was present in the office of S. H. P. Pell & Co. on Tuesday of last week when Col. Thompson handed out a typewritten statement explaining the plan. This statement, after explaining in somewhat ambiguous language, that the plan "means the placing in the cotton States of about $50,000,000 immediately for the handling of the cotton crop of 1911," made this reference to the prospective curtailment of acreage with which, both Col. Thompson and Gov. O'Neal stated yesterday, the syndicate plan had nothing to do:

"Of course, everything depends on the acceptance of the plan by the individual farmer in connection with his pledge to reduce acreage the coming year."

Col. Thompson denied yesterday that the benefits of the plan are conditional upon an agreement to reduce acreage. "This is no part of our plan," he said yesterday. "The statement was made, however, that whether the plan would ultimately become beneficial to the farmers would depend upon whether he did or did not reduce acreage, but it is entirely optional with him whether he does reduce or not."

Gov. O'Neal in an advertisement said this:

"If the farmer in the South, working with a beneficent nature, should produce another unusually large crop, naturally prices will not advance. As many of the papers have specified that this plan was made upon the condition that the farmers benefiting by it should agree to reduce the acreage, it is only fair to the merchants engaged in cities to state that they have no part in any such agreement. The agreement to reduce acreage, if made, is one between the Governors of the several States and their citizens."

At the office of S. H. P. Pell a representative of the firm was asked how Col. Thompson's denial could be reconciled with the original statement issued the day the plan became public. He said that that statement had not been made by the syndicate, but by the representatives of the Southern farmers. Commissioner of Agriculture Watson of South Carolina.

CLOVER LEAF EARNS DEFICIT.

President Shonts Comments on Improved Traffic Arrangements.

The gross earnings of the Toledo, St. Louis & Western remained almost stationary last year, the total revenues of $3,777,000 being an increase of only $5,041 over 1910. Operating expenses, on the other hand, increased $222,000, and the net earnings, after taxes, decreased $224,000 from the preceding year. As a result, after paying dividends of 4 per cent. on the preferred stock, there remained a deficit of $325,000 from the year's operations, as against a surplus of $351,000 at the close of 1910.

In his remarks to stockholders, President T. P. Shonts states that during the year the company completed arrangements for joint use of the new freight terminals of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas at St. Louis. "The advantageous location of these facilities has proven not only a valuable aid to traffic officers in the solicitation of freight to and from St. Louis proper, but has also made it possible to materially strengthen traffic alliances with other lines on business to the East, West, and Southwest," he says.

"Trackage arrangements have also been made with the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton for the use of its line between Springfield, Ill., and Metcalfe, Ill. The use of this line enables the interchange of traffic as between the Chicago & Alton and the T., St. L. & W. in both directions, not only on traffic originating and destined to points on these lines proper, but on through traffic moving in both directions, this route being shorter than through any of our other junctions, the service is more easily maintained at a lesser cost in terminal expense.

"The strike of coal miners in Illinois during the Spring of 1910, and extending over into the months of July and August of the present fiscal year, resulted in material increase in the cost of fuel for locomotives."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following Foreign Trade Opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

7,655. LABORATORY APPARATUS AND EXPERIMENTAL MACHINERY.—An American consular officer reports that a laboratory to form part of a technical college is now in process of construction in his district. Some of the special features to be installed are concentrating and ore-dressing machinery for gold, silver, lead, and zinc ores, coal assayer, smelting-furnace for lead and silver ores, roasting and refining furnace, upright vertical boiler, mine hoist, and compressor and experimental apparatus for explosive coal mine gases and coal dust. The attention of manufacturers in the United States is called to the following articles and fixtures to be installed, for which contracts have not yet been signed, and for which quotations are asked: Rock breakers, crushers, concentrating tables, experimental blast furnaces, upright boiler, 30 horse power air compressor and mine hoist.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—The wheat market displayed some strength, and closed at a net gain of ⅛c to ½c. The rally in the market was due to a better character of foreign news and to unfavorable reports from Russia and the Argentine. The European markets were not down as much as expected, and there seemed to be a steadier undertone to the cable information. Argentine reports were less optimistic. Snow cables that in Santa Fe and Cordoba the crop was yielding less than expected, due to rust and frost, the estimated yield being one-third less than expected two weeks ago. Rain was delaying the work. The Northwestern Miller direct report stated that dry weather was needed, but the drawbacks were no more serious than usual. The Russian official report for the empire—seventy-three Governments—was given out and made the Spring wheat crop 320,000,000 bushels, against 552,000,000 bushels last year. Winter wheat, 188,000,000 bushels, against 280,000,000 bushels, or a grand total of 508,000,000 bushels, against 832,000,000 bushels last year. A sensational loss in crop has been reported in Russia ever since last Summer. Russian exports so far this season have been 31,000,000 bushels, against 95,000,000 bushels last year. Russia has been importing Durum wheat from the United States ever since the new Durum crop began to move. In the absence of frightened feeling abroad regarding the situation American traders were disposed to be conservative. American receipts were again heavy, and in three days have increased 900,000 bushels over last year at Western points. Interior shipments have also increased to some extent. Cash demand was slow, with export sales reported of only eight loads of Manitoba low grade at outports. No. 2 red was quoted at 97¼c, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.11¾; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.03½; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.11¼.

CORN.—The market was firm but quiet. Prices closed at a small net advance for the day. Commission house buying was reported, and there was a more confident undertone. The Russian official crop estimate was 80,750,000 bushels, against 100,725,000 bushels last year. Western receipts are increasing quite rapidly, showing a gain in three days of 800,000 bushels over last week. Weather conditions were unfavorable east of the Mississippi, but it was cold and clear West, and the predictions were for generally fair weather throughout. Cash corn was quiet, with six loads reported at outports. No. 2 corn was quoted at 69¾c, free on board.

OATS.—The market was very firm but quiet. Prices advanced ½c to ⅝c, and closed at the outside. Buying was influenced to some extent by the Russian official report, showing a crop of 905,000,000 bushels, compared with 1,022,000,000 bushels last year. Western receipts were larger, but this had no effect. Cash oats were steady, with standards and No. 3 whites quoted at 54c; No. 2, white, 54½c.

PROVISIONS.—Prices were firmer on hog products, with considerable buying on the sharp falling off in the hog movement. Receipts were only 108,000 at all points, and there was a general advance of about 5c in live hog prices at packing points. The close was steady.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The tendency continues to minimize the importance of advances in the pure lard market, yet declines in hog products are subjected to a great deal of comment. This probably best reflects the bearish sentiment, and was apparent during yesterday's session. The inquiry from shorts, however, and some new buying as prices recede prevented any material setback. Notices for December contracts were about 2,000 barrels and caused liquidation in some quarters, but without much effect on the price level. Consuming trade continues rather quiet. Crude quoted at 4.27 to 4.33.

COTTON.

Liberal buying by foreign interests, the purchases being made by brokers with German connections, proved a sustaining influence during the greater part of the session, but near the close offerings were heavier, and final prices were very close to the low levels of the season. The attempt on the part of bears to depress prices at the start, following gains of from 1 to 3 points, was not successful, but despite the fact that there was a noticeable disposition to even up contracts over the holidays and to await more definite spot advices, the South was a seller on the scale-up and buyers were readily supplied. Some interests maintain that the local future market is decidedly below a parity with Southern spots, which discounts a further slight easing of the basis at the South, but this seems to induce caution on the short side rather than to inspire an improved inquiry.

Weather conditions are not entirely favorable, there being scattered precipitation and abnormally low temperatures in many parts of the belt. Early estimates on the ginning to Dec. 1 are being modified, and a report of about 12,700,000 bales is now expected on Dec. 8. Movement of cotton, however, is still of fair volume, and into-sight figures for the week will probably be in excess of those of the last week. In the meantime, distress cotton is being gradually disposed of, some interests predicting that by the middle of January the situation at the South will be materially improved, but to date spinners have had little difficulty in covering their commitments. Foreigners are generally admitted to have been the best buyers so far, with exports to date about 3,670,000 bales, against 3,075,000 last year. It is also contended that Southern spinners in this country have been larger buyers than the Northern mills. Domestic trade advices continue sanguine. Latest advices from China indicate chaotic conditions still prevailing, but there have been no cancellations made, according to well-informed authorities, and shipments are reported as scheduled. Little new business with the Far East is expected for the balance of this year, although at the same time the favorable feature of light stocks is still thought to obtain there.

Southern spot markets were generally unchanged, as was the local market, with middlings quoted at 9.30c. It was said that spot concerns were advising short covering of December. Warehouse stocks at present are 58,000 bales, against 182,000 last year, with arrivals fair. Rumors circulated near the close that the National Ginners' Association will issue a bearish crop estimate on the 1st of December. Last year its estimate of 11,126,000 bales was published on Dec. 6.

COFFEE.

COFFEE.—Sales amounted to only 58,350 bags and operations were of a holiday character, with evening-up and switching between the different positions. Prices were unchanged to 2 points higher early, but later there was an easier undertone. Near the close offerings fell off and final prices were steady, 5 points lower to 3 points net higher. Havre rallied after an easy opening and closed unchanged to ¼ franc higher, while Hamburg was unchanged to ¼ pfennig up. Rio declined 75 reis and Santos was unchanged.

HEAVY PIG IRON SALES.

Steel Trade Finds Much Encouragement in the Present Market.

Much encouragement is found by iron and steel trade journals in the heavy buying of pig iron now going on. The purchasing movement, The Iron Age says, "is far more vigorous and extensive than has been seen in recent years." The Iron Trade Review states that developments in the iron and steel market this week have inclined strongly toward the favorable side and says "leading steel makers are expressing the belief that the turn from the unsatisfactory state of trade and prices has come." The Iron Age says:

> In Southern iron the total of sales closed is fully 200,000 tons, while Northern furnaces have done nearly as much, making the total for the week not far from 400,000 tons.
> One Southern interest has disposed of 150,000 tons about equally divided between foundry and basic irons. The pipe foundries have been heavy buyers, one company taking from 75,000 to 100,000 tons of Southern iron for its various plants, chiefly Western and Southern. The large agricultural machinery manufacturers have also bought from Southern furnaces. The sales of Southern basic have been mostly to steel foundries and are in consequence of the large car and locomotive orders announced last week. Southern No. 2 sold in the larger transactions of the week at $9.75 and Southern basic at $9.60, Birmingham.
> The business of the past week has been largely for delivery over the first half of 1912, though some buying was for the first quarter only. Large inquiries for pig iron are pending, relatively much more in Central and Western districts than in the East. Appreciation of the lowness of prices seems to have spread widely and quickly.
> The week has been much less eventful in finished lines than in pig iron. A lull in car orders is natural after the burst of activity in the middle of the month. But the Missouri Pacific has bought 2,000 cars more, making its total 5,400 since August, and the Grand Trunk has placed orders for 2,000 steel hopper cars, while of the 4,500 purchased by the Canadian Pacific 2,000 will come from shops on this side. The Chicago & Northwestern is expected to buy 75 locomotives in addition to 3,300 cars. The Santa Fe inquiry is for 8,000 cars. The rail market has been quiet for two weeks. Thus far only about 250,000 tons have been bought for 1912. Reports of higher prices for any forms of finished material are taken with allowance.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> Of first importance as indicating the firmer condition of prices in finished material is the official announcement of the Republic Iron and Steel Company that it has advanced its prices on steel bars to 1.10 cents, Pittsburgh, for shipment up to Jan. 1, and 1.15 cents for shipment beyond that date. The significance of this statement comes from the fact that the Republic Company, by its announcement of last May, was the first to inaugurate a wholly independent policy of naming prices and seeking business in the steel trade. The movement of Southern pig iron in the week has been enormous, and is estimated at about 300,000 tons of foundry and basic grades, which was sold at $9.75, Birmingham, for No. 2, and $9.60, Birmingham, for basic. These prices represent concessions.
> In the Pittsburgh district a rather surprising development was the appearance of an independent steel company with an inquiry for a large tonnage of basic. This company has a number of idle blast furnaces.
> A very important announcement is that engineers of the Pennsylvania Railroad have decided in favor of ordering much larger freight cars for that system. These cars are to be 52 feet long and will require about 25 tons of iron and steel in their construction, an increase of about 25 per cent. over the heaviest steel cars now in use. The building of these cars will involve considerable increase in the demand for bridges, rails, and ties, but changes of course will come gradually.

COUNT STEEL STOCKHOLDERS

Corporation Getting Brokers' Records to Put with Its Own.

In connection with a tabulation of its shareholders which it is making, the United States Steel Corporation has addressed a circular letter to brokers and banking houses which are the holders of record of United States Steel shares asking for information as to the number of individuals represented by such holdings. The corporation has about 70,000 preferred shareholders on its books and about 35,000 common stockholders, but it is well known that a large proportion of the stock, especially the common stock, is carried by brokers for the account of customers.

It is understood that the corporation is gathering this information for use in the Government suit for its dissolution, hoping to show that more people have an interest in its welfare than in any railroad or industrial corporation. The corporation's letter reads:

> We desire to ascertain, if possible, the number of record stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation and the amount of their holdings, divided into classes as follows:
> Number of stockholders of 10 shares and under; number of stockholders of 11 to 100 shares inclusive; 101 to 500 shares inclusive; 501 to 1,000 shares inclusive; 1,001 to 5,000 shares inclusive; 5,001 to 10,000 shares inclusive, and over 10,000 shares.
> A considerable amount of the stock of the corporation appears to be held by you directly or indirectly. We assume this is held more or less for account of your customers.
> If you have no objection, we should like to have you give us a statement, divided into classes as above, of the number of actual owners of stock, preferred and common, respectively, now represented by your holdings.
> Any information which you may furnish us will be treated confidentially, no names being used. The figures, if used, will be grouped with other similar figures, so that there will be no possible way of actually ascertaining the nominal holders or the real owners.

From sight of the company's stock books at the recent annual meetings, enough holders of record have become known with the amounts of their shares to show that about 1,000,000 of the common shares are held in the names of seventy-five Stock Exchange houses. There are said to be 8,000 single shareholders and 23,000 holding ten shares or less each.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Henry Siegel Buys West 17th Street Loft—About $600,000 Involved in the Deal—Down Town Business Property the Feature of an Active Market.

Continued activity characterized the realty market yesterday, the downtown section being particularly active, while investment buying showed its strength in the loft district in the purchase by Henry Siegel of the new structure at Seventh Avenue and Seventeenth Street. Mr. Siegel is President of the Simpson-Crawford Company and The Fourteenth Street Store, and an interesting feature of the deal was the giving in part payment of his former residence on the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and Eighty-second Street. The Siegel house, a five-story building, is one of the finest private dwellings on Madison Avenue, but it was stated a short time ago that the owner was contemplating altering it into bachelor apartments.

It occupies a plot 36 feet on the avenue by 102.4 feet on the street, and is directly opposite the big Schermerhorn apartment just finished on the block front to the north, and two other apartments are going up on the easterly front of the same block.

The loft which has been acquired by Mr. Siegel occupies the plot at 106 to 110 Seventh Avenue, with an extension to 206 West Seventeenth Street. The avenue plot is 52 by 100 feet and the street plot is 20 by 100. The building is a twelve-story structure, completed eight months ago by the 106, 108, and 110 Seventh Avenue Company, Daniel W. Richman, President, and is fully rented. It has been held by the sellers at $360,000. The aggregate value of the combined properties in the deal is $600,000.

This transaction, which is the best Seventh Avenue deal in some time, was negotiated by the Duross Company in conjunction with H. M. Weill & Co.

Downtown Realty Changes.

In the lower part of the city the sales included properties in Reade, Church, and Greenwich Streets and Park Place, while in addition came the announcement that the old Tefft-Weller building on Broadway, between Pearl and Worth Streets, is undergoing negotiations for purchase.

The two sales were made through J. N. Kalley & Son, and Herman Leroy Edgar. One plot, the southwest corner of Park Place and Greenwich Street, including the three five-story buildings at 236 and 238 Greenwich Street and 80 to 86 Park Place, was sold for the estate of William C. Rhinelander and Elize L. Edgar to an investor. The plot is 49 by 79 feet. The same brokers also sold to a client the northeast corner of Church and Reade Streets, occupied by a five-story building at 78 to 82 Reade Street and 177 Church Street. It was sold by George S. Stege and C. Droste, who acquired the property a year ago and altered the building. The plot is 68 by 82 feet.

The Tefft-Weller Building covers a plot from 326 to 330 Broadway, a frontage of 75.6 feet, with extensions through to 94 and 98 Worth Street, having a frontage there of 75 feet and a frontage of 24.11 feet at 552 Pearl Street. It is said that the consideration will be slightly over $500,000.

Government Lease in Greenwich District.

Negotiations are pending, it was learned yesterday, for the leasing by the United States Government of the new eight-story loft on the southwest corner of Greenwich and Barrow Streets. This is one of the three structures lately erected by the St. John's Park Realty Company on the entire block bounded by Greenwich, Morton, Washington, and Barrow Streets. The other two were recently sold to the Hoffman estate. The loft under consideration for additional Government space is opposite the Appraiser's Stores block, having frontages of 100 feet on both Barrow and Greenwich Streets.

Down Town Lofts Traded.

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Edgar has purchased from George H. Stege, 78 to 82 Reade Street, northeast corner of Church Street, a five-story loft building, recently remodeled, on plot 67.2 by 61.8.

The buyer gave in exchange a five-story building, on plot 49.9 by 79.4, at the southwest corner of Greenwich Street and Park Place.

Small Investors Buying Tenements.

The demand for tenement house property by small investors was evident in yesterday's realty transactions when several deals were reported both on the east and west side of the city. In the Harlem section the three five-story flats 31, 33 and 35 West 111th Street were resold to an investor by Harry Rosen. The buyer acquired the property which stands on a plot 91 by 100.11 from the Kingsland estate about ten days ago and sold at a substantial advance.

On the lower east side Aaron Weiner purchased from Sugarman & Kahn 102 Goerck Street, a five-story tenement, and James N. Webb sold to the Rudolph Wallach Company, 548 East Fifth Street, a five-story tenement on a lot 27 by 96.

The two five-story flats, 1,749 and 1,751 Amsterdam Avenue, with stores, have been purchased by Ennis & Sinnott for speculation. They were sold by the Duff & Brown Company for Harry W. Brooks and are located between 146th and 147th Streets.

Secures Option On Factory.

An option to purchase for $114,000 the five-story factory, 516 to 524 West Thirty-fifth Street, has been secured by the Basolio Ink and Color Company, the present lessees of the structure. The property is owned by the Warner Realty Company.

Bronx.

An important deal in the proposed Fordham Plaza was announced yesterday by J. P. and E. J. Murray, who sold for John B. Haskin the southwest corner of Park Avenue and 189th Street, formerly known as Welsh Street. The buyer is an investor who it is understood will improve the plot, which measures 62 by 80 feet.

The New York Edison Company owns the remainder of the avenue front, on which a large building will be erected shortly.

This corner will face on the Fordham Plaza, bounded by 189th Street, Park Avenue, Fordham Road and Third Avenue, on which the city expects to commence work next month. The work will cost about $250,000.

A sale of Third Avenue property in the vicinity of Tremont where there has been little or no activity this Fall, was reported yesterday by Platt & Albert, who sold a plot 80 by 119 on the avenue for the West Side Construction Company.

The property is located on the west side of the avenue, 78 feet south of 170th Street. The buyer is a speculator and it is understood that negotiations are pending for its re-sale to a builder who will improve the site with tenements.

The Trask estate has sold through Bryan L. Kennelly the plot 75 by 100, on the north side of 174th Street, twenty-five feet west of Boone Avenue, to a builder for improvement with two five-story flats.

Christian Werner has sold to a builder the vacant plot 75 by 100 on the northerly side of 236th Street, 25 feet east of Carpenter Avenue. Wakefild, King & Uren negotiated the sale.

Brooklyn.

The brick dwelling, 1,170 East Fortieth Street, on a lot 20 by 100, has been sold to a client of Delach & Spader for occupancy. The same brokers have also sold the dwellings, 102 and 104 Fourteenth Street, between Second and Third Avenues. The buyer, Isidor Traub, will remodel the structures.

Charles H. Southerland has purchased from J. S. Corrigan the two three-story brick dwellings, 389 and 393 Sixth Avenue, each on a lot 16.8 by 90 feet.

Long Island.

The Halleran Agency has sold at Broadway-Flushing eight lots on the west side of Thirty-first Street, between State Street and Crocheron Avenue, to be improved with four houses to be built by the Auburndale Construction Company. A plot 40 by 100, on the east side of Thirty-second Street, north of Mitchell Avenue, to Peter J. Finnegan, also a plot adjoining the above, 40 by 100, to John C. Delahanty.

Recent Buyers.

George W. Luscomb is the buyer of 623 West 142d Street and 518 West 183d Street, reported sold Wednesday.

E. B. Springs is the buyer of the dwelling at 29 West Twenty-eighth Street, recently reported sold.

Kingsland Residence Leased.

Leases.

George Milne has leased for a long term of years for the Woehr estate to the Merriam Paper Company, Edward J. Merriam President and Treasurer, the entire store, basement, and first loft in the new Woehr Building, 125 and 127 Worth Street, between Centre and Lafayette Streets.

Louis Schrag has leased, for Johnson & Fleischhauer, a store in the building 107 to 113 West Twenty-fifth Street to Saynor & Hepner, for a term of years, and for the estate of John M. Dodd, the property, 423 and 425 West Thirtieth Street, to German & Co., for a term of years.

The Louis Becker Company leased for John C. Rodgers, the contractor, the large double store located at 1,929 Amsterdam Avenue, near 155th Street, for a term of years.

Brody, Adler & Koch Company have leased the store and basement in their new building at 12 West Seventeenth Street, which is nearing completion. This completes the renting of the building.

Notes.

A. R. Peacock of Pittsburgh has taken title to the twelve-story loft building 137 and 139 West Twenty-fifth Street, sold last week.

The Charles F. Noyes Company negotiated a $70,000 mortgage at 4½ per cent. interest for five years, covering the property at 133 West Thirty-third Street, a two-story building on lot of 3,300 square feet, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. This is the building recently leased by the same brokers to the White House Lunch Company subject to a net rental of $6,650 per annum.

Building permits issued in the Borough of Queens for the month just ended foot up to more than $1,000,000, and is one of the best months on record in that borough. For the week just ended the permits totaled $370,193.

MAINSHEET BRINGS $15,000 AT GARDEN

Former Champion Trotting Stallion Star of Old Glory Horse Auction.

With the continuation of the Old Glory horse auction in Madison Square Garden, which had its usual three sessions yesterday, interest increases from nearly every standpoint. The better class of trotters and pacers put under the hammer warranted a general loosening up of the "bankrolls" of the bidders, with the result that the top prices of the week were the outcome.

Mainsheet, an eleven-year-old trotting stallion by The Director General-Pixtell, brought $15,000, which figure eclipses by many thousands that reached in the sale of any horse of the sale thus far.

As the champion trotting stallion of 1906-1907, with a race record of 2:05, and the sire of many winners, Mainsheet proved the bone of bidding contention among the devotees, finally being bid in by his owners, Cobb Brothers, Wellsville, N. Y. It developed that the sale was made to dissolve a partnership in which Al Thomas of Indianapolis, Ind., a well-known driver, had a one-third interest. This stallion is considered in many circles the equal of any in the world.

Direct Hal, the world's champion green pacer, with a mark of 2:04¼, and the holder of the world's pole record, 2:05½, as well as the sire of Ess H. Kay, 2:00¾, Walter Direct, 2:05¾, Reproachless, 2:04¼, The Philistine, 2:06¾, Direct Hal, Jr., 2:06½, and twoscore of others of lesser fame was bought in by the same people for $4,700.

Ed Custer and seventeen horses of his get, the consignment of A. G. Danforth & Son, were sold for a total of $11,095, an average of $616. This sire, which was bought by Steiner Brothers, Lima, Ohio, for $3,800, was the champion two-year-old colt of 1906, and a frequent winner, all in all, two of the most prominent being the two-year-old division of the Horse Review Futurity and the three-year-old division of the American Horse Breeded Futurity.

The Empire City Farms, owned by William Simpson, disposed of nineteen head, trotters and pacers, for a total of $6,880, with an average of $367. Chief among these were Cheery Worthy, purchased by James McLenahan of New York for $800; Derby Axworthy, by W. R. Cox, Dover, N. H., $760, and Elbaron, by A. S. Martin, Rockville, Conn., for $825.

Prince McKinney, a trotter which Senator Bailey paid $3,800 for a year ago, and soon after sold to John H. Shults for $4,000 and a box of cigars, was sold by the latter to A. H. Parker, Bedford, Mass., for $1,200.

Fantasy, the holder of the championship three-year-old trotting filly record from 1893 to 1908, and the four-year-old record from 1894 to 1910, as well as the champion five-year-old, with a mark of 2:07, was sold for $90. When this mare was shown at the horse show in 1893 it was estimated that she was worth $30,000.

Dora, a trotting champion of Austria, as well as a winner in her early starts on the Grand Circuit, went to George Howard of this city for $525. It is the intention of the purchaser to send her to Hungary, where it is expected that she will be a valuable brood mare.

$300 for Breach of Promise.

A City Court jury returned a verdict yesterday to Judge Delehanty awarding $300 damages for breach of promise of marriage to Anna Perlstein, who sued Emmanuel S. Klausner, a lawyer. Miss Perlstein said that she gave Klausner money from her earnings as a shirtwaist operator while he was a law student after accepting his proposal to marry him when admitted to the bar. After his admision, she said, he jilted her because she could not pay him a dowry.

MILLS WITH CRESCENT TEAM.

Famous Goalkeeper Joins Bay Ridge Clubmen's Hockey Seven.

Hockey enthusiasts can look forward to many exciting games when the Amateur League season opens, judging from the activity and enthusiasm displayed by the players who will represent the various teams that will participate in the championship struggle.

With two legs on the big silver trophy which represents the championship, the Crescent A. C. players will put forth a strenuous effort to gain final possession of it. Bill Dobby, the veteran Canadian player, who assisted the team so materially last season in winning the final and deciding game from the New York A. C. team, is coaching the New Moon players, and a squad of very capable substitutes will be available in the event of any of the regular men being incapacitated from playing.

As the team is now arranged for practice work, Dufresne is again at point, Brown at cover point, Jimmy Sherrif in his old place as rover, Stanley Martin, the former Yale player, who will captain the team, is the centre of the line, flanked by Artie Liffiton, and either Scarborough or Doc Campbell, both of whom, with Sars Kennedy, are trying for the place. Lewis has been defending the cage, but when the bell rings for the first game of the championship series at the St. Nicholas Rink Dr. Mills, who is the best goalkeeper in America, will be in front of the net. Mills was formerly with the New York A. C. team, and his marvelous playing in many championship games will be recalled by local hockey experts. Bob Wall, another veteran player, whose able work distinguished him in the final game, which gave the Crescents the championship last season, is also practicing with the team.

FETE AT DURLAND'S.

Miss Marion Gaynor Scores Over Miss Preece for Silver Trophy.

Equestrian lovers enjoyed the Thanksgiving fête last night at Durland's Academy, witnessing many evolutions by both men and women riders. The programme embraced events for girls under 16 years—jumping contests, exhibition of saddle hacks, a cotillion ride, tug-of-war, &c.

The academy was filled to its capacity by an enthusiastic crowd, most of whom stayed until well on toward midnight to witness the high-jump contest, which was open to all nations and for a cup presented by Prince Ludovic Pignatelli d'Aragon of Madrid, Spain.

After the cotillion ride, which was participated in by foreign guests and patrons of the academy, the White Wings squad went through their paces, the quintet consisting of Gordon Smith, Charles Dickel, Wright Allen, Casper Weyber, and Archer Kinney. Then the American and English champion hackney pony, Horace Junior, was put through his paces.

For the silver cup to the best girl rider not exceeding 16 years, with the riders only to count, Miss Margaret Tompkins was awarded the trophy, with Miss Marion Gaynor second. Miss Gaynor was successful in the event for saddle hacks, winning with James H. Dunn's Sceptre from Miss Helen Preece, on Hugh C. Willoughby's Great Scott. This was one of the biggest fields of the evening.

CLARKE WINS WITH CUE.

J. M. Millette Defeated, 300 to 251, in Class B 18.2 Tournament.

George P. B. Clarke won last night's match in the Class B 18.2 billiard tournament at Daly's Billiard Academy, defeating J. M. Millette by a score of 300 to 251. Clarke was the steadier of the two, and while his runs were not as high as those of his opponent he had fewer misses and his steadiness carried him through.

Millette's playing at times was skillful, and he had runs of 47 and 32, while Clarke's best clusters were 24 and 33. The match went to the sixty-fifth inning, when Clarke went out with a trio of points. His average was 4 40-65, while Millette's average was 3 59-64. Millette had eighteen misses, and this tended to keep his average down. The schedule includes twenty-one games, and the seven players will play every evening until the tournament is finished.

WINNERS WITH THE CUE.

In last night's game of the amateur handicap 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament at Doyle's Billiard Academy, Nelson Mayo defeated William Croll by the score of 75 to 78. The winner was playing at a handicap of 75 points, while Croll had to make 100 tallies in order to win the contest. High runs: Mayo, 19; Croll, 15.

Three games were decided last night in the amateur handicap three-cushion-carrom billiard tournament at the Washington Heights Billiard Academy, 181st Street and St. Nicholas Avenue. In the opening contest E. A. Ware and W. E. Simler were the contestants, and it proved to be the best game of the three. Ware was to make twenty points while Simler was gathering twelve, the former making his necessary tally in thirty-five innings, while his opponent only scored ten. The second game brought together F. G. Owles and R. B. Thomas, and resulted in the same score as the first game, 20 to 10, in favor of Owles. Owles was playing at twenty points and Thomas was handicapped at twelve. In the third game Owles won another victory, defeating W. E. Simler by the score of 20 to 5, in forty-three innings. The winner was at the twenty-point mark, while Simler had to make only twelve.

George Sutton, who was defeated in his match with Willie Hoppe for the championship of the world at 18.2 balk line billiards Tuesday evening, engaged in two exhibition games of 18.2 balk line play at Keeney's Knickerbocker Billiard Academy in Brooklyn yesterday and won both matches. In the afternoon game Sutton defeated B. R. Lewis by the score of 300 to 29 in fifteen innings. Sutton made high runs of 50, 33, and 34 and had an average of 20 points. Lewis made high runs of 8, 7, and 5 and averaged 2¼ points. In the evening Sutton defeated Ferdinand Poggenburg by the score of 400 to 108 in sixteen innings. Sutton's high runs were 113, 66, and 40, with an average of 25 points. Poggenburg's high runs were 45, 25, and 20, and he averaged 12 points.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Nov. 29.—In a National Amateur Three-Cushion Billiard League game to-night Jones of Philadelphia defeated Otis of Brooklyn by the score of 50 to 35 in sixty-nine innings. Each had a high run of 5.

CONTROLLER BAY CHARGES COLLAPSE

Brandeis Says Administration's Changed Alaskan Policy Disposes of Them.

AMOS PINCHOT CONCURS

No Evidence of Illegality or Bad Faith by Any Government Official Was Found by Attorney.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The great insurgent and Democratic uproar about the "Alaskan scandal" the "Dick to Dick" letter and the great "Controller Bay grab," was silenced to-day, and two such thorough-going insurgents as Louis D. Brandeis and Amos Pinchot, joined in advising Chairman Graham of the House Committee on Expenditure in the Interior Department that there were nothing further to investigate, and that the matter had better be dropped.

This lame and impotent conclusion of the furious quest of a "grab" scandal, started during the special session last Summer, is based now upon the declaration by Mr. Brandeis, with Mr. Pinchot concurring, that the attitude of the Administration toward Alaska has changed since the appointment of Walter L. Fisher as Secretary of the Interior, and the latter's visit to Alaska. Mr. Graham, in giving out the letter from Mr. Brandeis advising dropping the matter, issued a statement contending that it was his committee which forcedf the Administration's change of attitude. Mr. Graham solaces himself for the failure of his Controller Bay inquiry by declaring that there are many matters still to be looked into by his committee, and that he expects to have the committee enlarged and its powers increased.

Mr. Brandeis was counsel for Gifford Pinchot in the Ballinger investigation, and Amos Pinchot is Gifford's brother. There are no higher authorities in the insurgent council than these, and some curiosity is expressed here as to how the rest of the conclave is to reconcile itself to this judgment of Mr. Brandeis and Amos Pinchot.

In the statements issued to-day there is as little references to the mysterious "Dick to Dick" letter. It will be recalled that this was the alleged postscript which a magazine investigator named Waybelle F. Abbott declared that she had discovered in the files of the Interior Department, pinned to a letter from Richard F. Ryan to R. A. Ballinger, who was then Secretary of the Interior. The alleged postscript made a scandalous charge against the President and Secretary Ballinger. Its existence was promptly challenged by the Administration, and all the officials of the Department of the Interior denied that it was in the files there, or ever had been.

Attorney Brandeis in his letter to the committee, dated Nov. 27, says that Secretary Fisher's recommendation for prompt developments of Alaskan coal fields in the public interest, their safeguarding against private monopoly through the coal mine lease system, the Government construction and operation of a railroad and the operation of a Government owned coal mine, bring the administration into accord with the principles underlying the La Folette resolution, the Poindexter bill and the Robinson-Works bill introduced in Congress.

He added that he found no evidence of illegality of bad faith by any Government official in the elimination from the Chugach National forest of a large tract on Controller Bay in aid of the Controller Railroad Company, though that elimination was opposed to the best interests of the people.

A general rise is in progress in the Plains States and the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions.

The storm over the lake region Tuesday night has passed to New Foundland, followed by clearing weather.

West from the Mississippi River the weather remained fair.

Indications are that the weather will remain fair Thursday and Friday throughout practically the entire country.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Corset Prices May Be Advanced—Steel Strip and Manganese Duty Rates.

The price of corsets may be advanced as the result of a decision made yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers sustaining increases in value imposed by customs officials on steel strips in coils, used in the manufacture of corset steel, clasps, &c. The case before the board stands in the name of Strouse, Adler & Co., and is in the nature of a test of the provisions of the Tariff act of 1909.

The merchandise was assessed with duty at the rate of 35 per cent. under the provision for "steel strips in coils." The importers alleged the goods subject to tax at applicable specific rates as "steel not specially provided for." Judge Fischer says in his decision overruling the importers' claim that there is nothing in the official record to disturb the assessment as made by the customs officials.

The Goldschmidt Thermit Company failed to obtain relief from an assessment made on importations of manganese metal. The Collector exacted duty at 20 per cent. ad valorem under the provision in the present Tariff act for "metals unwrought, not specially provided for." The protestants relied on the claim that the importations are dutiable at $2.50 a ton under Paragraph 118 as "ferro-manganese." The testimony it is held does not substantiate the claim. The Collector is affirmed.

CIRCULAR ATTACKS CHARITY SOCIETY

"Former Contributor" Anonymously Attempts to Show That Its Funds Are Misused.

ALL FALSE, SAYS DR. DEVINE

Organization's Head, Explaining the Administration of Finances, Calls It a Misstatement.

A circular signed "A Former Contributor" attacking the Charity Organization Society as "a charity for revenue only," was sent out yesterday to the newspapers and to many individuals. It purported to be a review of the annual financial statement of the society for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1910, and said that out of a total expenditure for the previous year of $299,785 only $79,222 was employed for the relief of the poor, the balance, $220,563, having been used in paying salaries and office expenses.

The Charity Organization Society is regarded as the leading organization of its character in the country. Its receipts and disbursements annually approximate $300,000. Robert W. De Forest is its President, J. P. Morgan is Treasurer, and the immediate supervision of its work is under Dr. Edward T. Devine, General Secretary and Schiff Professor of Social Economy at Columbia.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Balance on hand Oct. 1, 1909	$84,353.01
Total amount in hand for the year	$360,753.42
Balance on hand Sept. 30, 1910	60,967.53
Total expenditures for the year	$299,785.89
Expenditures for the relief of the poor	79,222.25
Remainder paid out in salaries and for office expenses	$220,563.64

It is further said that the total salaries, wages and "honoraria" aggregate $141,022, constituting 47 per cent. of the total disbursements, while office expenses constitute 27 per cent. and expenditures for the relief of the poor 26 per cent., only 26 cents out of every dollar contributed going for the chief purpose for which it was intended.

Dr. Devine was inclined not to notice the attack because it was anonymous. He said he himself had received several of the circulars through friends of the society who had got them in their mail and sent them to him. But he did not know who had prepared it, and had made no effort to find out. It was learned, however, that some of Dr. Devine's subordinates had made an investigation since the first circular was received to learn its author, and that they were able to "guess" pretty accurately who was behind it. But they refused to tell more.

Finally, taking the view that the attack, if widely circulated, would be misleading, as he believed it was intended to be, Dr. Devine agreed to answer it. The most obvious misstatement, he said, was in the classification which made it appear that the receipts for the year ended Sept. 30, $276,400, was for the relief of the poor.

As a matter of fact, Dr. Devine said, this sum included the total receipts of the School of Philanthropy, which is endowed and receives no aid at all from general contributions, the Department for the Improvement of Social Conditions, the Association of Tuberculosis Clinics, and the Committee on Criminal Courts, all of which are distinct organizations doing nothing toward direct relief. The School of Philanthrophy, indeed, is a school and nothing more, its only relation to a charity being that it instructs young women who expect some day to become charity workers.

"In the year ended Sept. 30, referred to in the circular," said Dr. Devine, "the Charity Organization Society disbursed in direct relief a little less than $80,000, or about twenty times as much as the society was spending in that way when I became connected with it fifteen years ago.

"Besides this $80,000, expended for relief, and what was expended for other activities which have independent treasuries, the society expended about $200,000. Here wo have the frightful bugbear of the hostile critics of organized charity. 'You admit,' they say, 'that you spend $2.50 in administration expenses for every dollar spent in relief. You convict yourself of all your enemies have ever said about you.'

"No honest person who has taken the trouble to go to the financial statements of the society to get his totals can go away from them with this understanding.

"When one quotes these figures as having been obtained from the society's annual reports, and infers from them that there is a disproportion between relief and the cost of administering relief he is intentionally deceiving the public. What these figures really show is that the society is engaged in other activities besides relief giving.

"Of the $200,000, which is over and above the $80,000 spent for relief, about $50,000 in round numbers was the cost of conducting the School of Philanthropy, a training school for those expecting to engage in civic or social work. It is not supported by contributions at all, but by endowment and tuition fees. There goes one-fourth of the argument at once.

"About $7,500 was spent for the work of the Tenement House Committee. This is the committee which, with the support and co-operation of the daily press, settlements, trades unions, and others obtained the present tenement house law ten years ago, and has ever since been obliged to fight attacks on it from such people as are always attacking the Charity Organization Society. This committee has nothing to do with relief, but is doing work which it believes to be more important and useful than that of any mere relief fund can possibly be. It is fighting for decent tenement homes.

"Some $30,000 was spent on the work of the Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis and its affiliated Association of Tuberculosis Clinics. None of this was for relief, and none of it was for the expense of administering relief. But it is more fundamental than relief; it is prevention."

Dr. Devine pointed out also how more than $8,000 had been spent in the Bureau of Advice and Information, which was for the purpose of reporting to its members and others on charitable agencies which appeal for financial support. This is a bureau for exposing fraudulent enterprises, and Dr. Devine intimated that some such organization which the Charity Organization Society had laid bare might be behind the attack.

"The society spent something less than $3,000 in its Special Employment Bureau," continued Dr. Devine. "The object of this bureau is to find work of special kinds for handicapped persons who are not able to do a full day's work in the ordinary sense, but who can do certain things very satisfactorily if they have some special consideration. Thus employed they are both happier and better off physically than if they are supported in idleness.

"I have accounted for about half of the $200,000 expended by the society. The other half was expended in carrying on seven central office departments and eleven district offices, all of which have to do more or less directly with the relief and prevention of distress."

Dr. Devine explained that money sent to the society for relief is used altogether for that purpose, but if sent for the needs of the society is used as the society's many activities require.

OPERATION ON J. A. METCALF.

Well-Known Choir Basso May Never Be Able to Sing Again.

Conflicting statements were made yesterday as to the nature and probable result of an operation performed a week ago on the throat of James A. Metcalf, president of the Metcalf Company, silversmiths, and basso soloist of Grace Church. He is a patient at the New York Hospital and it will be several days before he can be taken to his home, at 547 Fifth Avenue.

According to one report, which caused general alarm when it was circulated among the friends of the singer, the operation was for cancer on his tongue and it was necessary to remove the entire tongue in getting at the source of the trouble. On account of the operation it was stated. Mr. Metcalf could not only never sing again, but would be dumb for the rest of his life. As he has been a widely known singer in New York churches for more than twenty years, the information that his voice was ruined greatly disturbed his friends.

To anxious inquirers, his relatives gave assurances that the reports were grossly exaggerated and that the throat trouble necessitating the operation involved only a small part of the tongue on which there was the beginning of a cancerous growth. Mr. Metcalf, it was said, would certainly be able to talk after his recovery, and probably sing as well.

At Mr. Metcalf's business address, 2 West Thirty-ninth street, many callers expressed their sympathy, only to be informed that the alarming reports were without foundation.

To a TIMES reporter, a business associate of Mr. Metcalf, speaking on behalf of the family, said that all of the physicians on the case agreed that Mr. Metcalf would be able to talk again, but there was some doubt as to the probability of his being able to sing. He referred the reporter to Dr. Robert Abbe for confirmation of his view. Dr. Abbe said, however, that he made it a rule never to give information about his cases, and anyway he was interested in this case only as a consulting physician.

Mr. Metcalf was formerly manager of the Meriden Britannia Company and is an intimate friend of many old New York families, including the Vanderbilts and Ledyards. He has been prominent in the affairs of the New York Yacht Club. Since 1877 he has been a member of the Mendelssohn Society, singing in both its glee club and quartet. His first appearance as a church choir soloist was made at the Zion Protestant Episcopal Church more than a score of years ago. Afterward he was soloist at the Madison Avenue Episcopal Church and in recent years has been soloist in the Grace Church choir.

At the hospital last night it was said that his condition was satisfactory, but no information was obtainable as to the nature of the operation from which he is convalescing.

the profit facts of the combing Cotton Gin:

The Southern Combing Gin Co. of Chattanooga, has been building and selling the Cotton Combing Gin for three years—has orders in hand now for 110 gins at $300 each—which cost (with present facilities) $132 to build, leaving a profit of $168 per gin—or a total profit of $18,480 on total cost of $14,520.

This one order alone represents a profit on the total paid up capital of the company ($150,000) of more than 10%.

And prospective orders for nearly 1,000 gins to be delivered in 1912 represents more than 55 per cent. profit on the total capitalization ($250,000.) We need $100,000 more to finance the delivery of gins for 1912, and this amount will enable us to increase our plant and facilities so as to reduce the cost per gin to $98, increasing our profit per gin to $202.

We offer to investors in fractional shares of $10 each or in blocks up to 100 shares at par ($100) each an opportunity which has not been equalled in years.

We are a healthy, going concern — conservatively managed—owning the only practical improvement on the Cotton Gin since Eli Whitney invented it in 1792.

We have not issued Preferred Stock or bonds nor are we giving promoters a bonus to get investors' money.

$100 of every share will be used to further this business.

EAST SIDE DINERS HEAR THE MAYOR

On the Law-Abiding Police, the Delights of the Country, and Their Own Respectability.

STILL HAUNTED BY HEARST

"He'll Have Me in the Pillory Again To-morrow"—But No Man Was Ever Libeled Down Yet, Not Even "Grandpa" Stover.

Mayor Gaynor who, with Tenement House Commissioner Murphy, Supreme Court Justice Seabury, and Tax Commissioner Purdy, has been an honorary Vice President of the East Side Club ever since it was organized, two years ago, was the guest of honor last night at the club's second annual dinner at Lorber's Restaurant in Grand Street.

Some 200 prosperous residents attended and gave the Mayor one of the most enthusiastic receptions ever had here. At the speaker's table with him sat President William Lustgarten of the club, Commissioner Murphy, Tax Commissioner Purdy, Justice Seabury, Park Commissioner Stover, to whom Mayor Gaynor alluded affectionately as "Grandpa Stover"; Sheriff-elect Harburger, and F. C. Leubuscher.

"Many people think the east side is afflicted with nothing but poverty and ignorance," said the Mayor, when his turn to speak came. "To me you seem pretty prosperous looking folk. As for your ignorance, there is a philosopher to every square foot of the east side. I leave the people who say foolish things about the east side to by friend Barondess, whom, I may as well say, I reappointed to the Board of Education to-day. [Applause.]

"In my opinion, the people of the east side, in lineage and sentiment, are the equal of any residing in this city. They come from a people who have produced great things, including a literature which we are glad to read in all our churches, whether Jewish or Christian. I did notice when I came down here the congestion of the population. This is unfortunate, but it is not as bad as some folks would make it appear.

"As a matter of fact, if all the people in the world were crowded into New York, there would be two square feet of ground for each of them to stand upon. If all the people of the world, on the other hand, were put into the State of Texas, there would be a whole acre for every six persons. So you see this world of ours is still large enough for its population, though the tendency people have toward congestion, especially in the case of your race, makes me agree with the advice of the speaker at the Educational Alliance, the other day, who urged you to leave the east side and go out on the farms.

There is no reason nowadays why your race shouldn't go out on farms. In the days of the Old Testament, you were an agricultural people and you may become one again. There is a lot of room for farmers in this country. And there are in this city a large number of peddlers and push cart men—the greater part of whom, I fear are not licensed—who would be much better off in the country.

"There was once a reason for the Jews not becoming farmers. Once they couldn't own land, and they could hardly sit down in one country before they were chased into another. This chapter in the world's history is disagreeable to dwell on. It was a great mistake. We all see it now. But in this free country to-day there is no reason why the Jews should not take themselves back to the country again.

"I sympathize with Mr. Straus in his desire to see this, and I think the people themselves of the east side are realizing the necessity of it. The exodus from the east side to Brooklyn during the last fifteen years has caused the population of Brownsville to become nearly 200,000, and has caused the Williamsburgh Bridge to be called the 'Jewish Passover.' Brownsville, indeed, has become almost as congested as the east side; and it is strange that those good people—those awfully good people—who are always talking about the necessity of having more parks on the east side, haven't tried to reserve space for parks over in Brownsville. But awfully good people are not very farsighted, sometimes. That is one of their amiable traits.

"You east side philosophers have followed strange gods—and demagogues—[Laughter] in the past. But we get over that mighty quick. I hate to trample on a man when he's down. [A voice: "We don't read those papers any more."] You find yourself lauded by an individual who never comes down to see you but once a year, but you know how to wink your left eye.

"Sensationalists say that your children are starving. But I visit your public schools every now and then, and I think your children look very intelligent and very well fed. You residents of the east side are the politest people in this city. When I am offered a seat in a street car nine times out of ten it is some one from the east side who offers it. When I walked through this section during the 'mutiny' several weeks ago I was warned that I would be assaulted. Some folks think you're a dreadful lot. But I found nothing but the highest respect for the Mayor of the city.

"The women down here, too, live cheaply. They're not like the women in other parts of the city. That brings up the subject of the high cost of living. It has become fashionable to denounce the business interests of the country. I have no sympathy with this practice. If prices are normally high, so much the better for the country. High prices are not necessarily an evil. You are all trying to get as high prices as you can, aren't you? [Laughter.] Put that in the crown of your hat and carry it around with you. Low prices are the real evil. When the time of low prices comes, then every one will complain."

"High prices, if not produced by monopoly, are a good condition. The chief cause of high prices at present I believe is the excessive production of gold. The more gold we have in circulation, the less that gold will buy. Get the idea out of your heads, on the other hand, that monopoly, even the worst kind of a monopoly, can make prices to suit itself. Even if a corporation had cornered all of a raw product and was able to manufacture all of it, the corporation couldn't make the price of the manufactured product to suit itself, for as soon as the corporation began paying the producer too little, the production of the raw material would fall off.

"Your Chairman has alluded to the fact that since I took office, I have relieved you from undue interference from the police. I have tried to do this. I had a pretty hard time doing it. Some people in this country think that the nicest thing in the world is to let the police knock every one on the head. No policeman has the right to put even so much as his little finger on you except by law. I have tried to lessen this growing evil.

"In the first year of my administration the number of arrests without warrants were 50,000 less than the year before. The public cried out that there was a 'crime wave.' People said that these 50,000 fewer people not arrested were all burglars and thieves; but I took the figures myself and analyzed them. I showed that the falling off of arrests was in petty things.

"However, there was an epidemic of crime, according to the Hearst newspapers. But I'll say nothing. He'll have me in the pillory again to-morrow. He fights me with $80,000,000 and three newspapers, and I haven't even got one newspaper with which to defend myself. No gentleman would do that. I leave people alone so far as I can and believe in allowing people to be left alone. When I went to the ball game, I didn't even allow a single policeman inside. Their lawyers visited me and said, 'there'll be a big riot.' There wasn't. Americans don't start riots.

"We don't need police in this free country. The police now understand that their business is to deal with criminals and not with decent people—except at some theatre when there's some difference of dramatic opinion to settle. Don't pay any attention to vulgar cuts and nasty slurs. Stand by the decent people you've put into office. Stand by 'Grandpa' Stover over there. o man was ever libeled down in this free country yet."

Throughout his speech the Mayor was heartily applauded.

SHIFT OF TOBACCO MEN.

Leaving Trust and Moving to Offices of New Companies—New Directors.

As a result of the enforced reorganization of the American Tobacco Company a number of employes and a several officers will be transferred to St. Louis, which will be the headquarters of the newly formed Liggett & Myers Company. A large number of stenographers and clerks will be technically discharged by the original company, but places will be found for most of them in the new companies. The headquarters of the Lorillard Company will be in Jersey City.

A report that W. W. Fuller, general counsel for the American Tobacco Company, will resign was denied last night. As the court's decree specified that none of the four companies could have any officers or Directors in common, several members of the American Tobacco Company's board will resign at the forthcoming stockholders' meeting, to take places with the new companies.

W. R. Harris, a Vice President and Director, will resign and go to London in connection with the affairs of the British-American Tobacco Company.

Two of these companies have elected these officers:

P. Lorillard Company.—President—T. J. Maloney; Vice Presidents—R. K. Smith, D. H. Ball, B. L. Belt, H. D. Kingsbury, and G. H. Hummell; Secretary and Treasurer—W. B. Rhett. Directors—T. J. Maloney, R. K. Smith, D. H. Ball, B. L. Belt, H. D. Kingsbury, W. B. Rhett, George M. Williams, George H. Hummell, and T. C. Smith.

COUNSEL GO OVER THE CUMMINS CASE

TRIAL INVALID, SAYS STEUER

Cummins Out of His Cell Again and in Private Quarters in the Jail Yard.

Supreme Court Justice Cohalan heard argument yesterday on William J. Cummins's application for a certificate of reasonable doubt which would enable his release on bail, pending his appeal from a conviction of stealing $140,000 from a trust fund in the Carnegie Trust Company. He reserved decision and gave the District Attorney's office till Tuesday to file an answering brief.

Max D. Steuer, attorney for Cummins, said that Cummins's rights had been violated by making him testify before the Grand Jury, and that matters on which he had been questioned by the Grand Jury were introduced against him at his trial. Mr. Steuer also raised the objection that the criminal term of the Supreme Court in which Cummins was tried, known as the April term, but held in October, was really not a court at all, because it had been adjourned during the Summer sine die. He also said that testimony on many irrelevant and collateral subjects had been introduced into the trial, to the prejudice of Cummins, and that there were 3,000 or more legal objections to evidence, all of them sufficient to make the trial invalid on the record. He offered to let Assistant District Attorney Moss pick out 500 of these objections from the record and keep them as a present.

Assistant District Attorney Moss said that Cummins was not examined on his trial about any of the business about which he was questioned before the Grand Jury.

Cummins was again transferred from his cell in the Tombs yesterday to the Warden's quarters in the little shanty outside of the Tombs proper, but within the high wall surrounding it.

Warden Fallon when asked about the change said:

"Yes, it is true that Cummins is in the shanty again, but I did not put him there of my own accord. It was done at the request of Deputy Commissioner Wright of the Department of Corrections, who gave me an order to that effect today."

Commissioner Wright could not be seen yesterday, but Commissioner Whitney said that he had given no orders to transfer Cummins from his cell, and did not know that any one in his office had done so. He said:

"The Warden is responsible. He has the right to do as he wishes with prisoners in the Tombs."

District Attorney Whitman refused to discuss the case further than to say that he had given no orders to the effect that Cummins should be treated any different from any other prisoner. He hinted that there might be a Grand Jury investigation into the matter.
